组编前言

21 世纪是一个变幻难测的世纪，是一个催人奋进的时代。科学技术飞速发展，知识更替日新月异。希望、困惑、机遇、挑战，随时随地都有可能出现在每一个社会成员的生活之中。抓住机遇，寻求发展，迎接挑战，适应变化的制胜法宝就是学习——依靠自己学习、终生学习。

作为我国高等教育组成部分的自学考试，其职责就是在高等教育这个水平上倡导自学、鼓励自学、帮助自学、推动自学，为每一个自学者铺就成才之路。组织编写供读者学习的教材就是履行这个职责的重要环节。毫无疑问，这种教材应当适合自学，应当有利于学习者掌握和了解新知识、新信息，有利于学习者增强创新意识，培养实践能力，形成自学能力，也有利于学习者学以致用，解决实际工作中所遇到的问题。具有如此特点的书，我们虽然沿用了“教材”这个概念，但它与那种仅供教师讲、学生听，教师不讲、学生不懂，以“教”为中心的教科书相比，已经在内容安排、编写体例、行文风格等方面都大不相同了。希望读者对此有所了解，以便从一开始就树立起依靠自己学习的坚定信念，不断探索适合自己的学习方法，充分利用自己已有的知识基础和实际工作经验，最大限度地发挥自己的潜能，达到学习的目标。

欢迎读者提出意见和建议。

祝每一位读者自学成功。

英语（二）自学考试大纲

出版前言

为了适应社会主义现代化建设事业的需要，鼓励自学成才，我国在20世纪80年代初建立了高等教育自学考试制度。高等教育自学考试是个人自学、社会助学和国家考试相结合的一种高等教育形式。应考者通过规定的专业考试课程并经思想品德鉴定达到毕业要求的，可获得毕业证书；国家承认学历并按照规定享有与普通高等学校毕业生同等的有关待遇。经过30年来的发展，高等教育自学考试为国家培养、造就了大批专门人才。

课程自学考试大纲是国家规范自学者学习范围、要求和考试标准的文件。它是按照专业考试计划的要求，具体指导个人自学、社会助学、国家考试、编写教材、编写自学辅导书的依据。

随着社会经济的快速发展，新的法律、法规不断出台，科技成果不断涌现，原大纲中有些内容过时、知识陈旧。为更新教育观念，深化教学内容方式、考试制度、质量评价制度改革，使自学考试更好地提高人才培养的质量，各专业委员会按照专业考试计划的要求，对原课程自学考试大纲组织了修订或重编。

修订后的大纲，在层次上，专科参照一般普通高校专科或高职院校的水平，本科参照一般普通高校本科水平；在内容上，力图反映学科的发展变化，增补了自然科学和社会科学近年的研究成果，对明显陈旧的内容进行了删减。

全国高等教育自学考试指导委员会外语类专业委员会组织制定了《英语（二）自学考试大纲》，经教育部批准，现颁发施行。各地教育部门、考试机构应认真贯彻执行。

一、课程的性质和设置目的

高等教育自学考试是一种个人自学、社会助学和国家考试相结合的高等教育形式。为适应新形势，提高自学效率、助学质量和考试效能，满足国家和社会对人才培养的需要，特制定本课程考试大纲。

英语是世界上使用最广泛的语言。它不仅是英国、美国、加拿大、澳大利亚、新西兰等国的通用语言，也是许多非英语国家科学技术、外交、贸易、管理和文化等方面对外交流的通用语言。英语已成为名副其实的国际通用语言，它是我国实行对外开放，开展国际交流的重要工具之一。

本课程名称为“英语（二）”，是高等教育自学考试各专业（英语专业除外）本科阶段的公共基础课。

本课程既是一门语言实践课程，也是拓宽知识、了解世界文化的重要素质课程，它以培养学习者的综合语言应用能力为目标，使他们在学习、工作和社会交往中能够使用英语进行有效的交流，并能学习和借鉴外国先进科学技术、经营方式、管理方法和优秀文化成果，同时向世界展示我国建设和发展的成就。

本课程共 14 学分。

二、课程的基本内容

本课程以先进的外语教学理论为指导，建立适应时代要求的科学的课程体系。课程体系包括适合个人自学和社会助学的教材，并利用现代信息技术等手段搭建先进的教学平台，形成有自考特色的公共英语教学体系。

本课程在完成“英语（一）”课程内容基础上，培养学生掌握系统的英语语言知识，包括正确的英语语音知识、系统的英语语法知识和一定的词汇量（4,500），并熟悉英语语言的表达方式。

本课程强调在系统掌握英语语言知识的基础上开展大量综合语言实践活动，培养学习者掌握正确的学习策略，使其能理解多种场合、多种领域的普通语言材料，能够把握重点，进行概括和分析；能使用多种交际策略参与多种一般性话题的交流和讨论，表明自己的观点和态度，表达连贯，基本得体，为以后更高阶段的英语课程学习及在工作中使用英语奠定扎实的基础。

三、课程的基本要求

通过本课程的学习,考生应达到以下基本要求:

1. 听力理解:能在许多社交、日常工作和学习环境中听懂他人语速正常、话语清晰的讲话和发言,抓住重点并掌握细节;能听懂话题熟悉但内容抽象的讲话或发言,抓住主要内容,掌握讲话者的目的、态度等。
2. 口头表达:能在多数社交和工作场合自信并有效地与他人交流;能就一般性话题进行讲述或参与讨论,能陈述理由、表明观点和态度;交谈中能够使用有效的会话策略。
3. 阅读理解:能读懂工作、生活或学习等场合有一定长度的应用文,准确理解其内容;能阅读一般性报纸或杂志文章、小说等,抓住所读材料的主旨、关键信息或重要细节,领会字里行间的意义及作者的观点或意图;能看懂有一定长度的介绍性或说明性材料,能掌握梗概,从中找到所需的特定信息;能在阅读中使用有效的阅读方法。
4. 书面表达:能撰写一般场合或一定工作范围内的应用文或普通工作文件,格式正确,语言表达清楚、通顺;能对所听、所读材料进行总结,有条理地写出说明、摘要或简要报告;能够撰写一般性文章,就具体或一般性抽象话题进行描述、阐释或说明,用词恰当,表达通顺;能正确反映客观情况,表达自己的观点。

四、命题

“英语(二)”命题按照标准化测试要求设计。命题的广度和难度依据本大纲规定的知识范围和能力要求确定。部分命题素材取自《英语(二)自学教程》。统考以阅读和写作为主,听、说不做统考要求。

统考试题包括客观性试题和主观性试题,分别占卷面总分的55%和45%。试卷由七部分组成,包括:阅读判断、阅读选择、概括段落大意和补全句子、填句补文、填词补文、完形补文以及短文写作。现对试卷内容及结构分别说明如下:

第一部分 阅读判断

该部分要求考生能够理解文中明确表达的概念或细节,推断隐含表达的内容,理解全

文主旨和作者所持观点态度；能够根据上下文推测生词意义，理解句间关系和语篇结构。该部分短文选自英语国家大众读物及旅游手册、操作说明等真实语料，根据语言难度作适当调整，对无法猜测而又影响理解的关键词，用汉语注明词义。所选短文题材覆盖广泛，涉及叙述、说明、议论等不同体裁。

该部分要求考生在读懂 1 篇 350 词左右短文的基础上，对给出的 10 个句子所表达的信息作出判断，有的信息是正确的，有的是错误的，有的文中没有提到。

该部分共 10 小题。每小题 1 分，共计 10 分。

第二部分 阅读选择

该部分要求考生：理解文章主旨和要义；把握文章的基本结构；理解文中说明要点的事实和细节；作出简单推理和判断；根据上下文推断生词的释义；领会作者的意图、观点和态度。

该部分选用 1 篇长度 350 词左右的短文，题材包括人文、科技、经济、环境、卫生等热点话题，文中会适当给出个别生词的中文释义。短文后设有 5 个题目，要求考生从每题后 4 个备选项中选出最佳选项。

该部分共 5 小题。每小题 2 分，共计 10 分。

第三部分 概括段落大意和补全句子

该部分包括 1 篇短文（400 词左右）和 2 项任务：概括段落大意和补全句子。其中概括段落大意部分旨在考查考生宏观把握文章结构、概括段落大意和提取关键信息的能力。该任务设有 5 或 6 个概括句或小标题，这些标题或文字分别是对文章各段落的概括和阐述，其中 1 个为干扰项，要求考生根据文章内容选出最恰当的段落大意或小标题。补全句子部分主要考查考生定位查找关键信息的能力。该任务设有 5 或 6 个不完整的句子和 6 或 7 个备选项，所填内容一般为名词短语、动宾短语、形容词结构、非谓语形式或简短的从句等，要求考生把符合题意的选项填入空格，完成每个句子。

该部分共 10 小题。每小题 1 分，共计 10 分。

第四部分 填句补文

该部分主要考查考生对文章语段特征（如连贯性和一致性等）的识辨能力以及把握文章结构的能力。要求考生从整体上把握文章的逻辑结构和内容上的联系，理解句子之间、段落之间的关系，并具备运用语法知识分析理解长难句的能力。

该部分选用 1 篇总长度约 400 词的短文，所选材料多是观点鲜明、条理清楚的说明文或议论文。要求考生在理解文章整体结构以及段落之间、单句之间关系的基础上，从所给的 6 个备选项中选出对应的 5 项。

该部分共 5 小题。每小题 2 分, 共计 10 分。

第五部分 填词补文

该部分考查考生对文章及语篇中词汇的理解能力。所选短文一般为 250~300 词, 题材涉及科普知识、社会热点等。短文中留出 10 个词汇的空格, 要求考生从所给 12 个备选单词中选择符合上下文语境的词汇填入相应空白处, 使短文意思通顺、表达正确; 2 个非正确选项具有强干扰性。考查的词汇主要涉及名词、动词、形容词、副词等。短文首句不设空格, 两个空格之间会有一定间隔, 以保证考生对篇章的正确理解。

该部分共 10 小题。每小题 1.5 分, 共计 15 分。

第六部分 完形补文

该部分考查考生综合理解和运用语言的能力。要求考生准确掌握词语拼写, 熟练掌握派生、屈折变化等构词方法; 具备语篇分析能力, 能够通过上下文意义和文章结构对具体词语的意义、词性、时体和情态等方面的应用作出有效分析。短文选自英语国家大众报纸杂志, 内容涉及传记、社会文化、日常知识、科普常识等常见话题。

该部分要求考生在通读 1 篇约 150 词短文(被删除 10 个单词)的基础上, 将与空白处对应的提示词转换成适当的词汇形式填入文中, 使短文意义完整、语法正确。

该部分共 10 小题。每小题 1.5 分, 共计 15 分。

第七部分 短文写作

该部分考查考生的书面表达能力。要求考生根据所给情境写出不少于 150 词(不计算标点符号)的文章。提供情境的形式有图画、图表、文字等。考生需要就具体或一般性抽象话题进行描述、阐释或说明, 用词恰当, 表达通顺; 能正确反映客观情况, 表达自己的观点; 能准确使用所学语言知识, 根据写作要求清楚、有条理、连贯地表达自己的意思。

该部分 1 个题目, 30 分。

五、考试

本课程的考试采用闭卷方式, 统考采用笔试。考试时间为 150 分钟。试卷满分为 100 分, 60 分及格。本课程考试采用统一设计的答题卡。考生必须将所有试题的答案按要求填涂和书写在答题卡对应的位置。

六、学习方法

现代社会竞争日益激烈,生活节奏不断加快,部分考生能脱产学习或参加社会助学,但很多考生很难有机会脱产到学校学习,甚至也无法参加业余社会助学。因此,自考学习者可采用社会助学,也可以走个人自学的途径,处理工学矛盾。无论是参加社会助学还是个人自学,考生都应该采取相应的学习策略和方法,提高备考效率。

1. 走个人自学途径

已经具备了高中生英语水平且有一定自学能力的考生,可以走个人自学途径。个人自学可采取以下策略:

1) 明确学习目标

考生一定要确定自己的学习目标。学英语是细水长流、循序渐进、一步一个脚印的过程,不能毫无目标,学到哪里算哪里。学习目标包括长期目标和短期目标。例如,你的长期目标是要精读 2 本教材,复习、识记 4,500 个词汇,阅读一本语法书,泛读 30,000 词的阅读材料等,短期目标是 3 到 5 个月要完成的学习任务。一旦确定了学习目标,就要满怀热情,克服困难,努力实现预设的目标。

2) 制订学习计划

成人学习者的学习要体现计划性,根据自己的能力、智力、原有基础、工作和家庭实际情况,制订学习计划、安排自学时间,从现有起点扎扎实实一步步往前推进。要有时间管理和学习内容安排计划。在工作之余,每天都要挤出一定的时间自学英语,或听、或说、或读、或写。还可以在上下班的路上或做家务时听录音或英文歌曲,增强语感。

3) 摸索学习方法

恰当的学习方法是提高学习效率的捷径。考生的工作和生活环境、学习条件和学习兴趣各不相同,学习方法也因人而异。考生应根据自身水平和学习习惯,摸索适合自己的方法,增加语言实践,巩固学习成果。例如,考生可以大量阅读英语读物,通过各种手段听广播或看视频材料,还可以通过网络寻找口、笔语交流的对象,使自己学习的内容在运用中不断巩固和内化。学习语言,不要赶进度、求快,而应该真正把一本一的书读懂、读透,再辅以大量的泛听、泛读和写作的练习,逐步培养良好的语感。

2. 走社会助学途径

只要条件许可,考生都可以走社会助学途径。参加社会助学的考生能够在老师的指导下系统地学习语言知识并获得语言实践的机会,能够及时地通过老师解决学习中的困难和

问题。因此,他们比个人自学的考生更有优势。然而,参加社会助学的考生往往容易存在依赖心理,缺乏主动学习的精神,学习效果也可能不理想。

参加社会助学的考生要取得理想的学习效果,也要讲究学习方法,并努力克服学习上的依赖性,走向自主学习。有自主学习能力的考生具有独立性和责任心,能够主动设计自己的学习,积极参与课堂互动,采取有效的方法,提高学习效果。

七、社会助学

高等教育自学考试是一种个人自学、社会助学和国家考试相结合的高等教育形式。“英语(二)”是一门实践性很强的课程,完全通过自学达到大纲要求是比较困难的。《高等教育自学考试暂行办法》指出:国家鼓励企业、事业单位和其他社会力量,根据高等教育自学考试的专业考试计划和课程自学考试大纲的要求,通过电视、广播、函授、面授等多种形式开展助学活动。社会助学使广大考生有机会接受校园文化熏陶,可以帮助考生系统学习本门课程,解决考生在学习过程中遇到的疑难问题,增强考生参加自学考试的信心和决心,提高学习效率和自学考试质量。但是,社会助学不能只局限于课堂教学,可以同时开展计算机网络助学。考生只要有电脑、网络和学习软件,学习就可以不受时间和地点限制,使自学考试从单一的考试制度转变成一种教育制度,从而推动自学考试的可持续发展。

八、教材

本课程考试为英语水平考试,主要按照设定的标准考查考生的语言能力。必读书目为全国高等教育自学考试公共课《英语(二)自学教程》。考试命题虽不完全基于该教材,但它提供了本课程考试的内容和要求,是学习者和考生掌握英语和通过本考试的重要载体。

英语（二）试卷

（课程代码 00015）

本试卷共 9 页，满分 100 分，考试时间 150 分钟。

考生答卷前必须将自己的姓名和准考证号写在答题卡上。

必须在答题卡上答题，写在试卷上的答案无效。

第一部分：阅读判断（第 1~10 题，每题 1 分，共 10 分）

下面的短文后列出了 10 个句子，请根据短文的内容对每个句子作出判断：如果该句提供的是正确信息，选择 A；如果该句提供的是错误信息，选择 B；如果该句的信息文中没有提及，选择 C，并在答题卡相应位置上将答案选项涂黑。

When We Are Asleep

Everyone dreams, but some people never recall their dreams, or do so very rarely. Other people always wake up with vivid recollections (回忆) of their dreams, though they forget them very quickly. In an average night of eight hours' sleep, an average adult will dream for around one hundred minutes, probably having three to five dreams, each lasting from ten to thirty minutes.

Scientists can detect when someone is having a dream by using an instrument which measures the electrical waves in the brain. During dreaming, these waves move more quickly. Breathing and pulse rate also increase, and there are rapid eye movements under the eye lids, just as though the dreamer were really looking at some moving objects. These signs of dreaming have been detected in all mammals studied, including dogs, monkeys, cats, and elephants, and also some birds and reptiles (爬行动物). This period of sleep is called the "D" state. Babies experience the "D" state for around 50% of their sleep; the period reduces to around 25% by the age of 10.

Dreams take the form of stories, but they may be strange and with incidents not closely connected, which make little sense. Dreams are seldom without people in them and they are usually about people we know. One estimate says that two-thirds of the "cast" of our dream dramas are friends and relations. Vision seems an essential part of dreams, except for people blind from birth. Sound and touch are senses also often aroused, but smell and taste are not frequently involved. In "normal" dreams, the dreamer may be taking part, or be only an observer. But he or she cannot control what happens in the dream.

However, the dreamer does have control over one type of dream. This type of dream is called a "lucid" (清醒的) dream. Not everyone is a lucid dreamer. Some people are occasional lucid dreamers. Others can dream lucidly more or less all the time. In a lucid dream, the dreamer knows that he is dreaming.

1. Some people dream but cannot remember their dreams.

Tap Dancing (踢踏舞)

Most of the arts in America are a combination of ideas and influences from many sources. Tap dancing certainly fits in this category. It is truly an American art, but it has been influenced by English and Irish dance steps as well as steps from Africa.

Some historians argue that tap dancing was first done by slaves on Southern plantations in North America, and that originally steps were done wearing soft-soled shoes. Irish step dancing, which also involves intricate (复杂的) foot patterns, contributed the movement of the free leg to one side and the swing of the elbows outward. Wooden clog shoes were worn as tap dancing evolved, but for a long time the steps were done flat-footed.

Tap dancing developed into the form we recognize today in the early 20th century. Metal taps were added to dance shoes, and a number of new techniques were perfected. One of the most important was the change from the flat-footed step to dancing on the balls of the feet. This is commonly attributed to dancer Bill Robinson. Another was the “cramp roll,” in which the dancer would rapidly move from the ball of the right foot to the ball of the left, and then to the heel of each foot. This separation of the steps into distinct areas of the foot, an innovation by dancer John Bubbles, allowed dancers to improvise even more new patterns. Slides across the floor and movements up and down stairs further enlivened tap. So did relaxed arm and shoulder movements. Challenges became a common part of dance routines, with dancers competing very hard to outperform (胜过) each other with new and difficult steps.

Many dancers excelled at tap and contributed to its development. Besides Bill Robinson and John Bubbles, well-known tappers have included Sammy Davis, Jr., Fred Astaire, Eleanor Powell, Gregory Hines, and Savion Glover.

11. This text is mainly about _____.

The Weight Experiment

Nicola Walters has been taking part in experiments in Scotland to discover why humans gain and lose weight. Being locked in a small room called a 'calorimeter' (热量测量室) is one way to find out.

① The signs above the two rooms read simply 'Chamber One' and 'Chamber Two'. These are the calorimeters: 4m by 2m white-walled rooms where human volunteers are locked up in the name of science. Outside these rooms another sign reads 'Please do not enter — work in progress' and in front of the rooms advanced machinery registers every move the volunteers make. Each day, meals measured to the last gram are passed through a hole in the wall of the calorimeter to the resident volunteer.

② Nicola Walters is one of twenty volunteers who, over the past eight months, have spent varying periods inside the calorimeter. Tall and slim, Nicola does not have a weight problem, but thought the strict diet might help with her training and fitness programme. A self-employed community dance worker, she was able to fit the experiment in around her work. She saw an advertisement for volunteers at her local gym and as she is interested in the whole area of diet and exercise, she thought she would help out.

③ The experiment on Nicola involved her spending one day on a fixed diet at home and the next in the room. This sequence was repeated four times over six weeks. She arrived at the calorimeter at 8:30 am on each of the four mornings and from then on everything she ate or drank was carefully measured. Her every move was noted too, her daily exercise routine timed to the last second. At regular intervals, after eating, she filled in forms about how hungry she felt and samples were taken for analysis.

⑤ It seems that some foods encourage you to eat more, while others satisfy you quickly. Volunteers are already showing that high-fat diets are less likely to make you feel full. Believing that they may now know what encourages people to overeat, the researchers are about to start testing a high-protein weight-loss diet. Volunteers are required and Nicola has signed up for further sessions.

第四部分：填句补文（第 26~30 题，每题 2 分，共 10 分）

下面的短文有 5 处空白，短文后有 6 个句子，其中 5 个取自短文，请根据短文内容将其分别放回原有位置，以恢复文章原貌，并在答题卡相应位置上将答案选项涂黑。

Teaching Children to Spend Pocket Money Wisely

School-going children need pocket money for food, stationery and bus fares. Parents give pocket money to their children in different ways. Some give a lump sum at the beginning of a month or a week. Others prefer to give pocket money on a daily basis. 26 On the other hand, the children's spending habits may affect how pocket money is given.

Pocket money given on a daily basis is sometimes termed as "food money". Children usually use the pocket money to buy food during recess and also at lunch hour if they have school activities in the afternoon. They learn how to manage small sums of money. 27 Some parents choose this method of allocating pocket money in order to prevent their children from overspending, hoping that in time they can be trusted with larger sums of money.

Giving pocket money on a daily basis places responsibilities of budgeting on the parents, instead of the child. The child may spend every single cent of the daily pocket money by overindulging in junk food as they know they will get another sum of money the next day. This results in children being shortsighted in their spending. The thought of saving money never crossed their minds. 28 Others spend more than they are given. They borrow from their siblings or their classmates when they feel like indulging themselves. Then they may ask for money to pay off their debts. This habit of borrowing causes them to depend on others to solve their problems. In such instances, the purpose of rationing is defeated.

Children need to learn how to budget their money. The key to doing this is to differentiate between needs and wants. 29 This habit, when inculcated since young, stands them in good stead when they start working and earning their own money. It enables them to resist the temptation of “buy now and pay later” schemes.

Formation of any habit starts at a tender age. There is no better way to teach children to manage money than to start with their pocket money. They need to learn the importance of budgeting right from kindergarten days. 30 When children learn to spend within their means, they are able to manage their finances well later in their lives.

- A. It is a good idea to start with daily pocket money and move on to monthly pocket money.
- B. The way in which pocket money is given affects how money is spent or saved.
- C. Buy the necessary first, and indulge ourselves only if there is money left.
- D. As the money is limited, they have to control their spending.
- E. Parents who earn daily wages may also opt for this due to financial constraints.
- F. They may develop the mentality that money is meant to be spent.

第五部分：填词补文（第 31~40 题，每题 1.5 分，共 15 分）

下面的短文有 10 处空白，短文后列出 12 个词，其中 10 个取自短文，请根据短文内容将其分别放回原有位置，以恢复文章原貌，并在答题卡相应位置上将答案选项涂黑。

Teach Your Kids at Home

As most kids went back to school at the beginning of the semester in the fall, a small but growing army of parents just said no to school. Some people like Jean Forbes thought their children needed 31 attention. Forbes is a former actress whose current career is teaching her two sons. Her son Allen is dyslexic (有诵读困难的). She 32 him out of public school six years ago because she felt teachers weren't helping him enough.

Other parents want to give their kids the chance to follow their 33 rather than a textbook. Outside Los Angeles, Nancy Kinsey's kids are studying bats right now. They study everything from their diet to their wing span to the specifics of their natural habitat. They have even built a bat house in the backyard, and this task 34 many hours of practical math problems.

There are also parents who choose home schooling to solve what they think is a short-term problem and find a long-term challenge. Eric and Joyce Burgess 35 home schooling nearly a decade ago after their son Eric Jr. had a disastrous year at a famous high school. It was a(n) 36 at first; neither is a professional teacher. But as Eric Jr.'s confidence 37 at home, so did Joyce's, and she now teaches her other kids at home as well.

While there are no national statistics, researchers who study home schooling estimate that 1.5 million youngsters are currently being taught 38 by their mothers and fathers. That's five times the number of homeschoolers just a decade ago and bigger than the nation's largest public-school system of New York City. The 39 is especially remarkable in an era of two-income families, since it requires one parent to stay home at some financial sacrifice.

Despite all the advantages of home schooling, it is not a(n) 40 job. Home schooling is not something you should rush into; it is a commitment that has to be followed through.

第七部分：短文写作（第51题，30分）

51. 范文（略）

1) 评分原则

本题总分为30分，按5个等级打分。

本题按照总体评分打分，阅卷人应就总体印象给出奖励分，而不是按照语言错误的数量扣分。

打分时,先根据文章的内容要点、篇章结构和语言运用初步确定其所属的档次,然后依照该档次的具体要求酌情增减分数,最后给分。

应避免分数的集中趋势,即不能只给中间档次的分数。该打高分时就应打高分(包含满分);该打低分时就打低分(包含零分)。

拼写和标点符号是语言准确性的一个方面。打分时,应视其对交际的影响程度予以考虑。英式、美式拼写及语言用法均可以接受。

如书写较差影响交际,将分数降低一个档次;如字数明显少于要求,将分数降低一个档次。

2) 评分标准

第一档 25~30分:圆满完成了试题规定的任务。

- 清楚地表达了全部内容要点。
- 运用的语法结构和词汇能满足任务要求。
- 语言运用较为准确、恰当。

第二档 19~24分:完成了试题规定的任务。

- 清楚地表达了全部或关键内容要点。
- 运用的语法结构和词汇能满足任务的基本要求。
- 语言运用基本正确,虽有小错,但不影响理解。

第三档 13~18分:基本完成了试题规定的任务。

- 提及了关键内容要点(可能漏掉了个别内容)。
- 运用的语法结构和词汇满足任务的最低要求。
- 存在一些语言错误,但基本不影响理解。

第四档 7~12分:完成了一部分试题规定的任务。

- 遗漏或未能清楚表达内容要点,或写了一些无关内容。
- 语法结构和词汇的运用能力较差。
- 语言错误较多,部分错误影响理解。

第五档 1~6分:未完成试题规定的任务。

- 明显遗漏内容要点,或写了一些无关内容,可能由于未理解任务要求所致。
- 语法结构和词汇的运用能力很差。
- 语言错误很多,严重影响理解。

0分档:

未作答,或虽作答,但词不达意,或书写了与任务无关的内容。

十、样题解析

第一部分 阅读判断

- 1 答案: A。查找重要信息。该题干是文章第一句的同义改写。dream 一词在题干中复现, never 与 cannot 都表达否定意思, 而 recall 与 remember 意思接近。根据语义对比可以判断, 题干陈述正确。
- 2 答案: C。快速检索信息。题干表述的是有关男性和女性睡眠时间的对比。浏览全文, 发现只有婴儿与大人的对比以及梦的不同类型的对比, 但并未提及关于性别的对比。
- 3 答案: B。推断关键信息。题干表述的是做梦与脑电波的关系。由关键词 wave 可定位至第二段的“During dreaming, these waves move more quickly.”。从该句可以推理, 脑电波变化快, 应该是在单位时间里有更多的变化, 与所给句子中的 less movement 相反, 因此题干陈述错误。
- 4 答案: B。概括重要信息。由题干关键词 instruments 可定位至文章第二段, 该段列举了科学家判断人是否做梦的依据。其中明确指出需要借助仪器的是监测脑电波, 而观察呼吸、心跳和眼动, 不一定要借助仪器。因此, 并不是没有仪器, 科学家就无法查知一个人是否做梦。
- 5 答案: B。查找细节信息。需要判断的信息是“是否只有哺乳动物做梦”。第二段指出, 科学家已发现所有哺乳动物都做梦, 并列举了一些实例。但后面又写 and also some birds and reptiles, 因此可判断, 并不是只有 mammals 做梦。即使不了解 mammal 的意思, 也可以从句子结构上推断。因为如果 birds 和 reptiles 是和“dogs ... and elephants”并列, 那么就不需要使用两次 and, 因此, bird 和 reptile 是与 mammal 并列的。
- 6 答案: B。推断重要信息。第二段中“These signs of dreaming ... This period of sleep ...”是顺承关系, this period of sleep 也即 dreaming, 即“D” state 就是 dreaming 的时候。那么后面说婴儿睡眠时间中 50% 都是“D” state, 而到了 10 岁以后就下降到了 25%, 说明在整个睡眠时间中, 婴儿做梦比大孩子多。正好与

所给句子信息相反。题干表述错误。

- 7 答案: C。概括说明重点。第三段前半一半主要讲梦的内容, 指出梦中总是有人出现, 而且往往是我们认识的人, 大多数是我们的朋友和亲属。文中没有提到这些人是否与小时候的经历相关。因此无从判断所给句子的信息。
- 8 答案: C。概括说明重点。第三段主要说明了梦的内容(人物、故事)和主要呈现方式(视觉、听觉、触觉), 也就是“做梦的内容是什么”。但没有提到这些结论是如何获得的, 是通过采访叙述还是仪器监测。因此, 无法判断科学家是否已经能通过先进仪器监测人做梦的内容。
- 9 答案: A。查找细节信息。第三段提到“smell and taste are not frequently involved”, 题干中 often 与文中 frequently 同义。因此, 两句意义基本相同, 题干表述正确。
- 10 答案: A。概括段落大意。根据关键词 conscious 的词义, 可定位至短文最后一段, 该段着重讨论 lucid dream。文中给出的汉语释义“清醒的”与所给句子中的 be conscious 意义相近, 且文章最后一句“In a lucid dream, the dreamer knows that he is dreaming.”与所给句子基本同义。knows 也与 be conscious 意义相近。

第二部分 阅读选择

- 11 答案: D。主旨大意题。文章第一段讲述踢踏舞的缘起。第二段介绍了历史学家对踢踏舞来源以及特点的认识。第三段讲述踢踏舞的发展和变化。最后一段总结并肯定许多踢踏舞者对踢踏舞的发展作出的贡献。概括这四段, 不难发现, 文章主要论述踢踏舞的起源和发展。考生浏览四个备选项, 只有 D 选项与文章主旨一致, 而其他三个选项都是文内出现的部分细节, 不能概括全文。
- 12 答案: A。词义理解题。根据题干所考关键词 attributed 提示迅速定位至第三段的“This (change) is commonly attributed to dancer Bill Robinson.”。考生还可以根据后一句“... an innovation by dancer John Bubbles”判断 attributed 意为“贡献, 归功于”, 符合句义。而 A 选项意为“归功于”或“因某事赞扬某人”。其他备选项 B 意为“描述”, C 意为“寻求帮助”, D 意为“问询”, 均与文章不符。

- 13 答案: D. 事实细节题。该题四个备选答案都是人名, 考生可通过题干关键词 cramp roll 定位至文章第三段。通过人名和关键词匹配, 不难判断 D 选项正确。
- 14 答案: A. 事实细节题。文章第二段介绍了爱尔兰踢踏舞步法的特点, 第三段介绍了 Bill Robinson 和 John Bubbles 对舞步的改进, 这些都在说明踢踏舞复杂舞步的特点, 因此答案是 A。ball of the foot 的意思是“脚掌下面近拇趾根的球形部分”。
- 15 答案: D. 推理判断题。该题要求考生通过最后一段, 推测作者的写作意图。该段首句肯定并赞扬许多舞者对踢踏舞的发展作出的贡献, 紧接着作者列举了许多踢踏舞者的名字, 正是为了凸显他们的贡献。而选项 A、选项 B 和选项 C 的内容都未在文中体现出来。因此 D 选项“赞扬著名踢踏舞者的贡献”符合文意。

第三部分 概括段落大意和补全句子

Task 1

- 16 答案: C. 第一段第二行出现的 calorimeter 是个关键信息。该段主要介绍实验所需的设备和条件, 而前面内容主要针对 calorimeter 做了相关描述。故可很快选出答案 C。
- 17 答案: F. 第二段主要介绍了 Nicola 自愿参加这一实验的意图和目的, 虽然没有体重方面的问题, 但出于对饮食的调节和身材的保持, 她选择加入这一项目。据此考生浏览选项, 只有 F 符合原文段落主题。
- 18 答案: B. 该段的首句是主题句, “The experiment on Nicola involved her spending one day on a fixed diet at home and the next in the room”, 其中 involve 一词说明该实验所涉及的内容、要求和具体的环节, 并在后面逐一介绍。通过浏览各选项发现, B 选项中 programme 一词在原文中第四行出现了, 且和 experiment 同义。因此不难作出选择。
- 19 答案: E. 一般来说, 段落首句往往是主题句, 第四段的首句主要说明科学家帮助志愿者设定一个日程表以打发呆在屋子里的时间。后面详细介绍了读书、看电视等活动。据此可选择 E 选项, 即志愿者如何打发时间。

- 20 答案: D。现在只剩下两个选项, 考生可根据前面阅读后对文章大意的掌握, 排除 A, 而选择 D。况且 foods 一词在最后一段的首句出现。该段主要介绍哪些食物适合人的胃口, 题干中 to people's taste 正好符合这一意思。故选 D。

Task 2

- 21 答案: A。根据题干中的关键词 calorimeters 和 record, 考生可定位至首段, “... machinery registers every move the volunteers make.”, 其中 machinery 在原文出现, 且 record 和 register 同义, 考生据此可推断答案为 A。
- 22 答案: E。该题干结构完整, 说明所填部分应该是个从句, 故在 B、C、E 中选择, 根据句义 B 选项可首先排除。根据题干的意思 “Nicola 有时间完成实验是因为_____”, 考生浏览各段, 在文章第二段出现描写 Nicola 职业身份的句子 “self-employed community dance worker, she was able to fit the experiment in around her work”, 其中 self-employed 这个词很关键, 和备选项中 own boss 意思一致, 即非受雇于人的。
- 23 答案: C。该题干结构也比较完整, 后面需要填从句, 根据上面的分析, 只有 C 选项符合结构和句义。
- 24 答案: D。根据题干中的关键词 high-fat diets, 可定位至文章最后一段第二行, “high-fat diets are less likely to make you feel full. Believing that they may now know what encourages people to overeat”, 由此可知, 高脂饮食不大容易让人有饱腹感, 换言之, 会诱使人过量进食。原文和 D 选项句意一致。
- 25 答案: F。由题干中 “Researchers watched Nicola pedaling” 这一结构, 考生可定位至第四段, 最后一句话指出研究人员观察 Nicola 是为了 “make sure she didn't go too fast”, 也就是控制她蹬车的速度, 前后句义一致。不难选出 F 选项。

第四部分 填句补文

本文主要讲述如何培养孩子明智地使用零花钱, 以及父母如何帮助孩子养成明智花钱的习惯。文中五个空格都出现在段落中间。考生可跳过空格迅速浏览全文, 概括

各段落和各选项的大意，并用最简练的语言标记在段落和选项旁边，这样解题时就可以快速有效地回顾段落和选项的内容，以节省时间。概括段落和选项大意后，可以根据意义匹配和相似原则进行选择搭配，先初步选定大概所属段落，然后进一步分析和判断。

文章第一段对父母给孩子零花钱的方式做了简单分类；第二段介绍了一种父母给孩子零花钱的方式：每天给一次零花钱；第三段介绍了这种方式对孩子的花钱习惯带来的负面影响；第四段讲述了孩子养成做预算习惯的重要性；最后一段讲述了从小培养孩子理财习惯的意义。

26 答案：B。本段中空格的前文提到 way 和 give，空格之后的句子提到 give, spend 和 affect，这些词语都是很好的线索，应该引起考生注意，这是回答该题的关键。前文提到的新信息是“提供零花钱”和“方式”，后文提供的信息包括“影响”、“花费”等等都为空格处的答案提供暗示。空格处的内容应该衔接上下文的信息。只有 B 提到了“提供零花钱的方式影响花钱和攒钱的方式”，和空格前后的信息相关联，因此符合题意。

27 答案：D。第二段主要讲述的是父母每天给孩子一次零花钱对孩子的影响。孩子学习如何控制自己手中少量的钱。空格前的内容提到了孩子如何花费自己手中有限的钱，在空格后也提到了一些父母使用这种办法来控制孩子的过度消费。选项中只有 D 提供了类似的信息，而且 limited 和 small 呼应，prevent 和 control 呼应，体现了内容的一致性，因此 D 选项符合段落逻辑。

28 答案：F。第三段主要讲述这种提供零花钱的方式对孩子的花钱习惯带来的负面影响。空格前的内容提到了这种方式使孩子没有攒钱的习惯，空格后也提到了这种提供零花钱的方式使一些孩子过度消费，并举债。选项中，只有 F 提到了孩子

可能形成一种“钱就是用来花”的观念。这个句子符合第三段的逻辑发展,因此 F 选项是合适的。另外, F 选项中的“They may develop ...”与下文中的“Then they may ask for ...”结构上是一致的,所以, F 选项是符合题意的。

- 29 答案: C。第四段主要讲述孩子养成规划开支习惯的重要性。空格前的句子提到了学会规划开支的关键是区分需求和需要。C 选项提到的“先购买必需的, 只有当钱有结余的时候才去享受”是对前文的进一步解释。后文中所提到的“先购买, 后支付”也是对空格句的呼应。因此 C 选项符合题意。
- 30 答案: A。文章最后一段是对全文的总结, 讲述了从小养成理财习惯的重要性。空格前后的内容都指出从小养成理财习惯有益于未来个人的财务管理。空格中应该填写本文所讲述的具体方法。A 选项提出了父母如何提供零花钱的方法。这个信息又和本文的第一段相呼应, 并且特征词是文章第一段的重复。因此, A 选项符合题意。

第五部分 填词补文

- 31 答案: D (extra)。考生可以在阅读全文、理解主旨后, 推断该空应填形容词。该句的大意是“与琼·福布斯类似的一些人认为他们的孩子需要 _____ 关注。”从 2 个备选形容词中判断应选 D (额外的)。
- 32 答案: C (pulled)。考生可以先推断该空应填一个动词, 再看句子的大意, “她的儿子艾伦患有诵读困难症, 6 年前她决定让儿子从公立学校 _____, 因为她认为儿子得不到足够的关注。”此外, 该处还隐含着一个固定搭配, 即 pull sb out of (让某人从……退出), 从备选动词中选择 C, 构成“退学”这个搭配。
- 33 答案: G (interests)。根据上下文语境, 即“其他在家自己教孩子的家长认为孩子们应该得到机会发展自己的 _____, 而不是被教科书牵着鼻子走。”由此可以判断, 应该是一个名词。从备选名词来看, 只有 G (兴趣) 符合语境。
- 34 答案: A (required)。考生不难推断该空应该填动词, “……这项任务 _____ 好几个小时来解决数学方面的实际问题。”在备选动词中 A (需要) 符合上下文语境和语义关系。

- 35 答案: F (began)。首先, 判断该空应填动词。然后, 再看句意“发现儿子小埃里克在一所知名高中学习成绩不佳后, 布格斯夫妇 _____ 在家指导儿子学习至今已近十年。”只有 F (开始) 符合语境。
- 36 答案: K (struggle)。上下文的意思为“起初很困难, 因为夫妇二人都不是专业教师”。该空应填名词, 考生根据此语境不难从备选名词中选择 K (困难、艰巨的任务)。
- 37 答案: B (rose)。考生先需要准确理解该句意思, “但随着小埃里克对自己越来越有信心……”。此语境需要表示“上升、提升”意义的动词, 即 B。需要注意的是, 虽然备选项 increase 也可作为含义相近的动词使用, 但该空应填一个过去时态的动词, 故可排除 E 选项。
- 38 答案: H (primarily)。“虽然没有全国性的统计数字, 研究‘在家教育’的学者估计目前有 150 万青少年 _____ 跟着自己父母学习。”该空应填一个副词, 剩余的备选项中, 只有 H (主要地) 是副词且符合上下文语境。如果考生无法判断该填何种词性, 可暂时不考虑该空, 等其他选项填完再回头排除, 确保正确率。
- 39 答案: E (increase)。“这种 _____ 在双职工家庭的时代是很不寻常的……”该空应填名词, 而且必须通过上下文才能判断应选 E (增长)。
- 40 答案: J (easy)。“‘在家教育’虽然具备各种优势, 但绝非 _____ 事。”通过理解句义, 此处应选 J (容易的) 作修饰语。

第六部分 完形补文

- 41 答案: threatened。“The earth is being _____ and the future looks bad.” 上句提到我们每天都可以看到环境遭到破坏的报道, 这句顺承总结: 地球正遭受威胁。根据 is being 这一结构, 提示词 threaten 需要转换成被动形式 threatened。
- 42 答案: polluted。“We cannot clean up our _____ rivers and seas overnight.” 所给提示词 pollute (污染) 与 river, sea 是动宾关系。从句子结构判断, 能置于 our rivers 中间的词只有形容词, 本句要表达的意思是“已被污染的河流海洋”。

因此, 动词 pollute 需要转换成表示被动和完成的过去分词 polluted, 作定语修饰 rivers and seas。

- 43 答案: disappearance。"Nor can we stop the _____ of plants and animals。"。从语义上看, 动植物的出现 (appearance) 与上文语义无法衔接, 动植物的消失才代表着环境的恶化, 因此应该添加表示否定的前缀 dis-, 转换成 disappearance。

- 44 答案: scientists。"But we can stop adding to the problem while _____ search for answers ..."。while 引导的是时间状语从句, while 后的部分应是一个完整的句子。空格部分是句子的主语, 寻求答案的主体一般是人, 因此可以给提示词附加表示人的词缀 -ist, 变为 scientist。因为谓语 search 没有加单数标记, 所以主语应该用复数形式。

- 45 答案: defence/defense。"laws are passed in nature's _____", 表示所属的 's 说明空白处应为名词形式, 与提示词 defend 对应的名词形式是 defence。语义上 defence 符合语境: 通过关于环境保护的法律, 是拯救地球的途径之一。

- 46 答案: completely。"It may not be easy to change your lifestyle _____", 本句句法成分完整, complete 作为单词如果修饰 lifestyle 需要放在它前面, 空白处在小句最后说明这是修饰全句的副词, 需要添加副词词缀 -ly。这一小句 (完全改变我们的生活方式不容易), 与下一小句 (但是先采取一些措施还是可以的) 语义衔接自然。

- 47 答案: driving。"cut down the amount of _____ you do", 这句中, "the amount of ..." 是 cut down 的宾语, 应是一个名词词组, (that) you do 是修饰空白处名词的后置定语从句。drive 需要在词尾添加 -ing, 变为动名词, 充当名词词组的中心语。

- 48 答案: bills。"... which also reduces housing _____." 这个非限制性定语从句中, which 是主语, 指代主句中提到的 "节约能源"。全句意为 "节约能源也很容易做到, 同时还可以减少家庭支出", 句中显然缺少宾语成分, bill (账单) 是可数名词, 句中没有表示单数的定冠词, 因此, 应该加 -s, 使用复数形式。

- 49 答案: decision。"We must all make a personal _____ to work for the future of our planet”，句中“to work ...”是不定式作状语，表示目的。主句中已有谓语动词，但缺少宾语，因此动词 decide 需要添加名词性后缀 -sion，充当名词词组的中心语，而且这一词组有表示单数的定冠词 a，因此使用单数形式 decision。make a decision 也是常见搭配，意为“作决定、下决心”。

- 50 答案：ensure。“we want to _____ a better world for our grandchildren”，由 to 引导的不定式作 want 的宾语，to 后缺少不定式动词，因此，形容词性提示词 sure 需要添加表示“使……”的前缀 en-，构成动词，意为“确保我们的孙辈拥有一个更美好的世界”。不定式需用动词原型，因此，ensure 不用再作其他语法变化。want to do sth 本身也是常见搭配，要求 to 后用动词原型。

第七部分 短文写作

参考样文（说明：为保留考生作文的原貌，未对错误进行修改。）

第一档

Nowadays, our daily life is closely connected with modern technology. No one can live without some basic domestic appliances or devices, such as TV, cellphone, fridge or camera. For me, the most two important devices in my home are the laptop and the washing machine.

With the help of laptop, I can acquire the newest information through the Internet. I can talk with my family members or friends no matter how far they are. I can pay bills through e-bank. Besides, I can also deal with my official work at home. You can't image my life without computers.

Another device I need in my life is, of course, the washing machine. I am that girl who loves changing clothes frequently, therefore, washing machine can save time and protect my skin. What I need to do is to press the button and wait and hang the clothes.

Without PC, you would know nothing about the modern society. Without washing machine, you would waste your time doing the washing day after day.

第二档

Our world is changed dramatically by technology over the past few decades. Among countless new technology products, mobile phone and computer are the most represent devices that I can live without them.

I got my first computer in 1996 when I was in a high school. It helps me broaden my eyes and improve efficiency. Until now, computer has become not only the entertainment tools for watching movie, surfing online, but also a very important data storage and communication media for me. I can not imagine if one day I wake up without my computer.

Mobile phone is another one that I can not live without it. I used my mobile phone to let my family know that I may be late for dinner tonight. I need my mobile to call for booking the hotel for me if I travel somewhere without planning well in advance.

All in all, we can't live without new technology products, however we need to balance in using the new technology, using the advantage, but not too rely on them.

第三档

In modern society, there are more and more technology change our life, and especially in the home.

Firstly, computer is a huge change in the development of technology. When you at home, you can get lots of information including news, movies, pictures and the like. I think it can not be imagined 30 years ago. It may be changed the style of life and save a lot of time to search something. Also, we can communicate with others by the computer on internet. Secondly, smart machine is also a change in our life. For example, wash machine helps us clear clothes and save the time to do other useful things. Air-conditioner brings us a good feeling, and the telephone shorten the distance of friends. Smart technology make the machines good for people, it is a progress in human history. Technology is everywhere today.

Technology in the home is changing our life day by day. It's a good news for people, because we can have a comfortable life with the technology.

第四档

Technology is everywhere today, and especially in the home. And some modern domestic appliances or devices are important.

I found it is difficult to live without TV and light. If there is no TV in your home you will have nothing to do in weekends and nights. And you will feel alone. But have TV to belong with you, you will find you can know many things that you can't touch. And light is important, too. In many times we need bright environment. If there is no light we can do nothing that we want to do. And we will be scared at night. We can't use other machine, we can't do other thing besides go to sleep. Only light can give us a bright life.

So I think TV and light is the most important in our lives. It will be most important in our lives. It will be most difficult to live without them.

第五档

Technology is everywhere today, and especially in the home. In our home, more and more technology around us, some one we not play it.

Technology is very important, because if we lose the technology we not live. For example, the phone is useful in our life, we have the phone, we can tell about other people I think through the phone. It's very simple. The phone increased people's friendship.

TV is very useful. In our home, we can watch TV, through the TV, we can know everything happened in the world, and learn knowledge.

十一、学习、备考指南

第一部分 阅读判断

该题型旨在考查考生理解文章主要内容和迅速获取某些特定信息的能力,尤其是句子层面的语义理解能力。本题要求考生能够理解文中明确表达的概念或细节,推断隐含表达的内容,理解全文主旨和作者所持观点态度;能够根据上下文推测生词意义,理解句间关系和语篇结构。这类命题大多是文章原句的改写或间接表达,简洁明了,包含一个相当明确的信息。

在日常学习中,考生可以通过网络或图书馆资源寻找难度适中、时代感强的英语国家报纸杂志进行泛读,积累对不同题材、不同类型文章的阅读经验,提高在不同语境下运用语句猜测、主旨概括、信息提取等技巧的能力。如,在阅读记叙文的过程中,注意识别、提取有关人物、时间、地点等具体信息,找出叙事线索和结论,练习通过文章所叙述的行为事件概括归纳人物特征、故事主题;阅读说明文时,注意提取说明对象的特征,找出说明顺序、说明方法,练习归纳句子间的因果关系,培养理解特定领域抽象概念的能力,分辨事实现象和作者评价;在阅读论述文时,培养对表示论点的词句的敏感性,找出论据和论证方法,练习通过语境推断关键性术语,分辨论证中的情感性因素和事实逻辑因素。

考生在作答时,最好先快速通读全文,尽可能理解文章大意和记忆关键信息点,然后阅读题目,准确定位题目的关键词,再带着这些关键词回到原文去查找相关的内容。同时,建议考生按照题目顺序答题,这样有助于理清文章的写作思路。考生在进行正误判断时,要善于抓住关键词。题目的说法是否正确,完全由文章的内容决定,只有文章中明确表达出来的内容才能作为答题依据,切不可主观臆断,尤其是答案为 NG 的题目,其说法往往看起来是正确的,但是文章却并未提及,考生需要留意区别“错误”和“文中未提及”这两类选项,不可混为一谈。因此做该类题目的原则是忠实原文、仔细甄别。

第二部分 阅读选择

阅读理解的测试包括理解的准确度和速度两个要素。为了帮助广大考生提高阅读效率,全面提升阅读理解能力,在阅读考试中取得理想成绩,我们结合阅读考试的题型特点和考查要求谈谈阅读选择题型的学习和备考策略。

(一) 制订阅读计划,加强阅读训练

考生首先要克服畏难情绪,自我暗示,加强英语阅读的信心。在备考时,需要制订详

实可行的阅读计划,保证每天的英语阅读时间,积累词汇量,通过反复训练提高阅读速度和阅读效率。建议广大考生在平时阅读训练时注意以下几个方面:把握文章的主题、关键情节和背景知识,以便更好地理解文章写作意图;体会文章的主题给我们的启示和教育意义;养成写阅读概要的习惯,总结所读材料的主要内容;理清文章主要人物的姓名、身份、主要活动、心理特征以及他们之间的关系;理解文章中具有一定难度的语言点或与主题相关的主要语句,这往往也是题眼出现的地方。

(二) 熟悉考核题型,总结答题技巧

阅读方法和应试技巧是由考试的题型和要求决定的。广大考生需要了解阅读选择题型的考查要求和特点,在平时训练中总结一定的做题方法。这里我们不妨结合阅读选择涉及的几个题型谈谈备考策略,以方便广大考生。

1) 事实细节题。该类题目主要考查考生把握相关主题事实和细节的能力,考点多涉及时间、地点、人物、数字、原因等具体内容。这类题目的答案一般可在文中直接找到,考生稍微细心一点,加上一定的逆向思维、数学计算和简单分析就可以正确作答。考生作答时,应通过题干关键词定位至原文,判断与主题相关的细节,排除冗余信息。要细心梳理细节与文章主旨的关系,如主次、因果、对比、时间等;留心举例、列举、(指示)代词、引用和特殊标点符号等。

2) 主旨大意题。该类题目考查考生对文章主题、中心思想以及各段落大意的宏观把握能力。文章的主旨要义一般会在文章首句或首段直接体现出来,也会在陈述事实之后在文章中间或在文章末尾进行呼应。考生同时要善于从全文概括文章主旨,建议把每段的关键句和大意整合起来,这往往是能够全面反映全文主旨的要点。

3) 观点态度题。该题型旨在考查考生理解和领会作者的观点、态度、写作意图以及对某个事实或现象的情感倾向的能力。通常在论说性质的文章中,有些作者会在行文中流露出自己的态度,对某一现象表示肯定、否定或怀疑等,而有些作者仅仅客观评价某一现象。考生需要分清作者的观点、文内主要人物的观点、读者或大家的观点等,阅读过程中注意能够表达作者观点态度的动词或形容词,要注意某些否定结构,尤其应注意反问句和正话反说等表达方式。

4) 词义理解题。该类题目旨在考查考生对文章中关键词、(指示)代词以及关键句子的语义理解能力。考生作答时需要理解上下文,根据题干提示定位至原文所在段落,明确所在段落主旨大意后,再核查所考词汇或句子的上下文,找出相关提示词或暗示语。所考查词义或句义往往是上下文出现词语的近义或反义词,所考查代词所指代的内容也往往就出现在前句或后句中。同时要注意关键词的词性转换和词形变化,比如在原文中以动词形

式出现,而在考题中以名词形式出现等。

5) 推理判断题。该类题目主要考查考生依据文章的句子表层意思来推测其隐含意义的能力。这类题目有一定难度,考生作答时需要进行逻辑性的归纳和演绎。遇到需要注意细节的地方,考生切不可偏概全,把文章中出现的细节看作结论,造成不必要的失分。

第三部分 概括段落大意和补全句子

该部分包括一篇短文和两项任务:概括段落大意和补全句子。其中概括段落大意题旨在考查考生宏观把握文章结构、概括段落大意和提取关键信息的能力,考查考生对文章“统一性”的把握。做好这类题目,关键就是两个字:主题。全文有全文的主题,段落有段落的主题。只要循着“主题”这根主线,没有找不到答案的道理。而主题又离不开名词,所以,只要看清每个空前后作为主题的名词,抓根提串,抓住了主题这个“根”,后面的句子就肯定能够串起来。考生要注意学会识别主题和支持性细节的结构关系。做题时可先快速浏览文章,掌握文章大意,再浏览选项。可适当标注段落中的关键词。

补全句子题主要考查考生定位查找关键信息的能力。命题特点很明显,补全句子题所设空格一般位于句子末尾。所填内容均为原文出现的原词或是同义替换,一般为名词短语、动宾短语、形容词结构、非谓语结构或简短的从句等,用不同的话把原文同样的意思表达出来。因此,在做该题时,首先要保证完全看懂题意,其次就是把握待填部位的特点。答案填好后,要检查题目的意思是否通顺、形式是否完整、是否存在语法不一致的现象。考生平时训练时要对每道题的题干和选项进行分析,比较命题点与原文之间的对应关系,熟悉正确选项与原文的句式改写和词汇替换方式。

第四部分 填句补文

该题型主要考查考生对文章语段特征(如连贯性和一致性等)的识辨能力以及把握文章结构的能力。要求考生从整体上把握文章的逻辑结构和内容上的联系,理解句子之间、段落之间的关系,并能把握文章的写作结构和脉络层次。

做题时,考生首先要跳过空格从宏观上把握文章的中心和结构,然后再在微观上分析句子之间的衔接关系,如指示时间的词和短语、因果关系、代词、对比、关键信息重复以及动词时态等。其次,考生要留心空格前和空格后的信息和标记词,然后对照备选项,注意信息词的一致和相似对应,以及空格前后句子的衔接与连贯,如同词复现、同义复现、结构一致、主题一致等关系,不能简单通过表面个别词语的对应而作出选择。最后,考生还应熟练掌握各个段落中的关联特征(包括指代关联、转承关联、词义关联、数字关联等),

读懂几个关键点的句子(重点是首末句、带有转承关系的句子、带有特殊标点的句子等)。即使读不懂全文,也能顺利解决问题,重点在于做题步骤和方法。

六选五新题型难度较低,考生没必要过于担心,只要按照新大纲的要求,在平时的学习中多练习扫描、定位等阅读方法,学会分析文章的篇章结构,学会抓文章的重要信息,就不会因为文章长、生词多而方寸大乱。要留心首段和关键句,通过它们判断文章的意思。当然,由于文章空缺了五处,读完一遍后可能仍然不知道文章的意思,这时也不要惊慌,边做题边阅读即可。做题时重点阅读空白处附近的句子,考查选择项与前后内容的逻辑关系,圈定线索关键词,最后从各选项中寻找在内容和逻辑上都合理的选项。

具体的解题步骤如下:

1. 细读首句, 启示全文
2. 通读全文, 再看选项
3. 瞻前顾后, 先易后难
4. 信息对应, 合理排除
5. 上下连贯, 合乎逻辑
6. 复核全文, 查缺补漏

第五部分 填词补文

该题型考查考生对文章及语篇中词汇的理解能力。作答时, 考生应有全局意识, 在把握文章结构和理解文章主旨大意的前提下, 对备选词汇进行斟酌选择。首先要分析判断文章每一填空处所需词汇的词性(如名词、动词、形容词、副词等); 其次, 可以把备选词汇按词性进行分类。这样, 原来的12选1就变成了5选1, 甚至是2选1了。需要强调的是, 做题时不能光考虑空格所在单句的意思, 还应有上下文语境的支持才能作出正确选择。另外, 也不必拘泥于题目顺序, 考生可先做有把握的题目, 同时将已选词汇从备选栏中划去, 降低其他题目的难度。

第六部分 完形补文

该题型注重考查考生语篇综合理解和词汇运用的能力。短文涉及题材较广, 不同类型的文章行文方式有所不同。广大考生在学习教材之余, 应尽可能扩大阅读范围, 熟悉不同题材篇章的表达特点。在学习、备考时, 首先要宏观把握文章主旨和关键细节, 进而分析句子内部、句子之间以及文章整体结构间的逻辑关系; 其次, 应关注语篇连贯性、一致性的表达方式, 注意提高对词形变化和常见表达的敏感性。同时, 必要的构词法和相关

语法训练也是提高正确率和答题速度的有效途径。还有,考生在平时练习时,应注意关注词汇在句中的功能(充当主语、谓语、宾语等)和在事件过程中充当的角色(一个词所指是发出动作的人/物、动作关涉到的人/物还是动作本身)。对于常见词汇,要经常归纳分析同词根词,注意不同词形在意义、词性等方面的区别(如 courage - encourage - encouragement - encouraging)。本题型所设空格在词性变化、单复数、肯定/否定等方面均会有所涉及,因此在做题过程中需要细加分辨。

第七部分 短文写作

短文写作直接反映了考生综合运用英语语言的书面表达能力。为了在短文写作中取得理想成绩,考生应做到以下两个方面:

1) 了解短文写作题型的考查要求和特点,加强针对性的训练。在平时的英语学习和备考过程中,考生应多欣赏、借鉴优秀范文,建议多动手写作,写出属于自己的文章。当然如果能找辅导教师修改自己的文章,效果会更好。考生在训练时,应尽量按时完成试题规定的任务:包含所有内容要点;使用丰富的语法结构和词汇;语言自然流畅,语法错误极少;有效地采用多种衔接手段,文字连贯,层次清晰。平时练习主要应注意两个方面:首先,语言是第一要素;其次,结构层次要清晰。在语言方面,应把语言错误降到最低限度。语言错误大致有如下几个方面:第一,主谓一致;第二,时态;第三,冠词的用法;第四,名词的单复数;第五,搭配问题;第六,单词的拼写。在结构层次方面,考生要注意句子之间衔接、上下文衔接的话语标记词,如因果、转折、对比、顺序、目的和否定等关系的表达方式。

2) 认真审题,合理安排写作。答题时,首先,应仔细审题,明确写作要求,判断文体(说明文、记叙文、议论文,或是应用文)、格式(信函还是通知等)。要做到格式正确,对具体话题的描述、阐释或说明充分,能客观表达自己的观点,用词恰当,语言表达清楚、通顺。其次,应理清写作内容要点,最好能列一个提纲(outline),时刻提醒自己要素表达的要点,以防跑题。最后,写作完成后,建议对语言进行全面核查,如要点是否表达全面,重点词汇的书写是否有误,时态、语态是否正确,主谓是否一致等。

后记

全国高等教育自学考试指导委员会外国语言文学类专业委员会于2009年7月在大连召开会议，讨论修订英语（一）、英语（二）自学考试大纲。2010年12月，外国语言文学类专业委员会在广州召开会议，对大纲的初稿进行了讨论，提出了修改意见，并决定于2011年10月在北京和广东两地对修订后的考试进行试测。2011年12月，外国语言文学类专业委员会在北京召开会议，结合试测结果，对修订后的大纲进行了讨论，提出了进一步修改意见。2012年3月，外国语言文学类专业委员会在北京召开会议，对大纲进行了讨论、定稿。

本大纲由北京外国语大学韩宝成教授负责组织编写，教育部考试中心外语处李英副处长参与了大纲的设计工作。参加编写的有福建教育学院的卢建老师、甘肃农业大学的吕生禄老师、山西医科大学的贾艳萍老师、天津外国语学院的王蓓老师及北京外国语大学中国外语教育研究中心博士生罗凯洲。参加审稿的有刘润清教授（北京外国语大学）、潘志明教授（北京外国语大学）、刘北利教授（首都师范大学）和陈小全教授（对外经济贸易大学）。

英语（二）自学教程

《英语(二)自学教程》是受全国高等教育自学考试指导委员会委托,依据该委员会最新制订的全国高等教育自学考试公共课《英语(二)自学考试大纲》编写的全国统一教材,供全国高等教育自学考试本科阶段各专业(英语专业除外)使用。本教材旨在培养学生的英语综合运用能力,使他们在以后的工作、学习和社会交往中能用英语有效地进行口语和书面信息交流,同时增强其自主学习能力,提升综合文化素养,以适应我国社会经济发展和国际交流的需要。通过对本教材的系统学习,考生将在英语语言知识、应用技能、学习策略和跨文化交际方面达到《英语(二)自学考试大纲》中规定的本科毕业生应达到的相应英语要求。

自上一版全国高等教育自学考试公共课英语教材《大学英语自学教程》(1998)出版以来的十多年间,我国大学英语在教学理念、教学目标、教学内容、教学模式、教学手段和学生水平等方面均发生了显著变化,我国社会经济发展对大学英语教学也提出了全新的要求。因应这些变化,结合自考生的实际需求,本版教材编写力求突出以下特点:

1. 时代性

以最新《英语(二)自学考试大纲》为依据,突出时代对大学英语教学的新要求,重点培养学生英语综合应用能力,包括实用口语表达能力和实用写作能力,兼顾学生自主学习能力的培养和综合文化素养的提升。

2. 适用性

以学生为本,始终考虑自考生的现有英语水平和实际学习需求,编写体例、课文选材、练习设计等均体现了很强的针对性,特别增加了英语自学策略模块内容,以提高学生综合运用语言的能力为出发点和最终目标,针对学生的薄弱环节和实际需要,有的放矢。

3. 思想性

课文选材力求语言简约优美,富于思想内涵,融教育性、思想性和语言学习于一体,有助于启发学生用英语进行思考,并就相关问题各抒己见,在训练语言技能的同时,启迪思想,陶冶情操,提升品格,培养学生的综合素养。

4. 实用性

融读、说、写、译等多种语言技能培养为一体,突出简约而实用的特点。努力使学生通过对本教材的学习,做到学有所用,学以致用,以用促学,学用统一,力争使语言知识与语言运用能力同步提升。

本教程是全国高等教育自学考试公共课《英语(一)自学教程》的姊妹篇,两本教程既各有侧重,又有机相连。本教程含12个单元和3套单元自测题,供一个学期使用。

每一单元围绕同一主题,由名家名言(A Famous Quote)、口语活动(Speaking Activity)、主体课文(Text A、Text B)和自学策略(Tips for English Learning)4部分组成。每单元含2篇课文。课文A由读前问题(Pre-reading Questions)、课文(Text)、生词与短语(New Words; Phrases and Expressions)、重点难句(Key Sentences)及注释(Notes)构成。课文后配有阅读理解(Checking Your Comprehension)、词汇扩充(Building Your Vocabulary)、综合填空(Bridging the Gap)、英汉互译(Translation)、语篇构建(Organizing Your Ideas)和话题讨论(Reflecting on the Text)6项练习。课文B的构成与课文A相同,课后练习内容和形式有一定变化和删减。

本教程含3个单元自测题,分别置于Unit 4、Unit 8、Unit 12之后。自测题题型、题量、分值及考查重点均参照最新版《英语(二)自学考试大纲》,内容是对相关单元重点知识的复习与检测,旨在帮助考生检测阶段性学习效果,及时发现和弥补不足,同时及早熟悉全国高等教育自学考试英语(二)考试的相关要求,并提前做好必要的准备。

本教程的最后附有生词和短语总表,以方便考生自我检测和复习。

为便于社会助学和考生自学,本教材另配有学习手册。学习手册中备有每篇课文的背景知识、学习重点、练习答案及参考译文,供教师备课和考生自学时参考使用。

本教程选材源于主要英语国家最新出版的报刊和主流网站,选用时进行了不同程度的改写,以更好地适应目标读者的英语水平和学习需求;同时,为保证选篇语言的纯正性,其中的英式或美式拼写均保留不变。全部书稿经北京科技大学兼职教授、英国剑桥大学博士 Mark Buck 和北京科技大学资深外籍专家 Amanda Meier 审阅和修订。由于本教程所选素材和文章的部分作者不详,为保持教材体例统一,教程中一并略去原作者姓名,在此谨向作者表示感谢。

本教材承蒙全国高等教育自学考试指导委员会外国语言文学类专业教材审定委员会审定,参加教材审定工作的有北京外国语大学刘润清教授、潘志明教授、韩宝成教授,首都师范大学刘北利教授,对外经济贸易大学陈小全教授。对他们提出的宝贵修改意见我们表示衷心的感谢。

本教材在编写过程中得到了全国高等教育自学考试指导委员会外国语言文学类专业委员会秘书长韩宝成教授、教育部考试中心教材研究所刘素娟副所长以及外语处李英副处长的鼎力支持和帮助,教材研究所李晓翠、高卓以及外语处赵祖华等同志也提供了大力帮助,外语教学与研究出版社李晶华、张红岩女士为教材的编辑出版付出了辛勤的劳动,在此一并致谢。

教材初稿几经修订,力图充分体现简约、励志、适用、实用的编写理念,力求至臻至美,但教材中仍难免存在疏漏与不足之处,尚望读者批评指正。

Unit 1

The Power of Language

A FAMOUS QUOTE

Language is the dress of thought.

— Samuel Johnson

语言是思维的外衣。

—— 塞缪尔·约翰逊

Samuel Johnson (1709–1784), British man of letters, one of the most outstanding figures of the 18th century in England. He made lasting contributions to English literature as a poet, essayist, moralist, literary critic, biographer, editor and lexicographer. Johnson has been described as “arguably the most distinguished man of letters in English history”.

Speaking Activity

Making Suggestions

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers make suggestions.

- Steve: Hi, Jenny, would you like to do something with me this weekend?
- Jenny: Sure. What shall we do?
- Steve: I don't know. Do you have any ideas?
- Jenny: Why don't we see a film?
- Steve: That sounds good to me. Which film shall we see?
- Jenny: Let's see Action Man 4.
- Steve: I'd rather not. I don't like violent films. How about going to Mad Doctor Brown? I hear it's quite a funny film.
- Jenny: OK. Let's go see that. When is it on?
- Steve: It's at 8 o'clock at the Rex. Shall we have a bite to eat before the film?
- Jenny: Sure, that sounds great. What about going to that new Italian restaurant Michetti's?
- Steve: Great idea! Let's meet there at six.
- Jenny: OK. I'll see you at Michetti's at six. Bye.
- Steve: Bye.

Guided Practice

Directions: Give your friends some suggestions on a place where you can spend your vacation. Use your own information. You may use the following tips to help you.

Would you like to ...?

Shall we go ...?

Let's go ...

Why don't we (you) go ...?

How (What) about going ...?

That's a good idea.

Good suggestion.

Thanks for the advice.

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you usually challenge the idea an author represents? What do you think is active reading?
2. What suggestions do you expect the author will give on reading critically?

Critical Reading

Critical reading applies to non-fiction writing in which the author puts forth a position or seeks to make a statement. Critical reading is active reading. It involves more than just understanding what an author is saying. Critical reading involves questioning and evaluating what the author is saying, and forming your own opinions about what the author is saying. Here are the things you should do to be a critical reader.

Consider the context of what is written. You may be reading something that was written by an author from a different cultural context than yours. Or, you may be reading something written some time ago in a different time context than yours. In either case, you must recognize and take into account any differences between your values and attitudes and those represented by the author.

Question assertions made by the author. Don't accept what is written at face value. Before accepting what is written, be certain that the author provides sufficient support for any assertions made. Look for facts, examples, and statistics that provide support. Also, look to see if the author has integrated the work of authorities.

Compare what is written with other written work on the subject. Look to see that what is written is consistent with what others have written about the subject. If there are inconsistencies, carefully evaluate the support the author provides for the inconsistencies.

Analyze assumptions made by the author. Assumptions are whatever the author must believe is true in order to make assertions. In many cases, the author's assumptions are not directly stated. This means you must read carefully in order to identify any assumptions. Once you identify an assumption, you must decide whether or not the assumption is valid.

Evaluate the sources the author uses. In doing this, be certain that the sources are credible. For example, Einstein¹ is a credible source if the author is writing about landmark achievements in physics. Also be certain that the sources are relevant. Einstein is not a relevant source when the subject is poetry. Finally, if the author is writing about a subject in its current state, be sure that the sources are current. For example, studies done by Einstein in the early 20th century may not be appropriate if the writer is discussing the current state of knowledge in physics.

Identify any possible author bias. A written discussion of American politics will likely look considerably different depending on whether the writer is a Democrat² or a Republican³. What is written may very well reflect a biased position. You need to take this possible bias into account when reading what the author has written. That is, take what is written with "a grain of salt."

By being a critical reader, you will become better informed and may change your views as appropriate.

Language is one of the things that sets us apart as beings, one of the things that essentially ① us as humans. When language is used well it can elicit very deep feeling in others, motivate others to ② and define the nature of our relationships. Sometimes in poetry the juxtaposition (并列) of two words or a certain phrase can bring ③ to the eyes, call up a whole host of imagery and move us deeply. We have seen language recently used in the politics of persuasion, used for ④ or ill — depending on your viewpoint. When we use language to ⑤ our true feelings to someone it can open and deepen the connection between us. Language is a very ⑥ tool. How we use language shapes our world both ⑦ and externally. How you use self-talk — what you say to yourself about yourself and about the world directly ⑧ your experience of both yourself and the world. How you deliver communication shapes the way the world ⑨ you. We can use language more effectively in both spheres: internal and external and directly influence the health and power of our ⑩ relationships and our business relationships.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

To become a flexible reader, you need to know how to select and use a reading style that is consistent with your purpose for reading. Knowing when and how to use different reading styles will make you a flexible reader. Study reading is the reading style used by flexible readers when their purpose is to read difficult material at a high level of comprehension. When using the study reading style, you should read at a rate that is slower than your normal reading rate. Furthermore, as you read you must challenge yourself to understand the material. Study reading will often require you to read material more than once to achieve a high level of comprehension. Sometimes, reading the material aloud will also help you improve your comprehension.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. For instance, the word "kick" can mean many different things depending on how it is used in a phrase.
2. Learning how phrases come together in English will come with continued submersion in the language.
3. On the other hand, you could say, "I get a kick out of that TV show."
4. This means that you enjoy the TV show, and has nothing to do with striking something with a foot.
5. As you learn the language, focus not only on the words and their meanings, but also on the way the words come together to make phrases.
6. When you say, "He kicked the ball," you are using the word as a verb that means to strike the ball with the foot.

VI Reflecting on the Text

Some people argue that the purpose of reading is to seek information and gain knowledge by memorizing the statements within a text. It is not necessary to develop the ability to read critically, since this ability is assumed to be present only in scholars and to be learned in academic institutions. Do you agree or disagree with this opinion? Give reasons and examples to support yourself.

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. Are there any words that make you feel confident or diffident?
2. Do you believe that language can influence people's thought? Give some examples.

The Language of Confidence

The language we use programs our brains. Mastering our language gives us a great degree of mastery over our lives and our destinies. It is important to use the language in the best way possible in order to dramatically improve our quality of life.

Even the smallest of words can have the deepest effect on our subconscious mind¹, which is like a child, and it doesn't really understand the difference between what really happens and what you imagine. It is eager to please and willing to carry out any commands that you give it — whether you do this knowingly or not is entirely up to you.

"Try"

It is a small word yet it has an amazing impact upon us. If someone says, "I'll try to do that" you know that they are not going to be putting their whole heart into it, and may not even do it at all. How often do you use the word try when talking about the things that matter to you? Do you say "I'll try to be more confident" or "I'll try to do that" or "I'll try to call"?

Think about something that you would like to achieve, and say it to yourself in two different ways. Firstly say, "I'll try to ..." and notice how you feel. Next say, "I will do ..." and see how you feel.

The latter makes you feel better than the first one, doesn't it? It gives you a sense of determination, a feeling that it will be done. Listen to the people around you and when they say they will try notice if it gets done or not. Eliminate the word try from your dictionary and see how your life improves.

"Can't"

This is another small word with a big impact. It disempowers us, makes us feel weak and helpless, and damages our self-esteem. It limits our infinite abilities and stifles creativity. Rub it out from your internal dictionary and replace it with something that makes you feel great.

Instead of saying you can't, why not say something like "I choose ..." or "I choose not to ...". Using words like this allows you to take back your power and to be in control of your life.

Words may appear small and insignificant, yet they can have a deep and lasting effect on us. Mastering your language gives you the power to live whatever life you desire.

What words do you use a lot that disempower you? Make a list of words you commonly use and then write next to them some alternatives you can use. Make these alternatives words that make you feel fabulous, not only about yourself, but about life and what you are doing!

English plays an important role in the workplace and when used in the correct and appropriate manner, it can help boost a career or a business. Some may need or want to study business English before they start their careers. Those who are already working have the opportunity to see what they can and cannot do effectively in English in their current job.

A valuable skill to have in business is how to negotiate. You need to know what you want, as well as how to bargain and make concessions. Being able to deal with a conflict and knowing how to end negotiations can make a big difference to the outcome.

Workplace English learning will encourage professional and efficient communication, which translates as good service to customers and business partners or suppliers, which can only be a positive for any business.

IV Writing

Section B

Directions: Read the following paragraph carefully. Cross out two sentences that do not help to develop the controlling idea.

Philip Randolph, the great African-American champion of labour and civil rights, led confrontations with three very popular presidents. Mr. Randolph called for a march on Washington by thousands of African-Americans on July 1, 1941, if President Roosevelt would not take action to end discrimination in defense industries during World War II. Mr. Randolph was born in Florida. After much delay, the president met with Randolph, and one week later opened many defense jobs to black workers. A few years later, in 1948, Mr. Randolph threatened mass civil disobedience if President Truman did not end segregation against African-Americans in the military. On July 26, Truman approved the order that integrated the armed services. The last confrontation was with John F. Kennedy, who sought to stop the 1963 civil rights march on Washington. The march featured the Reverend Martin Luther King's unforgettable "I Have a Dream" speech.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following situation and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

It is reported that many young people prefer to work rather than continue their education. They think a person without higher education could also get a decent job. If you were faced with the choice between starting a job and continuing education, what would you do?

Tips for English Learning

Building up Your Vocabulary (1) — Practice, Practice, Practice

Having a large vocabulary is basic to learning any language, and it is especially true in English. Learning a word won't help much if you promptly forget it. Research shows that it takes from 10 to 20 repetitions to really make a word part of your vocabulary. Here are some tips for building up your vocabulary.

- ◆ Reading is a very good way to learn new words. Most words are learned from the context.
- ◆ It helps to write the word — both the definition and a sentence you make up using the word.
- ◆ As soon as you learn a new word, start using index cards that can later be reviewed.
- ◆ It helps to review your index cards periodically to see if you have forgotten any of your new words.

How many English words can you learn per day?

10 English words or phrases per day aren't too many, are they? Just give it a try. You will find that you can learn them in next to no time.

So why not take a little time each day (Monday to Friday) to learn 10 new words? Use the weekend to revise what you have learned during the past week(s). This way you'll enrich your English vocabulary by 50 new words per week. (That's 200 new English words per month!)

Unit 2

Mistakes to Success

A FAMOUS QUOTE

Success is going from failure to failure without losing your enthusiasm.

— Winston Churchill

成功就是经历一次又一次失败后，热情依旧。

—— 温斯顿·丘吉尔

Winston Churchill (1874–1965), British Conservative politician and statesman known for his leadership of the United Kingdom during the Second World War. Widely regarded as one of the greatest wartime leaders of the century, he served as Prime Minister twice. He is the only British Prime Minister to have received the Nobel Prize in Literature.

Speaking Activity

Giving Compliments

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers give compliments.

- Jenny: I absolutely love what you're wearing today.
Steve: You do? I just bought this outfit a couple of days ago.
Jenny: Seriously, it looks really nice on you. Where did you buy it?
Steve: I bought it from the Macy's at the Santa Anita mall.
Jenny: I really like that outfit.
Steve: Thanks. I think you look nice today, too.
Jenny: Thank you. I just bought these new shoes earlier today.
Steve: Those are nice. What are they?
Jenny: These are some Chucks.
Steve: Those are great. How much were they?
Jenny: I got them for forty.
Steve: I think I might go and find me my own pair of Chucks.

Guided Practice

Directions: Give your neighbour a compliment about how he/she looks in a newly purchased outfit. Use your own information. You may use the following tips to help you.

I absolutely love ...

Seriously, it looks really nice on you.

I really like ...

I think you look nice today.

Those are nice (great).

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Did you make any mistakes on your way to success? Give some examples.
2. Do you believe that making mistakes is a necessary ingredient for success? Explain.

Spilt Milk

Have you heard of the story about spilt milk? Well, we all know there is no use crying over spilt milk¹. But this story is different. I would hope all parents would respond in this manner.

I recently heard a story about a famous research scientist who had made several very important medical breakthroughs. He was interviewed by a newspaper reporter who asked him why he was so much more creative than the average person; what set him so far apart from others?

He responded that, in his opinion, it all came from an experience with his mother that occurred when he was about two years old. He had been trying to remove a bottle of milk from the refrigerator when he lost his grip on the slippery bottle and it fell, spilling its contents all over the kitchen floor — a veritable sea of milk!

When his mother came into the kitchen, instead of yelling at him, giving him a lecture, or punishing him, she said, "Robert, what a great and wonderful mess you have made! I have rarely seen such a huge puddle of milk. Well, the damage has already been done. Would you like to get down and play in the milk for a few minutes before we clean it up?"

Indeed, he did. After a few minutes, his mother said, "You know, Robert, whenever you make a mess like this, eventually you have to clean it up and restore everything to its proper order. So, how would you like to do that? We could use a sponge, a towel, or a mop. Which do you prefer?" He chose the sponge and together they cleaned up the spilt milk.

His mother then said, "You know, what we have here is a failed experiment in how to effectively carry a big milk bottle with two tiny hands. Let's go out in the back yard and fill the bottle with water and see if you can discover a way to carry it without dropping it." The little boy learned that if he grasped the bottle at the top near the lip with both hands, he could carry it without dropping it. What a wonderful lesson!

The renowned scientist remarked that it was at that moment that he knew he didn't need to be afraid to make mistakes. Instead, he learned that mistakes were just opportunities for learning something new, which is, after all, what scientific experiments are all about. Even if the experiment "doesn't work," we usually learn something valuable from it.

Wouldn't it be great if all parents would respond the way Robert's mother responded to him?

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

I clearly remember a period during which I felt like a failure. But what I eventually learned was that failing at one thing is not failing at all things. And, in fact, failure is a necessary part of growth. Life is filled with trial and error. In order to walk the path to success, you need to make some wrong turns along the way. What I learned, to use John C. Maxwell's terminology, was to "fail forward", to use each mistake to make myself better. One of the greatest problems people have with failure is that they are too quick to judge isolated situations in their lives and label them as failures. Instead, they need to keep the bigger picture in mind. A successful baseball player doesn't look at an out that he makes and think of failure. He sees it within the context of the bigger picture. His perspective leads to perseverance. His perseverance brings longevity. And his longevity gives him opportunities for success.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. Maybe you interviewed for a job and didn't get it, yet another one comes through that pays more and offers room for growth.
2. Some believe that everything happens for a reason, and failure is no exception.

3. Failure is never the end of the road, but only the beginning of something potentially better.
4. Perhaps someone you've been dating suddenly breaks things off, and you meet someone ten times more wonderful.
5. There's always something to learn, ways to grow, different viewpoints to explore, and new opportunities waiting just around the corner.
6. Don't view failure as bad luck; instead, look at each attempt to reach your goals as a triumph.

VI Reflecting on the Text

As a popular old saying goes, "Mistakes are the mother of success". Some people firmly believe that mistakes are an important part of any striving cycle. Henry Ford famously said, "I don't make mistakes; I learn too much from them." What can mistakes teach us? How can we learn from mistakes so as to achieve success? Give reasons and examples to support yourself.

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. Have you ever been wrongly blamed by your parents? How did you feel at that moment?
2. What suggestions would you give to the parents who are blinded to their children's merits?

The Cake

Cindy glanced nervously at the clock on the kitchen wall. Five minutes before midnight.

"They should be home any time now," she thought as she put the finishing touches on the chocolate cake she was frosting. It was the first time in her 12 years she had tried to make a cake from scratch, and to be honest, it wasn't exactly an aesthetic triumph. The cake was ... well, lumpy. And the frosting was bitter, as if she had run out of sugar or something, which, of course, she had.

And then there was the way the kitchen looked. Imagine a huge blender filled with all the fixings for chocolate cake — including the requisite bowls, pans and utensils. Now imagine that the blender is turned on. High speed. With the lid off. Do you get the idea?

But Cindy wasn't thinking about the mess. She had created something, a veritable phoenix¹ of flour and sugar rising out of the kitchen clutter. She was anxious for her parents to return home from their date so she could present her anniversary gift to them. She turned off the kitchen lights and waited excitedly in the darkness. When at last she saw the flash of the car headlights, she positioned herself in the kitchen doorway. By the time she heard the key sliding into the front door, she was THIS CLOSE to exploding.

Her parents tried to slip in quietly, but Cindy would have none of that. She flipped on the lights dramatically and trumpeted: "Ta-daaa!" She gestured grandly toward the kitchen table, where a slightly off-balance two-layer chocolate cake awaited their inspection.

But her mother's eyes never made it all the way to the table. "Just look at this mess!" she moaned. "How many times have I talked to you about cleaning up after yourself?"

"But Mom, I was only ..."

"I should make you clean this up right now, but I'm too tired to stay up with you to make sure you get it done right," her mother said. "So you'll do it first thing in the morning."

"Honey," Cindy's father interjected gently, "take a look at the table."

"I know — it's a mess," his wife said coldly. "The whole kitchen is a disaster. I can't stand to look at it." She stormed up the stairs and into her room, slamming the door shut behind her.

For a few moments Cindy and her father stood silently, neither one knowing what to say. At last she looked up at him, her eyes moist and red. "She never saw the cake," she said.

Unfortunately, Cindy's mother isn't the only parent who suffers from Situational Timberricular Glaucoma — the occasional inability to see the forest for the trees. From time to time we all allow ourselves to be blinded to issues of long-term significance by stuff that seems awfully important right now, but isn't. Muddy shoes, lost lunch money and messy kitchens are troublesome, and they deserve their place among life's frustrations. But what's a little mud — even on new carpet — compared to a child's self-esteem? Is a lost dollar more valuable than a youngster's emerging dignity? And while kitchen sanitation is important, is it worth the sacrifice of tender feelings and relationships?

I'm not saying that our children don't need to learn responsibility, or to occasionally suffer the painful consequences of their own bad choices. Those lessons are vital, and need to be carefully taught. But as parents, we must never forget that we're not just teaching lessons — we're teaching children. That means there are times when we really need to see the mess in the kitchen, and times when we only need to see the cake.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

There are several key abilities that allow successful people to fail forward instead of taking each setback personally. First, successful people don't blame themselves when they fail. They take responsibility for each setback, but they don't take the failure personally. Second, successful people don't define themselves by individual failures. They recognize that each setback is a small part of the whole. Third, achievers are willing to vary their approaches to problems. That's important in every walk of life. If one approach doesn't work for you, if it brings repeated failure, then try something else. To fail forward, you must do what works for you, not necessarily what works for other people. Finally, successful people are resilient. They don't let one error keep them down. They learn from their mistakes and move on.

IV Writing

Section A

Directions: The following sentences are grammatically incorrect or incoherent. Improve them.

Example: Perhaps one in every seven deaths in Europe's crowded cities were caused by the disease.

Revision: Perhaps one in every seven deaths in Europe's crowded cities was caused by the disease.

1. Sir Humphry Davy was an excellent literary critic as well as being a great scientist.
2. Roger plays with rabbits but also hunts them. This is one reason why Roger likes rabbits.
3. Hanging by their tails from the branches, the children gazed at the monkeys.
4. Last night I had my first taste of sake (日本清酒). It is a Japanese beverage made from rice.
5. John Wayne was the biggest box-office attraction of his time who appeared in over 200 movies.

Section B

Directions: Supply a topic sentence for the following paragraph.

_____ A good starting point is narrowing down the type of car you want or need. Be realistic. You may envision yourself cruising around town in a little convertible, but that won't leave much room for the kids and dogs. Once you've settled on the basic vehicle, do some research to find out which vehicles have good reliability ratings. The Internet and books can help you pick out the high maintenance turkeys. The next step is finding the model you are looking for. Used car lots will give you an idea of price, but they can be expensive and full of used car salesmen. Check your local paper, car buyers' magazines and the Internet. When you finally track down what looks good, arrange to have your mechanic inspect it. Never omit this step. After your mechanic gives the car the OK, all that's left is to haggle over the price.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following situation and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

The annual English Speech Contest in Beijing is coming! This year, the topic is The Most Important Way to Success. You, as a promising candidate, should write out your speech to make your idea clear. Please strive for your best performance to achieve your success in the contest. Best wishes for you.

Tips for English Learning

Building up Your Vocabulary (2) — Use the Context

Having a large vocabulary is basic to learning any language, and it is especially true in English. Reading is a very good way to learn new words. So is doing puzzles or playing different kinds of word games. Most vocabulary words are learned from the context. The more words you're exposed to, the better vocabulary you will have. While you read, pay close attention to the words you don't know. First, try to figure out their meanings from the context. Then look the words up. Read and listen to challenging material so that you'll be exposed to many new words.

Unit 3

Friendship and Loyalty

A FAMOUS QUOTE

Betraying a trust is a very quick and painful way to terminate a friendship.

— Ralph Waldo Emerson

背信弃义会使人迅速而痛苦地断送友谊。

—— 拉尔夫·沃尔多·爱默生

Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803–1882), American essayist, lecturer, and poet, who led the Transcendentalist Movement of the mid-19th century.

Speaking Activity

Making, Accepting and Refusing an Invitation

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers make, accept or refuse an invitation.

- Steve: Would you like to go out to dinner tonight, Jenny?
- Jenny: That would be very nice. Have you got anywhere particular in mind?
- Steve: I was wondering if you'd like to go to that new Japanese restaurant that's opened on Elm Avenue.
- Jenny: I'd rather go somewhere else, if you don't mind. I really don't feel like that ... all that raw fish.
- Steve: What about going to a Chinese restaurant in Chinatown?
- Jenny: I'd like that very much. What sort of time?
- Steve: Shall we make it 6:00 in front of the library?
- Jenny: 6:00 in front of the library. Yes, that's fine.
- Steve: Good. That'll give me a chance to take any library books back before we meet. See you later.

I'd love to, but I'm sorry I can't.

Thank you for the invitation.

I hate to turn you down, but I don't really think I can.

I appreciate your invitation, but I'm afraid I can't.

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you believe that loyal friends are available on the Internet?
2. What personal qualities matter most in your choice of friends? And why?

Reflections: Friendship and Loyalty

How many of us recognize true loyalty in a friend? Loyalty consists of a friend, who will stick by you, through thick and thin. A friend who is always honest with you and never betrays the friendship with lies is a loyal friend. If you have a loyal friend, you have indeed found a true virtue in that friend.

The current trend on the Internet is befriending anyone who requests to be your friend. However, this new trend may lead to disasters. It may be popular and trendy to have a network filled with a multitude of mutual friends. However, one true loyal friend may be the only friend you need.

A term used on the popular Facebook¹ site is B.F.F. This acronym means best friends forever. Are they really your best friends forever? You might ask yourself this question, "Will they share my private matters with others on the pages of Facebook, or perish the thought, engage in gossip about me with others?" If the answer to that is, "I don't know", more than likely, they will not be your best friends forever. Maybe not, even for a day.

I choose to have a B.L.F., a best loyal friend, for those of you who may be challenged by the use of acronyms during this age of technology and fast-talking.

Loyalty found in a friend is akin to making a deposit in a bank account. More often than not, your deposits gain interest, an interest in your well-being and welfare. A loyal friend attracts another loyal friend. In essence, water does seek its own level.

If you were a B.L.F. way before Facebook gained notoriety, then I'm sure you understand the premise of loyalty in a friend. You should never exploit your B.L.F. to gain more friends or make yourself seem more important to others. These are not the traits of a best loyal friend.

A best loyal friend does not care who is invited to your party. They will attend your party and celebrate you, just in the way a best loyal friend should do.

Reconnecting with a best loyal friend is easier to do on the pages of Facebook. However, a virtual friend does not assure you of his loyalty. My caution to you is that you'd better pay attention to the smiling faces on the Facebook pages. In the eighties we were warned of smiling faces in a song, which contained these lyrics, "A smile is just a frown turned upside down, my friend."² Now, that is the undisputed truth for my generation.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

It's so easy to take good friends for granted. Like a comfortable pair of gloves, old friends wear well. But friendships that suffer from busyness and over-familiarity can't afford to be neglected too long. They need renewal. If you want and need to keep true friendship alive and well, please, consider and think over a list of the most important qualities. Probably it will help you to understand why you and your best friend haven't called up for ages, why you're getting embarrassed while being asked "Whom are you going to have fun with this weekend?" You may neglect your intimate friends from time to time, but if you fail to cultivate these qualities — loyalty, forgiveness, honesty, and dedication — you can't expect to keep true friends.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. Best friends, in a way, have the highest loyalty towards each other, because they always have each other's back no matter what it is.
2. From the start of a friendship, there is a little bit of loyalty to your newly acquired friend.
3. In a way, there are levels of loyalty, the way I see it.
4. As it does become a closer friendship, the level of trust changes a bit.

5. You want to build a bond of trust so that friendship can become better.
6. You are relied on more, and you start to be there for your friend.

VI Reflecting on the Text

With the wide spread of information technology, the number of Internet-surfers has been sharply increasing, and they get used to doing a multitude of things online, such as reading, studying, shopping and even making friends. Some of them think that they can find true friends online, while others believe vice versa. Do you believe that virtual friends can be loyal and real friends? Give reasons to support your argument.

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. Why do many people choose to keep dogs as pets instead of other animals?
2. Why do you think a growing number of Chinese, especially the elderly, prefer to keep pets?

A Tribute to the Dog

The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter whom he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith.

The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolute, unselfish friend a man may have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog.

A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he can be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer. He will lick the sores and wounds that come in the encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince.

When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth, an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard him against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes and death takes its master in its embrace and the body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there, by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness faithful and true even to death.

Section B

Directions: Read the following paragraph carefully. Cross out two sentences that do not help to develop the controlling idea.

My little niece, a ten-month-old baby, is the most lovely child I have ever seen. Her brother usually babysits her in his spare time. Her face is like a red apple and her eyes are like bright stars. When you carry her in your arms, she likes to put her arms around your neck. All the grown-ups in the family love her very much and often try to make her smile. But quite often it is she who makes us laugh. Her father likes to take photos when she smiles. Once I winked at her and she smiled. When I did it again, she watched me attentively. Then she tried to imitate. While I closed one eye to wink, she had to close both eyes at the same time, and then quickly opened them again. And that was her way to wink. We all burst into laughter. When we looked at her again, she was staring at us, puzzled, as if she were asking, "What are you laughing at?" We all love this gorgeous, cute little baby.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following situation and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

Your best friend Teddy asks you to help him cheat on an English exam. You must say no to him but justify yourself by showing what is true friendship. Don't worry. He can surely accept your opinion because he will know the true meaning of friendship.

Tips for English Learning

Building up Your Vocabulary (3) — Make Vocabulary Webs

Rather than studying a long list of unrelated vocabulary, use specific vocabulary lists to help you prepare for the type of vocabulary you need for work, school or hobbies. Try to always learn vocabulary in groups of words instead of random lists. In this manner, words are related to each other and are more likely to be remembered over the long-term.

Vocabulary webs

You may want to relate a new word to the words you already know. For example, the word gigantic (very large) has a similar meaning to the words big, huge, large, etc. You could make a sequence: small, medium, large, very large, gigantic. List as many things as you can that could be considered gigantic.

The Joy of Work

A FAMOUS QUOTE

Labour is often the father of pleasure.

— François-Marie Arouet (Voltaire)

勤劳常是快乐之源。

—— 弗朗索瓦-马利·阿鲁埃（伏尔泰）

François-Marie Arouet (Voltaire) (1694–1778), French poet, dramatist, historian, and philosopher. He was an outspoken and aggressive enemy of every injustice, especially of religious intolerance. His works are an outstanding embodiment of the principles of the French Enlightenment.

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you often help your parents with the household chores? What do you usually do to help them?
2. Have you had any experience of doing part-time jobs to help support yourself and your family? What did you think about it?

Work Is a Blessing

I grew up in Lakeland, LA, one of 12 children. We all lived on my parents' subsistence farm. We grew cotton, sugar cane, corn, hogs, and chickens and had a large garden, but it didn't bring in much cash. So when I was 12, I got a part-time job on a dairy farm down the road, helping to milk cows. We milked 65 cows at 5 in the morning and again at 2 in the afternoon, seven days a week.

In the kitchen one Saturday before daylight, I remember complaining to my father and grandfather about having to go milk those cows. My father said, "Ya know, boy, to work is a blessing."

I looked at those two men who had worked harder than I ever had — my father eking out a living on that farm and my grandfather farming and working as a carpenter during the Depression¹. I had a feeling I had been told something really important, but it took many years before it sank in.

Going to college was a rare privilege for a kid from Lakeland. My father told me if I picked something to study that I liked doing, I'd always look forward to my work. But he also added, "Even having a job you hate is better than not having a job at all." I wanted to be a farmer, but I joined the ROTC² program to help pay for college. And what started out as an obligation to the Army became a way of life that I stayed committed to for 37 years, three months and three days.

In the late 1980s, during a visit to Bangladesh, I saw a woman with a baby on her back, breaking bricks with a hammer. I asked a Bangladesh military escort why they weren't using a machine, which would have been a lot easier. He told me a machine would put that lady out of work. Breaking those bricks meant she could earn enough money to feed herself and her baby that day. And as bad as that woman's job was, it was enough to keep a small family alive. It reminded me of my father's words: To work is a blessing.

Serving in the U.S. Army overseas, I saw a lot of people like that woman in Bangladesh. And I have come to believe that people without jobs are not free. They are victims of crime, the ideology of terrorism, poor health, depression and social unrest. These victims become the illegal immigrants, the slaves of human trafficking, the drug dealers, and the street gang members. I have seen it over and over again on the U.S. border, in Somalia, the Congo, Afghanistan and in New Orleans. People who have jobs can have a home, send their kids to school, develop a sense of pride, contribute to the good of the community, and even help others. When we can work, we are free. We are blessed.

I don't think I will ever quit working. I'm retired from the Army, but I'm still working to help people be prepared for disaster. And I may get to do a little farming someday, too. I'm not going to stop. I believe in my father's words. I believe in the blessing of work.

Whether you are waiting tables or a brain surgeon, any job you do is about serving others and making their life better on some level. We have all had experiences where someone working in their job has lifted us up and made a difference to our day or brought us down and made our day worse. We have all met wonderful people cleaning floors and people who are not so wonderful who have amazing jobs. So whatever your job, how do you bring love to work? Be grateful for your work. Being grateful doesn't mean you have to stay in a job you don't like but it will help you to develop a more positive mindset when you are there. You don't like your job, but you may enjoy being with your colleagues. This is something to be thankful for. When you practise gratefulness it will really allow you to develop a more useful outlook and be happier at your work.

5. Another generation reverses the trend.

VI Reflecting on the Text

With the sharp rise of the number of college graduates in the labour market in recent years, it is increasingly difficult for college students to find ideal jobs upon graduation. Should they stay at home living off their parents or should they take jobs that may not be so satisfactory? What do you think of the NEET group (an acronym for people currently "not in education, employment, or training") in society? Give your reasons and suggestions.

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you hope to start your own business? What would you like to do?
2. What do you know about the necessary conditions for starting a business?

How to Start Your Own Business

The paradox of starting your own business lies in the simultaneous challenge and reward, making it an experience unlike any other. So many businesses fail, and most entrepreneurs exclude themselves from the possibility. The tragic reality is that when businesses fail, the passion often dies with it. By following some sound advice and being prepared for the process, you will decrease your chances of losing a lot more than you bargained for. I have recently started a business and have learned some crucial lessons in the process that I feel privileged to share with you.

1. Identify your motivation. Why do you want to start your own business? To have more time? To make more money? To be your own boss? To have creative control over what you love to do? Write out all of your motivating factors and prioritize them. When you see them listed, you might see a pattern in that you're just unhappy at your current job and starting your own business isn't the answer.

2. Identify your passion. What do you love to do? What skills and knowledge do you uniquely bring to the table? What gets you excited about your work? Keep that passion at the forefront of your business plan, your marketing strategies, and your daily routine. If you keep your passion in plain sight, you will stay focused on the purpose of your business and not solely on the logistics.

3. Identify your market. If you are starting your business locally, research your competitors. Determine if there is room in the market for your business. What will you do differently to draw in customers? What niche market¹ are the other businesses missing? If you are starting an Internet company, research the requirements for your own unique Web presence. Your business cannot survive without customers, so do enough research on the front end to determine if there are enough potential clients to keep your business alive.

4. Identify your finances. If you have ever purchased a new home, you know that the financial obligations extend beyond the down payment and the mortgage. You have to buy furniture, trash cans, a garage door opener, light fixtures and landscaping equipment, and before you know it, you've far exceeded your financial boundaries. That can happen just as easily in a business. Do exhaustive financial planning. Meet with a financial advisor or someone at your bank to examine the financial viability of your business and the process of getting it up and running. Plan wisely and do not assume the best about your business. Be prepared for financial loss and get advice on how to alleviate that burden in the future.

5. Identify your support system. Seek out advice from seasoned business owners, even those in your own field. Develop relationships with people who can offer sound advice and criticism that you might not see. If there is a business owner in your community or in your network that you aspire to model, examine his or her business practices and how they handle various situations. Ask for counsel before big decisions, and even create your own makeshift Board of Directors² to help guide you in the planning and start-up process.

Once you have all of these elements in place, you are prepared to start the process of developing a business plan, applying for a license, establishing a marketing presence, etc. Owning your own business can be unparalleled in the professional world, and if you surround yourself with wise counsel, you can have a career that daily feeds your passion.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Before you make up your mind about which way to go, take a hard, honest look at your motivation for starting a company. Too many people are looking to get rich, escape the corporate grind, and work shorter hours with more free time. None of those reasons is likely to lead to success. If you are focused on solving a customer problem or need, believe you can do what you do better than anyone else, dying to work long hours, wear many hats, and juggle endless responsibilities, then you have the right startup mindset. You also need certain personality traits. One of them is a willingness to work very hard all by yourself, at least for the first year or so (and possibly longer).

IV Writing

5. To get ready for the trip, all the things he needed were put into a suitcase.

Section B

Directions: Supply a topic sentence for the following paragraph.

_____. Successful first dates include both parties expressing information about what they like, who they are, and so forth. Usually, these dates will end in tentative plans for a second one. Clingy (黏附的) dates end up with one of the parties practically begging for information about the other. However, the non-clinger is not interested. On boastful dates, one member of the duo (一对) talks about all of his or her skills, talents, and abilities. The listening end of the pair is never asked about his or her life. Awkward first dates generally involve lots of silence or one or both of the partners not knowing how to act appropriately. While many dates occur every day, they can generally fall into one of these categories.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following information and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

There was a time when most people expected to get out of school, find a job, and stick with it pretty much for the rest of their lives. Today, the opposite is true. People tend to change jobs fairly often, for various reasons. When you graduate from college, will you be committed to a lifetime career or job-hop often? Give your reasons.

Tips for English Learning

Building up Your Vocabulary (4) — Use Word Formation Charts

Word formation is one of the keys to successful English learning. Advanced level English exams tend to use word formation as one of the key testing elements. You may use the existing word formation charts to facilitate your vocabulary learning. You can also create something similar of your own. The following is a sample formation chart which provides the concept noun, personal noun, adjective and verb forms of some key vocabulary.

Concept noun	Personal noun	Adjective	Verb accounting	accountant	accountable	account
accusation	accuser	accusing	accuse
achievement	achiever	achievable	achieve
administration	administrator	administrative	administrate
admiration	admirer	admiring	admire advice	adviser	advisory	advise analysis	analyst	analytical	analyze competition	competitor	competitive	compete education	educator	educational	educate destruction	destroyer	destructive	destroy

Work Is a Service

Young people may ask themselves questions like this when they apply for employment: "What are my working hours? What are my extra benefits besides wages? What holidays will I have off? Will I have enough time to hang out with my friends or pursue my hobbies?" With questions like these, however, when we focus on our leisure hours instead of our working hours, we may be prevented from seeing a much greater opportunity.

Good work attitudes, habits, and skills are learned through successful work experiences. Let me illustrate. On the ranch (牧场) where I grew up, the cows had to be milked before dawn every day. When I was just 10 years old, I would enter our barnyard where there were about 10 to 12 cows waiting for me to let them into the milking barn. My mother and father used to say out loud to the cows, "Good morning. It's good to see you!" I have to confess that as a young boy I didn't feel quite the same way toward the cows.

After each cow was milked, I poured the milk from the pail into a 10-gallon can. Each can weighed about 80 pounds when full. It made me stretch my young muscles as I carried them to the road for the dairy to pick up.

My father and mother quite frequently helped me with milking the cows. I remember my father and mother continued to milk until they were in their late 80s. But Father didn't milk the cows because he had to; he milked them because they needed to be milked. There is a difference. To him, these animals were not just cows — they were Big Blackie and Bossie and Sally and Betsy. He wanted them to be content. He always said that contented cows give good milk. To my father, milking cows — as unsophisticated as it may seem — was not an extra burden; it was an opportunity. Milking was not a job for him; it was a service.

This philosophy is something that helped me as I grew up. It helped me to find out that all honest work is honorable. Within a few years I realized that routinely performing these chores actually began to give me a sense of confidence and empowerment. I took pride in my work. We control our own attitudes towards work. Self-confidence and empowerment can serve us well — in the classroom or on Wall Street.

Instead of thinking of our daily work as an extra burden, we should think of it as an opportunity. That's just the way my father taught me to feel about the cows. Those teachings have remained with me all my life, and I continue to visit the ranch and its memories as often as possible.

第二部分: 阅读选择(第11~15题, 每题2分, 共10分)

阅读下面短文, 请从短文后所给各题的4个选项(A、B、C、D)中选出1个最佳选项。

Friendship and Loyalty

When the terrorist attack on September 11th caused people to flee the building, Avremel Zelmanowitz risked his own chance of escape by staying behind with his friend and colleague, Ed Beyea, who was confined to a wheelchair due to a paralysis known as quadriplegia (四肢截瘫). Both men lost their lives, but the story of Avremel's love and devotion to his friend conveys a life-giving message to all.

Avremel never married, and he shared a house with his brother and his family. He was a loving uncle to his brother's children, and he was devoted to caring for his aging parents. He was a "family man" in every sense of the word. At the same time, he had his own life, his Torah classes, his varied interests, and a job and friends to which he was characteristically devoted.

When the tragedy occurred, Avremel was age 55, and his friend, Ed Beyea, was age 42. Ed became disabled after a diving accident at age 22, but he managed to work 14 years at Blue Cross Blue Shield since his injury. Both he and Avremel were program analysts who worked on the 27th floor of the World Trade Center.

Avremel had joined the office two years after Ed was hired, and the two became very close friends. They both loved books and music — often trading books and tapes, and they both served as the special uncle of their respective families. Like Avremel, Ed had no children of his own, but he was a father figure to his two nephews after their father died. Both friends had a great sense of humor, although Ed was strong and outgoing, while Avremel was the more quiet of the pair.

On the morning of September 11th, Ed wanted to wait until he could be securely carried down by several rescue workers, as it was dangerous for someone with his disability to be moved. Avremel wouldn't allow his friend to wait alone when everyone else was fleeing the building, and he stayed with him.

In the days that followed, the media learned about Avremel's selfless act, and the story began to spread. President Bush, in his national prayer address to the American people, referred to Avremel's act as one of the many "eloquent (有说服力的) acts of sacrifice" that were demonstrated by Americans during this crisis.

11. What happened to Avremel and Ed during the September 11th terrorist attacks?
- A. Avremel rescued Ed at the cost of his own life.
 - B. Both Avremel and Ed gave up their chance of escape.
 - C. Both Avremel and Ed were finally rescued.
 - D. Avremel stayed with Ed and both lost their lives.
12. Avremel and Ed were similar in that _____.
- A. both of them were in their 50s
 - B. both of them loved books and music
 - A. both of them were disabled
 - B. both lived with their brothers' families
13. Which of the following statements is true according to the passage?
- A. Avremel took care of Ed's life after work.
 - B. Avremel liked diving when he was young.
 - C. Ed became disabled after a driving accident.
 - D. Ed was not able to get down stairs himself.
14. Why did Avremel choose to stay when others were fleeing?
- A. Because he expected the rescuers to help him.
 - B. Because he tried to carry Ed downstairs.
 - C. Because he didn't want to leave Ed behind.
 - D. Because he found it safer to stay inside.
15. The word "address" in the last paragraph means _____.
- A. speech
 - B. solution
 - C. information
 - D. title

Five Reasons to Celebrate Mistakes

- ① Mistakes have a way of focusing our attention and putting crucial problems right in our face. Mistakes light a path for us. When we own up to our mistakes, we often know exactly what's not working and what we can do to fix it.
- ② There is one sure way to avoid mistakes and that's to avoid life. The writer who never finishes a book will never have to worry about getting negative reviews. The comedian who never performs in front of an audience is sure to avoid telling jokes that fall flat. When we are comfortable with making mistakes, we're more likely to take risks and tackle projects. Celebrating mistakes involves wisdom. Effective people don't set goals with the idea of making mistakes. Instead, they aim to reach those goals while accepting the risk of error.
- ③ Imagine working at a company that has no standards — where mistakes are not distinguished from successes and no one is held accountable for errors. We could turn in the most careless and the crudest pieces of work we'd ever done, and they would get treated the same as our best work. We'd never be able to count on having the supplies we needed because no one would complain when vendors failed to deliver. Projects could go permanently unfinished and no one would say anything. In an atmosphere where there's no difference between failure and success, the word "mistake" would be without meaning. Mistakes can happen only when people are truly committed to making things work.
- ④ The word "mistake" derives meaning only by comparison to what we desire. Noticing and admitting our mistakes reminds us of what we really want to have, do, and be. Mistakes offer us an opportunity to practice truth telling. With this act come the rewards of honesty and frankness, including self-knowledge and the capacity for change. As we tell the truth about our mistakes, we can benefit by releasing shame and blame. Fixing mistakes and preventing them from happening again are key goals.
- ⑤ Mistakes are usually more instructive than successes — and often far more interesting. The lessons we learn from making mistakes often stick with us for a lifetime. We can translate those lessons into new values and behaviors that make a profound difference. With all these potential benefits from mistakes, we have plenty of reasons to celebrate them.

How to Improve Self-Confidence

Improving your self-confidence can be a difficult task. Most people associate having a high level of confidence with being successful. In some way this is true, since most successful people have high levels of self-confidence and are able to take on any challenges in their path.

(26) _____ It can take a long time to develop, but it certainly can have a massive positive impact on the rest of your life.

Self-confidence can be the route to achieving many of your other goals, whether it be asking certain person out to dinner, becoming successful in business or even with your weight loss goals.

(27) _____

Face what you fear. Most of the time, what you fear will not really be as bad as it seems. Whether it is being too embarrassed to go to a new fitness class since you think you will stick out like a sore thumb, or going for that promotion at work, you will find in time that everyone is fearful or has insecurities about something. (28) _____ They just deal with them in a different and positive way.

Improve your self-confidence by finding out what you really want from life. (29) _____ Don't be afraid of failing, since life is one big learning curve. I bet the most successful people you've met failed over and over again before they hit it big.

(30) _____ By utilizing the techniques used in hypnosis (催眠), you can gain access to your subconscious mind, allowing you to plant positive thoughts that can greatly help you with your progress of becoming a more self-confident person.

- A. There are a few basic tips to help make you into a self-confident human being.
- B. One method that can help to improve self-confidence is through the use of Hypnosis.
- C. Try new things that excite you.
- D. Even the most self-confident people have certain issues.
- E. We aim to help people become more self-confident in life.
- F. Developing self-confidence can be hard, especially if you are starting with little or no confidence.

The Power of Positive Words in the Family

As a writer and psychotherapist (心理医师), I have been using words carefully most of my life. While counseling a husband and wife, I notice that a (31) _____ word can stir their emotions and take their conversation to a dark place that they both know is negative.

World peace (32) _____ with peace in the family. As a therapist, I've heard many adults recite hurtful words they heard decades ago from a parent or a brother or sister. Care in speaking to children requires a degree of self-possession, the ability to see past the blind emotion of the moment to the needs of the child. Good words (33) _____ from that greater vision.

For example, words of extreme praise can do (34) _____ for the injured ego (自我) of a child or spouse. Sometimes it's helpful to give words to what is usually left unspoken. "I appreciate what you did for me. I'm happy that you're with me." Simple, direct and heart-felt words of (35) _____, appreciation and gratitude often go unsaid, when they could be a handy means of healing. Words hurt and words heal.

Every day (36) _____ opportunities to say words of encouragement and recognition. No matter how strong or (37) _____ we are, we all need such words. But often they may seem unnecessary. My rule is: if the thought occurs to me to say something supportive, I say it. You can never speak too often in praise and appreciation. You can also receive that praise, when it comes, gracefully — with words. "Thank you for saying that. I need to hear that."

A friend of our family, an intelligent, progressive Catholic priest, (38) _____ praises our children to the skies. He is very extreme in his language, and everyone knows he overdoes it with his praise. But we all love to see him, and we (39) _____ his friendship. We don't need realism and moderation (适度) from such a friend.

Everywhere today, marriage partners and children are in distress. I have no (40) _____ that one simple solution would be to offer them words of support. When used with care, language can be therapeutic. Even, and maybe especially, when a person is being difficult and aggressive, words of understanding and affirmation, realistic and felt, can often help.

A. wonders

E. always

I. already

B. doubt

F. successful

J. treasure

C. come

G. careful

K. praise

D. begins

H. single

L. offers

第六部分: 完形补文 (第 41~50 题, 每题 1.5 分, 共 15 分)

Careful Use of Words

Words are powerful and can be very (0) damaging (damage) when used carelessly. They have the power to evoke potent emotions and they can help inspire, (41) _____ (courage) and motivate people. They can transform the world that we live in and in a crisis they can be your strongest ally or your most damaging opponent.

One should always be very (42) _____ (care) when using words, but this is especially so in the midst of a crisis. Who can forget when, during the middle of the largest oil spill in US history, the Chief Executive of BP, Tony Hayward, said "I'd like my life back"? When a crisis breaks, a company needs to be (43) _____ (particular) careful in framing its response. While attempting to assert control it also needs to be aware of the (44) _____ (implicate) of the response and what it may mean in the future. Framed properly, a (45) _____ (train) spokesperson can use their language to calm nerves during a very anxious time and can give the public an (46) _____ (impress) that the company is in control and working hard to resolve the crisis.

The language in all crisis (47) _____ (communicate) materials should be carefully managed and reviewed. Have all professional expressions and academic language been removed and adapted? The language should be simple and self-explanatory. Are the communication materials (48) _____ (respect) of all audiences including stakeholders, employees, media and the general public? Are words the best method to explain what happened? It may be useful to have a graphic (49) _____ (design) /photographer available to allow you to communicate clearly what happened in a simple and (50) _____ (logic) way. Can your press release be converted into 140 characters or less for Twitter? It's unlikely — prepare alternative strategies to allow you to engage via social media channels.

A serious crisis can destroy companies and/or individuals. However, proper preparation combined with an appropriate response can actually help improve the reputation of both. Language is a powerful weapon and should be treated as such in all communications.

第七部分：短文写作（第 51 题，30 分）

请根据所提供材料中的要求撰写一篇 150 词左右的英语短文。

Congratulations!

We're glad to announce that you've won the first place in the English Speech Contest.

Tomorrow afternoon we're going to hold a press

It would be best if you listed possible questions and proper responses.

Unit 5

Keeping Your Dreams Alive

A FAMOUS QUOTE

You are never too old to set another goal or to dream a new dream.

— C. S. Lewis

无论年纪多大，都可以有新目标、新梦想。

—— C. S. 刘易斯

Clive Staples Lewis (1898–1963), Irish-born British scholar, writer, and lay theologian. He was an established literary figure whose impact is increasingly recognized by scholars and teachers.

Speaking Activity

Expressing Preferences

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers express preferences.

Andrews: Would you like to listen to some music?

Nancy: Certainly.

Andrews: I just bought another new album from the music store.

Nancy: You are crazy about buying CDs!

Andrews: Oh, yes. What sort of music do you like?

Nancy: I love just about anything by Prince.

Andrews: So, you're into 80s music then?

Nancy: Well, I like all kinds of music, but he is one of my favourites. How about you?

Andrews: I like alternative music.

Nancy: Do you have a favourite band?

Andrews: To be honest, no. I'm always in search of new music to listen to.

Guided Practice

Directions: Ask and express to each other your likes and dislikes or preferences. Use your own information. You may use the following tips to help you.

What sort of ... do you like?

I love/like ...

I am into ...

Do you have a favourite ...?

How about you?

... is one of my favourites.

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you believe that life is difficult? What are some of the difficulties that you have encountered in your life?
2. What suggestions did you get from your parents or friends when you met with difficulties in your life?

Life Is Difficult

Life is difficult.

This is a great truth, one of the greatest truths. It is a great truth because once we truly see this truth we transcend it. Once we truly know that life is difficult — once we truly understand and accept it — then life is no longer difficult. Because once it is accepted, the fact that life is difficult no longer matters.

Most people do not fully see this truth that life is difficult.

Instead they moan more or less incessantly, noisily or subtly, about the enormity of their problems, their burdens, and their difficulties as if life were generally easy, as if life should be easy. They voice their belief, noisily or subtly, that their difficulties represent a unique kind of affliction that should not be and that has somehow been especially visited upon them, or else upon their families, their tribe, their class, their nation, their race, or even their species, and not upon others. I know about this moaning because I have done my share.

Life is a series of problems. Do we want to moan about them or solve them? Do we want to teach our children to solve them?

Discipline is the basic set of tools we require to solve life's problems. Without discipline we can solve nothing. With only some discipline we can solve only some problems. With total discipline we can solve all problems.

What makes life difficult is that the process of confronting and solving problems is a painful one. Problems, depending upon their nature, evoke in us frustration of grief, sadness, loneliness, guilt, regret, anger, fear, anxiety, anguish, or despair. These are uncomfortable feelings, often very uncomfortable, often as painful as any kind of physical pain, sometimes equaling the very worst kind of physical pain. Indeed, it is because of the pain that events or conflicts engender in us all that we can call them problems. And since life poses an endless series of problems, life is always difficult and is full of pain as well as joy.

Yet it is in this whole process of meeting and solving problems that life has its meaning. Problems are the cutting edge that distinguishes between success and failure. Problems call forth our courage and our wisdom; indeed, they create our courage and our wisdom. It is only because of problems that we grow mentally and spiritually. When we desire to encourage the growth of the human spirit, we challenge and encourage the human capacity to solve problems, just as in school we deliberately set problems for our children to solve. It is through the pain of confronting and resolving that we learn. As Benjamin Franklin¹ said, "Those things that hurt, instruct." It is for this reason that wise people learn not to dread but actually to welcome problems and actually to welcome the pain of problems.

III Bridging the Gap

Directions: Fill in the blanks with a word or a phrase that best completes the passage. You may choose a suitable one from the list given.

than	inner	focus on	but	fit
the middle	satisfy	thinking of	sense	challenged

The purpose of life is to ① the soul, and though acknowledging your accomplishments can help in this effort, it cannot take you the full distance. The only thing that can satisfy your soul is an answer to the question, who am I? You are an individualized expression of life, of greater consequence and magnitude ② anything you will ever accomplish.

When we ③ the fact that we are enough now, the beginning, ④ and the end of every journey — whether it's finding a mate or getting a better job — is filled with a ⑤ of well-being. We may complete an experience and even be thrilled by the outcome, ⑥ we know that we are no more complete than when we started out.

You see, we are either enough right now or we're not; and if we are, then we're ⑦ by our enoughness to live that way.

The problem is, most of us don't listen to the ⑧ voice that says, "You're enough because you exist." We ignore it because being enough doesn't ⑨ the image we have of ourselves. We have spent so much time ⑩ ourselves as not being enough that enoughness seems very far away. We may have a sense of being surrounded by the Life Force, but we forget that the Life Force is also within us. And if the Life Force is within us, we are enough.

IV Translation

Section A

Directions: Translate the following sentences into English, using the words or phrases in the brackets.

5. It's important to _____ (把现实与虚构区分开来).
(distinguish)

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Imagine life as a game in which you are juggling some five balls in the air. You name them — work, family, health, friends and spirit and you are keeping all of these in the air. You will soon understand that work is a rubber ball. If you drop it, it will bounce back. But the other four balls — family, health, friends and spirit — are made of glass, and if you drop one of these, they will be irrevocably scuffed, marked, nicked, damaged or even shattered. They will never be the same. You must understand that and strive for balance in your life.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. One day while walking through the woods the nice old man found a cocoon of a butterfly. He took it home.
2. Once upon a time in a land far away, there was a wonderful old man who loved everything: animals, spiders, insects, etc.
3. A few days later, a small opening appeared; he sat and watched the butterfly for several hours as it struggled to force its body through that little hole.
4. Then the man decided to help the butterfly, so he took a pair of scissors and snipped off the remaining bit of the cocoon. The butterfly then emerged easily.
5. Then it seemed to stop making any progress. It appeared as if it had gotten as far as it could and it could go no farther.
6. But it never was able to fly.

VI Reflecting on the Text

Life is like a journey. It is full of ups and downs. And most of the time life is difficult. Along life's journey people embrace difficulties in their own ways. Some accept and face them bravely, and in consequence they may grow mature out of pains and frustrations in solving problems. Some just sit back complaining about their misfortune and their life's journey may stick there. To which kind of group do you belong? What will you do when confronted with problems and difficulties? What do you think of the problems and difficulties in your life? Give reasons and examples to support yourself.

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. If your friends turn to you for advice when they face life's challenges, what will you say to them?
2. What advice do you expect the author will give to people in difficulties?

Begin Again

To begin again means that you won't give up.

To begin again means you're trying.

You can either start over and live your life.

Or spend the rest of your life slowly dying.

It is never the falling that makes us fail.

It is never the pain or the crying.

You can never fail in life, my friend,

Unless you give up trying.

— Bob Perks¹

It seems lately that more and more of my friends are facing some seemingly insurmountable challenges in their lives. A few have lost their jobs and some have failed marriages. All too many have health issues or are battling cancer.

I don't know if it is desperation that causes them to turn to me for advice or whether they have come to value our friendship. But it is difficult, to say the least, to offer words of hope when all they feel is hopelessness. They expect answers, some magic waving of a wand, or a roadmap to get them back on their feet again.

I have often struggled with what to say. Mostly because I have faced many of the same challenges in my own life, I remember how empty I felt after someone cheerfully offered words like, "Keep your chin up!" "Things will get better!" "Hang in there!" "It's always darkest..." etc.

Yes, even those who were quick to quote the Bible² to me found me quite unreceptive at the time.

Now, as an inspiration writer, being thought of as a resource of hope or a good (or bad) example of what to do in life, I have even more people contacting me.

So, what do I say?

"What can I do, Bob? I've lost my job. What do you suggest?"

"Begin again."

"He walked out on me. My whole world just ended. What should I do?"

"Begin again."

"Bob, I know both your son and your wife had cancer. I found out my wife does, too.

What did you tell them?"

"Begin again."

It almost sounds too simple. I imagine in the darkest hours of one's life, those words would seem useless or uncaring. But it is indeed the answer.

All life challenges bring about an ending — and the chance for a beginning. A job loss presents an opportunity to start over somewhere else and maybe even in another career.

A failed marriage does not mean you are through loving or being loved. It means there are others just like you needing to be loved. Find them.

A life-threatening disease does not mean giving up. It means starting a new path to recovery and discovering within yourself the ability to fight back and win.

And if you are a person of faith, even death does not mean it's over. It means, "to begin again."

Tips for English Learning

Improving Your Reading (1) — Use Skimming & Scanning

Where you only need the shallowest knowledge of a subject, you can skim material. Skimming is used to quickly gather the most important information, or “gist”. Run your eyes over the text, noting important information. It’s not essential to understand each word when skimming.

If you need a moderate level of information on a subject, then you can scan the text. Scanning is used to find a particular piece of information. Run your eyes over the text looking for the specific piece of information you need. You can then speed read the contents of the chapters, picking out and understanding key words and concepts. If you see words or phrases that you don’t understand, don’t worry when scanning.

Only when you need full knowledge of a subject is it worth studying the text in detail. Here it’s best to skim the material first to get an overview of the subject. This gives you an understanding of its structure, into which you can then fit the details gained from a full reading of the material.

Unit 6

The Value of Money

A FAMOUS QUOTE

Never spend your money before you have it.

— Thomas Jefferson

钱财未到手，绝不提前花。

—— 托马斯·杰斐逊

Thomas Jefferson (1743–1826), the third President of the United States and the primary author of the Declaration of Independence.

Speaking Activity

Showing Agreement and Disagreement

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speaker agrees or disagrees with the other.

- Steve: Would you agree that Australian English and British English are very similar?
- Alice: I'm not sure I quite agree.
- Steve: Oh, what's your experience, then?
- Alice: I'd just like to say that they're very different. It's true that Australians speak English, but even people from Britain and America find it difficult to understand their accent.
- Steve: Well, you have a point there, but not all Australians speak with a strong accent.
- Alice: Really?
- Steve: Yes, you see, generally speaking, the more highly educated they are, the less typically Australian their speech is.
- Alice: Yes, you're quite right.

Guided Practice

Directions: You and your friend hold opposite views when discussing some controversial issue. Express your agreement and disagreement. Use the following tips when necessary.

I quite agree.

Yes, of course.

I'd go along with you on that.

I couldn't agree more!

I'm with you there.

That's exactly my opinion/view, too.

You have a point there, but ...

There's some/a lot of truth in what you say, but ...

I agree in principle/ on the whole, but ...

I'm not really sure if I would agree with you on that.

I can't accept that.

You can't be serious.

You must be joking.

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Recall and describe how your parents allocated pocket money to you and how you spent it.
2. What influence does the way of giving pocket money have on kids' finance management?

Teaching Children to Spend Pocket Money Wisely

School-going children need pocket money for food, stationery and bus fares. Parents give pocket money to their children in different ways. Some give a lump sum at the beginning of a month or a week. Others prefer to give pocket money on a daily basis. The way in which pocket money is given affects how money is spent or saved. On the other hand, the children's spending habits may affect how pocket money is given.

Pocket money given on a daily basis is sometimes termed as "food money". Children usually use the pocket money to buy food during recess and also at lunch hour if they have school activities in the afternoon. They learn how to manage small sums of money. As the money is limited, they have to control their spending. Some parents choose this method of allocating pocket money in order to prevent their children from overspending, hoping that in time they can be trusted with larger sums of money. Parents who earn daily wages may also opt for this due to financial constraints.

Giving pocket money on a daily basis places responsibilities of budgeting on the parents, instead of the child. The child may spend every single cent of the daily pocket money by overindulging in junk food, as they know they will get another sum of money the next day. This results in children being short-sighted in their spending. The thought of saving money never crossed their minds. They may develop the mentality that money is meant to be spent. Others spend more than they are given. They borrow from their siblings or their classmates when they feel like indulging themselves. Then they may ask for money to pay off their debts. This habit of borrowing causes them to depend on others to solve their problems. In such instances, the purpose of rationing is defeated.

Children need to learn how to budget their money. Some parents go by the "learning by doing" principle and give their children lump sums at the beginning of the month, and by the third week of the month their account is already dry.

On the other hand, some learn to budget their pocket money very well and even have savings at the end of the month. They do not borrow money unnecessarily. In other words, they learn to spend within their means. The key to doing this is to differentiate between needs and wants. Buy the necessary first, and indulge ourselves only if there is money left. This habit, when inculcated since young, stands them in good stead when they start working and earning their own money. It enables them to resist the temptation of "buy now and pay later" schemes.

Formation of any habit starts at a tender age. There is no better way to teach children to manage money than to start with their pocket money. They need to learn the importance of budgeting right from kindergarten days. It is a good idea to start with daily pocket money and move on to monthly pocket money. When children learn to spend within their means, they are able to manage their finances well later in their lives.

Money management can actually be broken down into a very simple practice that even a fourth grader can do in his young life. The _____ step to being on your wealth path is knowing how much you really do need in your life and how you can _____ the rest. If you are already working, arrange with your company to 3 a predetermined amount of your payroll into a forced savings fund and then you will learn to live with the rest. 4, the amount that is left for you to work with is smaller, and this particular practice is actually 5 "learning to pay yourself first" — despite bills and other payables, you will come first.

The beauty of this money management practice to get you on the wealth path is that you will be forced to cut your 6 spending. You will learn to live with what you have and figure out the little avenues in your life 7 you can stop the financial leaks. With this, you will find that you have extra money to invest with. 8 you have a sizeable amount, the next thing that you can do is to figure out where to put the extras that have 9 over time so you can generate money and make it 10 with very little effort from you. There are many things you can find to put your money in.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Whether or not children are allowed to handle their own pocket money, parents and stepparents will surely be budgeting a certain amount of cash for their children's everyday needs and wants. Kids don't need a great deal of money, but ideally, they should have enough so that they can learn to spend some and save some. Many parents help children to learn about the importance of spending by asking kids to separate their money into at least three portions. One is for immediate spending, one for short term savings (outings, video games, etc.) and the third is for long term savings (a car, college, etc.). In some families, they add a fourth category, which is for donating, teaching children the value and importance of helping those less fortunate.

4. Of course, you want to do some research before you invest in some of these seminars and make sure you're not just paying for some sales presentation.
5. Reading books can really expand your mind and allow you to learn so many different skills and gain knowledge that will help you in all areas of your life.
6. So what are some specific things you can do?

VI Reflecting on the Text

Currently, many kids growing up in cities tend to be spoiled due to their excessive pocket money at hand. However, parents don't deem the habit of overspending as an influential factor in developing kids' personalities. What's your opinion about pocket money management? Could you give suggestions on how to teach kids to manage finances wisely?

Pre-reading Questions

1. What do you think of the old saying, "money is the root of all evil"?
2. Do you believe how people think about money determines whether their money flow is constant?

The Importance of Money in Life

What were you taught about money as you were growing up? Something like “money doesn’t grow on trees”, or “money is the root of all evil”, or maybe “all rich people are greedy”?

Well, how do you expect to become a success financially if you believe these things? You attract into your life what you are thinking about and what you believe. If you think there is not enough money in this world for everyone you will never have enough money. That is called the Law of Attraction².

First of all, believing that “money doesn’t grow on trees” is an example of what’s called lack or scarcity programming. Our parents taught us that there was never enough money to go around, and that it was not readily available or abundant. But in truth, the universe is very abundant, and there is lots of money to go around for everyone. Just think what you could do if you have as much money as your heart desires. What wonderful things you could do with it: travel to the countries you have always dreamt of, buy a house you are even scared to think about, attend meditation classes so you could spiritually grow, donate money to your favorite charity, spend more quality time with your family, and the list goes on.

The key is to start thinking that you deserve the money and that there is lots of it available for you, and then you can start attracting it into your life. That’s abundance thinking, which is the opposite of lack or scarcity thinking. When you start thinking about the abundance the Law of Attraction will do the rest. You do not need to know how it is going to happen. Just make the first step, first thought. Starting is already winning.

And what about thinking that “money is the root of all evil”? Can you really expect to become a success if you believe that money is the root of all evil? Unless you have a desire to be an evil person, your subconscious will not let you have money if you believe deep down that it is the root of all evil.

By the way, that quote is taken out of context in the first place. It was originally stated as “the love of money is the root of all evil”. So it has nothing to do with the money itself.

Now that you understand that, you can start to think that money is in fact good. You can help people with money. You can stimulate the economy with money. Even the most kind-hearted spiritual person, who says they don’t need money, can do more to make the world a better place with money than without it.

And what about thinking that “all rich people are greedy”? Well, that creates us versus them, whereby you have labeled all of “them” greedy in your mind. You, on the other hand, are very giving in your mind. That’s why you don’t have money, because you’re not greedy.

Sure, there must be some rich people in the world who are greedy. But there are also poor people who are greedy. There are both rich and poor people who are very giving as well. The amount of money you have has nothing to do with these character traits.

In fact, a lot of rich people got there by not being greedy. Having a giving attitude opens up a flow of money that often brings them more. You will find the same thing: give away money joyfully to a friend, and notice that it comes back to you in some other form. The world needs to be a balance of give and take, and being joyful both as you give and receive will ensure that you always go with the flow.

And changing your mindset from what you were taught as a child to a healthier view of money will allow you to become the financial success you deserve to be, to become the real you.

Tips for English Learning

Improving Your Reading (2) — Guess Word Meaning

First, look at the title of the passage if there is one. You can get the general idea of it. Then you pay attention to the first and last sentence of every paragraph of the passage. Usually you can get the main idea of the paragraph. Third, through the context, you guess the new words that you come across. Finally, note the style and tone in order to get the writer's implication in meaning.

Reading is a fantastic way to learn new vocabulary. Try reading short stories rather than long novels. These are often broken down into short chapters, which can be read and then analyzed for language. Don't feel that you have to understand every word. Try to get the general meaning. Underline unknown words and try to guess their meaning from context. You can use your dictionary later to look them up and check if you were right. Use graded readers. These tend to have questions designed to test comprehension of what you have just read.

Showing Unpleasant Feelings

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers express unpleasant feelings.

- Mr Green: Do you know how late it is?
John: My fault. I didn't realize what time it was.
Mr Green: I hope you don't think that excuse lets you off the hook.
John: Not really. I'm telling the truth.
Mr Green: Haven't I asked you to call if you're going to be home late?
John: This is true, but it must have slipped my mind.
Mr Green: Regardless, all you had to do was give a call.
John: I know. I should have called.
Mr Green: Come home late one more time, and you'll find your stuff outside.
John: You want to throw me out over this?
Mr Green: That's right, maybe then you'll respect my rules.
John: That's fine, because if I leave, then your rules won't matter.

Pre-reading questions

1. Do you believe that your inner voice will always lead you down the right path?
2. Have you ever been in a situation in which your inner voice urged you to take action?

Your Inner Voice

My day started just like all the other days for the past 15 years where I get up, make some coffee, shower, get dressed and leave for the train station at precisely 7:35 A.M. to arrive at work by 8:30. While on the train I would always choose a seat away from the crowd so I can read the newspaper in peace and quiet. At work I am always being bombarded with questions from coworkers, suppliers, the telephone and then those dreaded meetings, so the last thing I need is some stranger to sit beside me and make small talk.

I don't know why but for some reason when I got on the train that day it was unusually full, something I don't recall ever happening in the past. With hesitation I sat down in the only seat available beside a middle-aged man who had his head down and seemed to be lost in his thoughts. I was glad that he didn't notice when I sat next to him as he just continued to look down towards the floor.

Shortly after the train left for my 30-minute ride downtown I found myself wondering what this man was thinking about. What could be so important that he didn't even see me sit next to him? I tried to forget about it and started to read my paper. However, for some strange reason this inner voice kept prompting me to talk to this man. I tried to ignore the voice, as there was no way I was starting a conversation with a complete stranger.

As you probably guessed, I eventually broke down and came up with an excuse to ask him a question. When he raised his head and turned his eyes towards me I could see that he must have been really upset as he had red eyes and still had some tears rolling down the side of his face despite his feeble attempt to wipe them away. I can't describe the sadness I felt seeing someone in so much pain.

We talked for about 20 minutes and in the end he seemed to be doing better. As we were leaving the train he thanked me profusely for being an angel by taking the time to talk. I never did find out what was making his heart so heavy with pain but was glad I listened to the voice that day.

Several weeks had passed when I noticed an envelope on my desk after returning from lunch. It was not addressed to anyone and only had the word angel written on it. My receptionist attached a note saying a gentleman dropped it off saying he did not know my name but had described me well enough that the receptionist knew it was for me. When I read the note inside the envelope I was so filled with emotions that I couldn't contain myself. It was a letter from the man I met on the train thanking me again for talking to him and saving his life that day.

Apparently he had some very hurtful personal problems that were so overwhelming that he was planning to take his own life that day. In his letter he went on to explain that he was a religious person and in desperation screamed out to God that if God really cared about him he would send someone to prevent him from taking his own life. In his eyes I was that someone, that Angel sent by God.

Not being a religious person myself, I don't know what that voice was that made me take a chance and talk to a stranger, but I do know that it made a difference in someone's life that day. So the next time you feel prompted for no apparent reason to talk to a friend, relative, neighbor or even a complete stranger please remember my story. You just may make a difference in someone's life when you listen to your inner voice.

Our words have power, and our speech has the power to set the energy or the directions we _____ in our lives. If we say good and positive things, good and positive things (experiences) happen to us. These words give us the _____ to experience life from a positive or optimistic point of _____. If, on the other hand, we come from negativity and say negative things, _____, negative things happen to us or we _____ seeing life as one big problem or disappointment.

While we are all familiar with our external speech or voice, we also have another voice that we work with and 6 with every day. This is our "inner voice". While at first glance you may think: "what is inner voice?" But when you come right down to it, we are all familiar with our inner voice. Our inner voice is that small utterance that comes from deep within us, 7 job it is to provide us with guidance. This is a different kind of communication than 8 comes from our normal waking consciousness, which I call our "analyzer". When our analyzer is talking, the communication we receive tends to seem more like a 9 conversation that goes on inside our heads all day and sometimes well into the 10.

5. _____ (尽管钢材供应不足), industrial output has increased by five percent. (despite)

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Your inner voice is there to help guide you along the path called life. How many times has your inner voice told you to do something and then you, in turn, choose to ignore its promptings, only to find out it was a big mistake? I'll bet, at that moment, you say to yourself, "I should have listened to myself." Sometimes the promptings of our inner voice are subtle, reminding us to pay a bill or call a friend. Other times our inner voice can be more insistent, reminding us over and over of some unfinished business for perhaps days, weeks or even years. If your inner voice lasts more than a week, i.e., you find the same thoughts and feelings coming back to you over and over again, then you know that this is your inner voice looking for expression. Trust the information you are receiving, and use it to guide you into action.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. Stand relaxed with your hands loosely at your side and close your eyelids.
2. Keep thinking and thanking until you feel your heart has truly opened up.
3. Think about something or someone you are truly and deeply grateful for.
4. Now ask your inner voice for any guiding message.
5. Take a few deep breaths. Inhale and exhale through the nose slowly.
6. Follow the steps below and commune with your wise inner guide.

VI Reflecting on the Text

Your inner voice may tell you how to make correct decisions. However, in reality we are inclined to follow others, especially the majority. For instance, when an old man fell down in the street, a lot of people stood there watching but no one went to give the old man a hand, for they didn't want to get into trouble. What would you do in this situation? Would you follow your inner voice to help the old man or would you follow the crowd? Give your reasons.

Pre-reading questions

1. What do you think a smile indicates?
2. What can a person do to make a good first impression?

Make a Good First Impression

At a dinner party in New York, one of the guests, a woman who had inherited money, was eager to make a pleasing impression on everyone. She had squandered a modest fortune on sables, diamonds and pearls. But she hadn't done anything whatsoever about her face. It radiated sourness and selfishness. She didn't realize what everyone knows: namely, the expression one wears on one's face is far more important than the clothes one wears on one's back.

Actions speak louder than words, and a smile says, "I like you. You make me happy. I am glad to see you." That is why dogs make such a hit. They are so glad to see us that they almost jump out of their skins. So, naturally, we are glad to see them.

A baby's smile has the same effect.

Have you ever been in a doctor's waiting room and looked around at all the glum faces waiting impatiently to be seen? Dr. Stephen K. Sproul, a veterinarian in Raytown, Missouri, told of a typical spring day when his waiting room was full of clients waiting to have their pets inoculated. No one was talking to anyone else, and all were probably thinking of a dozen other things they would rather be doing than "wasting time" sitting in that office. He told one of our classes:

"There were six or seven clients waiting when a young woman came in with a nine-month-old baby and a kitten. As luck would have it, she sat down next to a gentleman who was more than a little distraught about the long wait for service. The next thing he knew, the baby just looked up at him with that great big smile that is so characteristic of babies. What did that gentleman do? Just what you and I would do, of course; he smiled back at the baby. Soon he struck up a conversation with the woman about her baby and his grandchildren, and soon the entire reception room joined in, and the boredom and tension were converted into a pleasant and enjoyable experience."

The ancient Chinese were a wise lot — wise in the ways of the world; and they had a proverb that you and I ought to cut out and paste inside our hats. It goes like this, "A man without a smiling face must not open a shop." ¹

Your smile is a messenger of your goodwill. Your smile brightens the lives of all who see it. To someone who has seen a dozen people frown, scowl or turn their faces away, your smile is like the sun breaking through the clouds. Especially when that someone is under pressure from his bosses, his customers, his teachers or parents or children, a smile can help him realize that all is not hopeless — that there is joy in the world.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

A smile costs nothing, but creates much. It enriches those who receive, without impoverishing those who give. It happens in a flash and the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. None are so rich that they can get along without it, and none so poor but are richer for its benefits. It creates happiness in the home, fosters goodwill in a business, and is the countersign of friends. It is rest to the weary, daylight to the discouraged and sunshine to the sad. Yet it cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen, for it is something that is no earthly good to anybody till it is given away. And if in the last-minute rush of Christmas buying some of our salespeople should be too tired to give you a smile, may we ask you to leave one of yours? For nobody needs a smile so much as those who have none left to give!

IV Writing

Section A

Directions: Rewrite the following by putting the short sentences into compound or complex sentences, or sentences with participial, prepositional, or other phrases.

Example: The dean issued a bulletin. It said the library would remain open on weekends.

3. The river was slowly rising. It began to overflow its banks.
4. He had fought all his life for these goals. The goals no longer seemed important to him.
5. He is influenced by a famous psychologist. He chooses to major in psychology.

Section B

Directions: Choose from the following transitional expressions and put them in the blanks in the paragraph.

in addition as finally for example even if also

The erosion of the middle of the labor market is easy to misinterpret, because its roots are multiple. During the 1970s, the entry into the work force of an unprecedented number of women and of young adults born during the baby boom resulted in too many workers for the jobs available, and depressed wages. The decline of the middle _____ ① _____ has something to do with the explosive growth in world trade since 1960. _____ ② _____ manufacturing technologies have become more mobile, and multinational firms more footloose, production jobs have migrated from the US to countries where wages are low. _____ ③ _____, technology itself has helped to provoke the shifts in the job market. _____ ④ _____, fewer American workers would have been needed to make steel in 1980 than in 1960. _____ ⑤ _____ the pressures of global competition had not been a factor, because new machines have made many of their tasks redundant. _____ ⑥ _____, the high rate of unemployment caused by these trends has tended to drive wages down further, especially at the low end, since it forces unskilled workers to compete for their jobs with unemployed people who are willing to do the work for less.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following situation and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

Li Hua will graduate from university this summer, and he is planning to go back to his hometown and start his own business. However, his parents are encouraging him to find a job in the big city where his university is located. If you were Li Hua, what would be your decision?

Tips for English Learning

Breaking Poor Reading Habits (1) — Do Not Read Word by Word

When you concentrate on separate words you often miss the overall concept of what is being said. People who read each word as a distinct unit comprehend less than those who read faster by “chunking” words together in blocks. Effective reading involves reading blocks of words at one time and comprehending the meaning of the word group. Our brains can comprehend ideas better when it takes in a group of words at one time. Practice expanding the number of words that you read at a time. You may also find that you can increase the number of words read by holding the text a little further from your eyes. The more words you can read in each block, the faster you will read!

Unit 8

The Great Minds

A FAMOUS QUOTE

A pessimist makes difficulties of his opportunities; an optimist makes opportunities of his difficulties.

— Harry S. Truman

悲观者让机会沦为困难；乐观者把困难铸成机会。

—— 哈利·杜鲁门

Harry S. Truman (1884–1972), 33rd President of the US (1945–1953), who led America's transition from wartime to peacetime economy. Truman made some of the most momentous decisions in US history, including the dropping of atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Japan, the rebuilding of Europe under the Marshall Plan, and the fighting of the Korean War.

Speaking Activity

Showing Surprise

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers show their surprise.

Jenny: Mum, Dad, guess what?

Father: I knew it. You are going.

Jenny: Hey, I got it! I got the job! I'm off to Perth.

Mother: Darling, that's wonderful news. I'm so thrilled for you. I'm really thrilled.

Jenny: Isn't it fantastic? I can't believe it. Dad, don't look so miserable. Honestly, it's not the end of the world. Cheer up. Can't you be happy for me?

Father: Of course I'm happy for you. I'm delighted.

Mother: You don't sound very happy.

Father: Of course I'm happy. I am happy. I said I'm delighted. It's just that the whole thing seems a bit insane.

Jenny: What do you mean, insane?

Father: Isn't there an orchestra here in Sydney? Why do you have to go off to Perth? Perth! That's on the other side of Australia.

Jenny: What's he so upset about? Isn't he pleased?

Mother: Well, he is and he isn't. It's just that he's going to be lonely without you. He's dreading it.

Guided Practice

Directions: You come across an old friend at your university, who is supposed to pursue study overseas. Express your pleasant surprise at the good news. Use the following tips when necessary.

Oh, how marvelous (wonderful)!

That's good/splendid/wonderful news!

I'm so thrilled for you!

Isn't it fantastic?

You must be kidding!

I can't even believe my eyes/ears!

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Can you imagine a life without limbs?
2. Who will flash into your mind when it comes to disabled heroes? What qualities appeal to you most?

Life Without Limits

Imagine being born without arms. No arms to wrap around someone, no hands to experience touch, or to hold another hand with. Or what about being born without legs? Having no ability to dance, walk, run, or even stand on two feet. Now put both of those scenarios together: no arms and no legs. What would you do? How would that affect your everyday life?

Born in 1982 in Melbourne, Australia, without any medical explanation or warning, Nicholas Vujicic came into the world with neither arms nor legs. Having had an uneventful pregnancy and no family history to expect this condition, imagine the shock his parents felt when they saw their first born, brand new baby boy, only to find he was what the world would consider imperfect and abnormal. How would their son live a normal, happy life? What could he ever do or become when living with what the world would see as such a massive disability? Little did they know that this beautiful limbless baby would one day be someone who would inspire and motivate people from all walks of life, touching lives all over the world.

As Nick grew up, he learned to deal with his disability and started to be able to do more and more things on his own. He adapted to his situation and found ways to accomplish tasks that most people could only do by using their limbs, such as cleaning teeth, brushing hair, typing on a computer, swimming, playing sports, and much more. As time went by, Nick began to embrace his situation and achieve greater things. In grade seven Nick was elected captain of his school and worked with the student council on various fund-raising events for local charities and disability campaigns.

After school Nick went on with further study and obtained a double bachelor degree majoring in accounting and financial planning. By the age of 19, Nick had started to fulfill his dream of encouraging others by sharing his story through motivational speaking. He found the purpose of his existence, and also the purpose in his circumstance. Nick wholeheartedly believes that there is a purpose in each of the struggles we encounter in our lives and that our attitude towards those struggles can be the single most effective factor in overcoming them.

Now at 27 years old, this limbless young man has accomplished more than most people even twice his age. Nick recently made the massive move from Brisbane, Australia to California, USA, where he is the president of an international non-profit organization, and also has his own motivational speaking company, Attitude Is Altitude¹. Since his first motivational speaking engagement back when he was 19, Nick has traveled around the world, sharing his story with millions of people, speaking to a range of different groups such as students, teachers, youth, business men and women, entrepreneurs, and church congregations of all sizes. People ask Nick, "How can you smile?" Then they realize there's got to be something more to life than meets the eye if a guy without arms and legs is living a fuller life.

Nick shares with his audiences the importance of vision and dreaming big. Using his own experiences in worldwide outreach as examples, he challenges others to examine their perspective and look beyond their circumstances. He shares his view of ceasing to see obstacles as problems, and instead begin to see them as opportunities to grow and reach out to others. He stresses the importance of how attitude can be the most powerful tool we have at our disposal and illustrates how the choices we make can have a profound effect on our lives and the lives of those around us. Nick shows through his own life that the major keys to fulfilling our biggest dreams are persistence and choosing to embrace failure as a learning experience, rather than allowing the guilt and fear of failure to paralyze us.

How does Nick Vujicic feel about his disability now? He accepts it, embraces it and oftentimes pokes fun at his own circumstance as he shows off his many tricks. He meets challenges with his special blend of humor, perseverance and faith, always encouraging those around him to examine their perspective as they develop and define their vision. Using those new definitions he challenges each person he meets to make changes in their lives so that they can begin the path to fulfilling their biggest dreams. Through his amazing ability to connect with people from all walks of life and his incredible sense of humor he captivates children, teens and adults alike. Nick is a true inspirational and motivational speaker.

Nicholas Vujicic came into the world with neither arms nor legs. Despite his massive disability, he has not only managed to live on his own but also inspired and motivated people through his speeches. However, some physically healthy people pale in comparison to him, by making constant complaints about their lives and refusing to work for a brighter future. What personalities do you think can help people overcome difficulties when challenged? How can we develop those qualities?

Pre-reading Questions

1. What factors do you think contribute to success?
2. Can you figure out what reasons account for Steve Jobs' success?

An Unwanted Baby, Steve Jobs

Steve Jobs is a man who has great courage and dares to take risks. He may not be perfect but he pulled together the most fantastic act by overcoming Microsoft, the movie industry and the music business. Jobs followed his dream and led a revolution in the computing world.

Steve Jobs was born on February 24, 1955, in San Francisco, California. His biological mother was an unwed graduate student named Joanne Simpson and decided to put him up for adoption. Joanne had a college education, and she insisted that the future parents of her boy be just as well educated. Unfortunately, the candidates, Paul and Clara Jobs, did not meet her expectations: Clara didn't graduate from college and Paul only attended high school. When she found out that both his future parents had never graduated from college, she refused to sign the adoption papers. She only relented a few months later and agreed to have her baby adopted by them, under the firm condition that they would send him to college.

Steve Jobs went to college but decided to drop out because it was too expensive. Recalling his time there he said, "I didn't have a dorm room, so I slept on the floor in friends' rooms, I returned coke bottles for the 5 cents deposits to buy food with, and I would walk the 7 miles across town every Sunday night to get one good meal a week at the Hare Krishna temple."

At 20, Steve Jobs and a friend (Steve Wozniak) started a company in a garage on April 1, 1976. Later that year, they debuted the Apple I and a local store offered to buy 50 machines. To finance the production, they had to sell their most expensive possessions. Jobs sold his Volkswagen van while Wozniak sold his Hewlett-Packard scientific calculator. Steve Jobs named their company Apple, in memory of a happy summer he had spent as an orchard worker in Oregon.

By 1982, however, his company sales sagged in the face of competition from IBM's new PC. Not wanting to dwell on successive failures, they worked on a new machine called the Macintosh. By 1986, the Mac, which Steve Jobs promised to be "insanely great," was a huge success. After 10 years, starting from 2 kids working in a garage, Apple computer had grown into a $2 billion dollar company with over 4000 employees.

At 30, Steve Jobs, however, was fired from the company he cofounded with Steve Wozniak. He left the company after losing a bitter battle over control with Apple's CEO John Sculley, whom Jobs had recruited from Pepsi Cola. When Steve Jobs heard of the message he said, "You've probably had somebody punch you in the stomach and it knocks the wind out of you and you cannot breathe. The harder you try to breathe, the more you cannot breathe. And you know that the only thing you can do is just relax so you can start breathing again."

Steve Jobs sold over $20 million of his Apple stock, spent days bicycling along the beach, feeling sad and lost, toured Paris, and journeyed on to Italy. Recalling this publicly heartbreaking episode, Jobs said, "I didn't see it then, but it turned out that getting fired from Apple was the best thing that could have ever happened to me. The heaviness of being successful was replaced by the lightness of being a beginner again, less sure about everything. It freed me to enter one of the most creative periods of my life."

During the next five years he started two companies — NeXT¹ and Pixar². NeXT didn't do as well as Jobs had dreamed for, but Pixar was a success story. Jobs became an instant billionaire. Meanwhile, his old company Apple was under immense pressure from its rival Microsoft and in 1996 posted billions of dollars in losses.

In December 1996, Steve Jobs convinced Apple to buy NeXT and make its software the foundation of the next-generation Mac OS. The technology he developed at NeXT became the catalyst of Apple's comeback. Initially appointed as Apple's adviser, Steve Jobs was named Apple's interim CEO in 1997.

He had made Apple healthy again and returned it to a place where it was contributing new and innovative technologies to the computer world. Under his leadership, Apple returned to profitability and introduced innovations.

Tips for English Learning

Breaking Poor Reading Habits (2) — Stop Subvocalization

Subvocalization is the habit of pronouncing each word in your head as you read it. Most people do this to some extent or another. When you subvocalize you “hear” the word being spoken in your mind. This takes much more time than is necessary because you can comprehend a word much quicker than you can say it. To turn off the voice in your head, you have to first acknowledge that you do it (how did you read the first part of this article?) and then you have to practise not doing it. When you sit down to read, tell yourself that you will not subvocalize. You have to practise and practise this until this bad habit is erased. Reading blocks of words also helps, as you can’t “say” a block of words.

Eliminating subvocalization alone can increase your reading speed by an astounding amount. Otherwise, you are limited to reading at the same pace as talking, which is about 250-350 words per minute. If you are an efficient scanner, you may increase this rate to between 400 and 500 words per minute. The only way to break through this barrier is to stop saying the words in your head as you read. If you can train yourself to simply scan the words without thinking about the pronunciation, you will increase your speed significantly.

Lucky's Greatest Treasure

Mary and her husband Jim had a dog named "Lucky." Lucky was a real character. Whenever Mary and Jim had company come for a weekend visit, they would warn their friends not to leave their luggage open because Lucky would help himself to whatever struck his fancy. Inevitably, someone would forget and something would come up missing.

Mary or Jim would go to Lucky's toy box in the basement and there the treasure would be, amid all of Lucky's other favourite toys. Lucky always stored his finds in his toy box.

It happened that Mary found out she had breast cancer. Something told her she was going to die of this disease. She scheduled a double mastectomy (乳房切除术), fear riding her shoulders.

The night before she was to go to the hospital, she hugged Lucky closely in her arms. A thought struck her — what would happen to Lucky? Although the three-year-old dog liked Jim, he was Mary's dog through and through. "If I die, Lucky will be abandoned," Mary thought, "He won't understand that I didn't want to leave him." The thought made her sadder than that of her own death.

The double mastectomy was harder on Mary than her doctors had anticipated and Mary was hospitalized for over two weeks. Jim faithfully took Lucky for his evening walk, but the little dog just hung down, whining (哀鸣) and miserable.

Finally the day came for Mary to leave the hospital. When she arrived home, Mary was so exhausted that she couldn't even make it up the steps to her bedroom. Jim made his wife comfortable on the couch and left her to nap.

Lucky stood watching Mary but he didn't come to her when she called. It made Mary sad, but sleep soon overcame her and she dozed.

When Mary woke, for a second she couldn't understand what was wrong. She couldn't move her head and her body felt heavy and hot. But panic soon gave way to laughter when Mary realized the problem. She was covered, literally blanketed, with every treasure Lucky owned!

While she had slept, the sad dog had made trip after trip to the basement bringing his beloved mistress all his favourite things in life. He had covered her with his love.

Mary forgot about dying. Instead, she and Lucky began living again, walking further and further together every day.

It's been 12 years now and Mary is still cancer-free. Lucky? He still steals treasures and stores them secretly in his toy box, but Mary remains his greatest treasure.

1. Lucky is Mary and her husband's pet dog.
A. True B. False C. Not Given
2. Whenever they had friends visit them, the couple would warn Lucky not to take their friends' luggage away.

Student Loans

Federal Student Aid is an office of the US Department of Education that provides student loans for education beyond high school. The US government clearly understands the importance of post-secondary education in positively impacting the nation. It therefore ensures that each eligible student in the United States is able to receive financial assistance for higher education.

Although parents can opt for private funding through sources like banks and other financial institutions, the rates of interest can be prohibitively high in most cases. On the other hand, the interest rates of federally funded student loans are much less in comparison. It is therefore imperative that parents take all steps necessary to apply for student loans available through the federal government.

Federal Student Aid is actively involved in educating students and their families on the exact procedure to obtain student loans. Once the applications are received, it processes them by the millions before the start of each academic year. It also pays out billions of dollars through schools to fund the education of students who have applied for financial aid.

The first step in applying for financial aid is to fill and submit the FAFSA or Free Application for Federal Student Aid. The name of the student should be entered exactly the way it is written on the student's social security card. The format used is "first name", "middle initial" and "last name". Since the analysis bureau will be linking up the FAFSA with the social security number, the names should match precisely for the application to be approved. A mismatch in the names could result in the application being sent back for correction. This would cause a delay and end up pushing the applicant to the back of the line. Since most financial aid is provided on a first-come-first-served basis, it is important to be at the head of the line. Even a minor error on the FAFSA can result in a loss of thousands of dollars in financial aid.

Therefore, it is important that families have all the proper income and tax records ready before applying for financial aid. This will help avoid submitting inconsistent, incomplete or mistaken information while filling out the FAFSA forms.

The CSS PROFILE is the FAFSA equivalent that is most often required for aid through private universities. It could be a little more complicated than filling out the FAFSA form. Going through the entire process with the help of a certified college planner would be a good idea.

No matter what their credit rating, parents should still submit their applications for financial aid. Learning about the different options available to them is the first step in the process. Doing it right will enhance their chances of getting student loans for their children's higher education.

11. Federal Student Aid provides student loans for _____.
 - A. high school education
 - B. secondary education
 - C. higher education
 - D. pre-secondary education

12. Federally funded loans are preferred to private funding for _____.
 - A. their easy accessibility
 - B. their high reliability
 - C. their lower interest rates
 - D. their wide availability

13. Federal Student Aid educates students on _____.
 - A. how to apply to ideal universities
 - B. how to obtain student loans
 - C. how to process the applications
 - D. how to meet their financial needs

14. The first step in applying for financial aid is to _____.
 - A. fill out and submit application forms
 - B. apply for a social security number
 - C. enter the applicant name in the right format
 - D. submit all the proper income and tax records

15. To succeed in applying for student loans, you are advised to _____.
 - A. enhance academic performance
 - B. resort to a certified college planner
 - C. avoid submitting a CSS PROFILE
 - D. turn in income and tax records afterwards

第三部分: 概括段落大意和补全句子(第16~25题, 每题1分, 共10分)

阅读下面短文, 请完成短文后的2项测试任务: (1) 从第16~20题后所给的6个选项中为第①~⑤段每段选择1个正确的小标题; (2) 从第21~25题后所给的6个选项中选择5个正确选项, 分别完成每个句子。

Identity Theft

① College students have a lot to worry about: tests, quizzes, homework, organizations, and jobs. One thing they might not think they should worry about is identity theft. Identity theft is actually a big problem on college campuses and students are easy targets. Knowing how to protect yourself against identity theft is the first thing you need to do for yourself.

② One of the major reasons why students are targets is because they are naive. Many students don't know or don't realize the dangers of giving out their personal information unless they have already been through it or they are older. A majority of the time, students get sucked into getting free stuff just for applying for a credit card. Students are one of the easiest targets for scammers (骗子). In order to protect yourself from having your identity stolen, you need to understand how scammers get your personal information.

③ For students, being frugal is just about a must. One of the costs they may skimp on is paying for their own Internet. Instead, they will log on to someone else's WiFi or an unsecured network. While this may cut down on costs while you are in college, there is a chance that someone will be able to get your personal information. These unsecured networks may be full of people who are simply sitting and waiting for you to log on to your bank account, shop online, apply for a job online, or apply for a credit card online. If you are going to shop online or do any of the previously mentioned activities, make sure you are on a secured network that has the proper privacy settings.

④ Something that students may not think about is shredding (撕碎) their documents. It is very easy for anyone to have their identity stolen if they don't shred important documents, bills, or even credit card offers. You should always shred anything that has any type of personal information, especially those with account numbers, your social security number, or even your birthday. If you get a credit card offer saying you are pre-approved, so on and so forth, you need to shred it before throwing it away. Some people go through others' trash and take the pre-approved cards. They can then use it to open a credit card under your name, stealing your identity.

⑤ While you have many things to think about while in college, you should always think about the information you are giving out. Remember never to give out your bank account information or PIN (personal identification number), even to a friend. Also, watch out for scams (骗局) like signing up for a credit card to get a free shirt; your identity may not be stolen right away, but that information could be used in the future. Shred any and all personal documentation before throwing it away. Moreover, when you do shred your documentation, make sure it can't be put back together.

Task 1

16. Paragraph ①: _____

17. Paragraph ②: _____

18. Paragraph ③: _____

19. Paragraph ④: _____

20. Paragraph ⑤: _____

- A. Being naive
- B. Easy targets
- C. Being frugal
- D. Protecting information
- E. Shredding documents
- F. Seeking help

Task 2

21. What you need to do first for yourself is _____.

22. The dangers of releasing personal information are unknown to many students _____.

23. A good chance stands that your personal information will be stolen _____.

24. If a credit card offer is said to be pre-approved, you need to _____.

25. When you do shred your documentation, make sure _____.

- A. it can't be put back together
- B. knowing how to protect yourself against identity theft
- C. unless they have already been through it or they are older
- D. because college students aren't experienced
- E. shred it before throwing it away
- F. while you log on to someone else's WiFi or an unsecured network

Mistakes Are a Must on the Road to Success

When Kamprad was a teenager, he became interested in a pro-Nazi group run by a Swedish fascist activist by the name of Per Engdahl. He not only attended group meetings but also raised funds and recruited members to the group between 1942 and 1945. It is unknown when Kamprad quit the group. (26)_____ This part of Kamprad's past remained hidden until 1994, when Engdahl's personal letters were made public after his death.

"This is part of my life I bitterly regret," said Kamprad. "After a couple of meetings in pure Nazi style, I quit." In a letter he wrote to employees titled "The Greatest Mistake of My Life," Kamprad apologized to IKEA employees of Jewish heritage and asked for their forgiveness. (27)_____ Following its publication, Kamprad said in an interview, "Now I have told all I can. Can one ever get forgiveness for such stupidity?"

(28)_____ "That was the biggest blunder I've made in my entire life, and I regret it deeply," he said "I have said sorry, many times, but it has left an unremovable mark on my conscience that continually haunts me and perhaps it's best this way." Joining the Nazi group would be a mistake that he would be paying for on a personal level for the rest of his life. (29)_____ He was criticized and he was attacked in the media, but sales at IKEA continued to increase. His popularity actually rose following the incident because of the honesty with which he dealt with the after-effect.

Experience has taught Kamprad that not only could the business world be forgiving of his mistakes, but that it was those very mistakes that could end up moving mountains. (30)_____ Working in Älmhult, Gillis Lundgren, a new employee, had been standing beside a car with a colleague, trying to figure out how to get a bulky wooden table into the back of it. Finally, against company policy, Lundgren said, "Oh God, then, let's pull off the legs and put them underneath." It was with that simple statement that IKEA would reorient itself towards the flat design production for which it has become famous today.

"IKEA is not completely perfect," said Kamprad. "We are going the right way to becoming it, for sure, but we are not there yet."

- A. Kamprad had made a crucial mistake in sympathizing with Nazis in his teenage years.
- B. However, he remained friends with Engdahl well into the 1950s.
- C. However, professionally, Kamprad had been left relatively unharmed.
- D. Indeed, the success of IKEA can be traced back to a simple mistake in 1956.
- E. Kamprad was arrested soon after the war was ended.
- F. He also devoted two chapters to the incident in his 1998 book, "The History of IKEA."

Understanding a Budget

A budget is a foreign concept to kids (and, it should be said, to many adults). Younger children, especially, simply won't realize that mommy and daddy have a (31) _____ amount of money to spend every month. But (32) _____ what a budget is, and why it's a good idea, is one of the central pillars of financial literacy.

The best way to teach kids how a budget works is (33) _____ to show them. That's not to say that you should open your books up to your children and show them every penny coming in or out (although you may consider (34) _____ some details with teenagers about things like your mortgage payment, car payments, and so on). Instead, just give them a broad (35) _____ of how adults have to divide up their money each month.

One easy way to demonstrate this concept is to take a stack of Monopoly money (游戏钞票), and tell your child that the stack represents how much money you (36) _____ every month from work. Then, divide up the (37) _____ one at a time to show how much you spend on the house, how much you spend on food, how much you save, how much you give to charitable (38) _____, and so forth. The denominations (面额) aren't important. What's important is showing your children that you have a (39) _____ plan for your money, and that you're on top of the family finances.

Encourage your child to start a budget of his own: Part of his allowance should go to savings, part to charity, and part of it is just for fun. Help your child identify what he (40) _____ values, and budget his money accordingly.

Crude Oil

Although crude oil is still (0) vastly (vast) available in the earth's crust, it is not a/an (41) _____ (finite) resource. At some point it will eventually be (42) _____ (exhaust). The demand for crude oil has increased by gigantic proportions. However, (43) _____ (discovery) of new oil fields and investing in the oil industry have helped keep up with the (44) _____ (increase) demand for oil. The crucial question is, how long will the oil resources last?

(45) _____ (advance) technology has made drilling oil more (46) _____ (effect) and efficient. With the aid of new methods it is possible to draw almost 65% of the oil as opposed to the old methods. Better infrastructure and more (47) _____ (invest) have also made the drilling of oil wells more effective. Currently most (48) _____ (transport) is dependent on oil and many industries are born out of or lean on byproducts of petroleum. Although alternative sources of energy are now (49) _____ (apply), like solar and wind energy, it is still a long way to be completely (50) _____ (dependent) of crude oil.

Pre-reading Questions

1. Have you ever done hurdles? What do you think of it?
2. What kinds of difficulties and challenges have you ever met in your life?

300 Hurdles¹

Life may give you a negative, but don't despair — it may just develop into a beautiful picture one day. This year, I realized my theory that I have on life. Life is like a 300m hurdle race. Since I run the 300m hurdles, I would know what the race is like.

The first thing to any race is worrying about whether you are going to win or not. This relates to worrying about the petty things in life. Does it really matter if you win? Is it really going to be the end of the world? Or will you be upset if you lose and then forget about it? In life we worry too much and live in the moment too little.

Next is the lining up in our own individual lanes. We each start at different spots, but the race is still the same distance for everyone. This relates to our lives taking us to different places and putting us in different situations, but hopefully we will end up in the same place, but maybe at different times.

Now comes the beginning of the race. We all try to keep up with everyone and pace ourselves with other people. This symbolizes that at times in everyone's lives we worry about fitting in or being the same as other people, instead of worrying about being unique. If everyone were the same, the world would be incredibly boring.

Now comes the first hurdle. This hurdle is the easiest to get over because you are not worn out from running. We all make it over this hurdle with ease. This symbolizes those obstacles in life that we struggle to get over, but we always manage to do so. You can look at that hurdle in two ways: "I can't make it over, I'm too tired" or "I am one more hurdle closer to finishing this race". This is an example of taking a negative situation and seeing something positive in it.

The next part of the race is every hurdle between the first and last one. These hurdles get tougher and tougher and you may feel as though you can't go on. This happens a lot in life too. There may be a situation that arises where you feel as though you can't make it and all you can think about is giving up. You may fall over that "hurdle" or struggle getting over it, but somehow you find it in yourself to jump over it and move on with the race.

Next is that last 100m of the race. You feel as though you just want to say, "No I can't do this." Again, you must find it in yourself that you can do it, and you must finish the race stronger than when you had started it.

Now lastly is the last hurdle. This hurdle is the toughest out of all of them. In life we find ourselves falling and falling, and maybe getting too lost in our problems that we feel like we have been through enough and there's no hope. That last hurdle symbolizes these situations. It's one step close to the end of the race.

Once you finish, you look back on it and you realize that you made it not by leaping, but step by step. "Yard by yard, life is very hard. But inch by inch, life can be a cinch."

All it takes is one step at a time, one hurdle at a time.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

These fears and self-doubts determine the way we interact and behave at work. The workplace is a ruthless arena. You need to be your own bodyguard. To survive this race, you've got to be independent, responsible, confident and determined. Above all, you need to value yourself and realise you're all you've got! Or else, simply put, you're dead meat! Getting ahead in any profession requires faith in oneself. That is why you find some people with mediocre (普通的) talent, but with great inner drive, achieving much more than people with vastly superior talent. Positive thinking generates positive attitudes, responses and feelings, which in turn draw the blue print for our success. On the other hand, negative attitudes, full of fear, doubt and worry, reinforce negative behaviour. But we can empty our mind of such thoughts and feed them with positive information. Replace fear with faith, doubt with determination, worry with work and hate with love.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. Be aware of what area of your life you are having the setback in.
2. Find people who can help you, people who've been through similar challenges.

3. Once you identify that, write down the challenge so you can clearly see it.
4. They can help you put things into perspective as well as provide inspiration.
5. You can actually take advantage of challenges instead of becoming a victim of circumstance.
6. From there, figure out possible solutions, develop a plan and execute.

VI Reflecting on the Text

Life is just like a bumpy road full of difficulties and challenges and your attitude will decide how far you can reach in your life. What attitude should we have when faced with difficulties and challenges? Give your opinions and suggestions.

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you know anyone that is/was deprived of something in life but still leads/led a successful or brilliant life?
2. How do you understand the slogan "Nothing is impossible"?

A Violin with Three Strings

On Nov. 18, 1995, Itzhak Perlman¹, the violinist, came on stage to give a concert at Avery Fisher Hall at Lincoln Center² in New York City.

If you have ever been to a Perlman concert, you know that getting on stage is no small achievement for him. He was stricken with polio as a child, and so he has braces on both legs and walks with the aid of two crutches. To see him walk across the stage one step at a time, painfully and slowly, is an awesome sight.

He walks painfully, yet majestically, until he reaches his chair. Then he sits down, slowly, puts his crutches on the floor, undoes the clasps on his legs, tucks one foot back and extends the other foot forward. Then he bends down and picks up the violin, puts it under his chin, nods to the conductor and proceeds to play.

By now, the audience is used to this ritual. They sit quietly while he makes his way across the stage to his chair. They remain reverently silent while he undoes the clasps on his legs. They wait until he is ready to play.

But this time, something went wrong. Just as he finished the first few bars, one of the strings on his violin broke. You could hear it snap — it went off like gunfire across the room. There was no mistaking what that sound meant. There was no mistaking what he had to do.

We figured that he would have to get up, put on the clasps again, pick up the crutches and limp his way off stage — to either find another violin or else find another string for this one. But he didn't. Instead, he waited a moment, closed his eyes and then signaled the conductor to begin again.

The orchestra began, and he played from where he had left off. And he played with such passion and such power and such purity as they had never heard before.

Of course, anyone knows that it is impossible to play a symphonic work with just three strings. I know that, and you know that, but that night Itzhak Perlman refused to know that. You could see him modulating, changing, re-composing the piece in his head. At one point, it sounded like he was de-tuning the strings to get new sounds from them that they had never made before.

When he finished, there was an awesome silence in the room. And then people rose and cheered. There was an extraordinary outburst of applause from every corner of the auditorium. We were all on our feet, screaming and cheering, doing everything we could to show how much we appreciated what he had done. He smiled, wiped the sweat from his brow, raised his bow to quiet us, and then he said — not boastfully, but in a quiet, pensive, reverent tone — “You know, sometimes it is the artist's task to find out how much music you can still make with what you have left.”

What a powerful line that is! It has stayed in my mind ever since I heard it. And who knows? Perhaps that is the definition of life — not just for artists, but for all of us.

Here is a man who has prepared all his life to make music on a violin with four strings, who, all of a sudden, in the middle of a concert, finds himself with only three strings; so he makes music with three strings, and the music he made that night with just three strings was more beautiful, more sacred, more memorable, than any that he had ever made before, when he had four strings.

So, perhaps our task in this shaky, fast-changing, bewildering world in which we live is to make music, at first with all that we have, and then, when that is no longer possible, to make music with what we have left.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Trouble comes to all, but while it makes some people stronger and better in every way, it submerges others so that they never rise again. The trouble is the same, yet it is how it is met that makes the difference. Those who meet difficulty and adversity in the feeble strength of their finite minds and false personality are speedily overwhelmed and broken by the storms of life. But those who rely upon, and have faith in, the Power within them, can never be overwhelmed, neither can they ever be defeated. The Power, being infinite, is always sufficient, no matter how great the need may be. One who realizes his own real spiritual identity knows that he can never be defeated, and that he can never really fail. He may lose his body through the change that is called death but he, the true man, can never die. Neither can he fail, though he may be defeated a thousand times; he must rise again.

Most people find it stressful to cope with new and difficult situations. But if we look at a new situation as a challenge instead of a threat, our brain will be better prepared to adapt to it. What do you think is the role of challenge in your life? How will you prepare yourself to face a challenge?

Tips for English Learning

Breaking Poor Reading Habits (3) — Stop Regression

Regression is unnecessary re-reading of material. Sometimes people get in the habit of skipping back to words they just read and other times they jump back a few sentences just to make sure that they read something right. When you "skip back" like this, you lose the flow and structure of the text and your overall understanding of the subject decreases.

To eliminate this poor reading habit, do not allow yourself to re-read material. To reduce the number of times that your eyes skip back to a previous sentence, run a pointer along the line as you read. This could be a finger, or a pen or pencil. Your eyes will follow the tip of your pointer, smoothing the flow of your reading. The speed at which you read using this method will largely depend on the speed at which you move the pointer.

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you find it important to use public transportation? What are some of the reasons?
2. What suggestions do you give to others on using public transportation?

The Importance of Public Transportation

A US Congressman once proclaimed that, "There can be no doubt that the transportation sector is the most critical sector of our economy." I know exactly what he means. In this day and age, access to transportation is considered a necessity.

Public transportation is defined as a service that is available for use by the general public. It is a cheaper and environmentally friendly alternative. It is not a transportation service that you can arrange privately to suit your own personal convenience (although you may, to a certain extent, such as paying for a cabin or suite on a train or ship) since you have to consider other passengers who are riding and making similar arrangements with you.

I have experienced first-hand how important public transportation is.

I live in Saipan¹, a US territory and the closest things we have to public transportation are tourist and school buses. You have to have your own car or bike, rent a car, or pay upfront for a taxi to go from point A to point B. Otherwise you end up basked in sweat and sunburn traveling to work every day. When I first came here, I walked. I walked going to and from work. I walked to the store and lugged my heavy groceries back to the house. I walked to church and I barely got to go to places farther than a twenty-mile radius from my house since I did not own a car then, and I considered renting a car and riding a taxi such an expense for a starting single mother like I was at that time.

For me, public transportation is very important because of the following reasons:

1. It saves money.

According to research done by the American Public Transportation Association, individuals can save up to $9,515 annually by parking their cars at home and using public transportation instead. In this economy, saving money has become a main concern in most households. With the rising prices of fuel and other vehicle-related expenses, doing the public commute to work and school certainly saves money.

2. It helps the environment.

When you switch from driving your car to taking public transport, you are reducing your carbon footprint and making a great step forward in saving the environment. The environmental costs of individuals using their cars every day has done massive damage to the environment and if the majority or all individuals like you and me use public transport instead, think of what good we could do for the environment.

3. It will wean us out of energy dependence.

According to a paper made by Dr. Jean-Paul Rodrigue and Dr. Claude Comtois, transportation accounts for approximately 25% of world energy demand and for more than 62% of all the oil used each year. Ninety-five percent of transportation is almost completely reliant upon petroleum products with the exception of railways using electrical power. While the use of petroleum for other economic sectors, such as industrial and electricity generation, has remained relatively stable, the growth in oil demand is mainly attributed to the growth in transportation demand.

When we strengthen our public transportation services, we are consequently lessening this oil demand and dependence. It will also motivate us to consider alternative energy and fuel resources.

4. It provides ease and convenience.

Having public transportation definitely eases some of the burdens of people who do not have cars or prefer not to own one. They are provided with choices to use public transport. Public transportation also provides valuable services not just to local inhabitants in the area but to tourists as well. When a tourist visits a place, which does not have public transportation, their choices are limited and the experience they get is limited, too.

All in all, public transportation improves our way of life, strengthens the community, provides new jobs for the public and gives us a cleaner environment.

Often referred to as green transport, sustainable transportation is the way of the future. Transport powered by gas and petrol is running on a _____ ① _____ time frame, as both these sources are unsustainable in the long run. In contrast, sustainable transportation offers an option to a world rapidly _____ ② _____ renewable fuel sources. It _____ ③ _____ any kind of transport that has a low impact on the environment, such as walking, cycling, mass transit, green vehicles, and car pooling, amongst others.

Any mode of transport is deemed sustainable if it has a _____ ④ _____ environmental impact and uses little or no fuel. Walking is the best example of sustainable transportation, as it does not _____ ⑤ _____ any gas. However, walking can be impractical if you are travelling longer distances. Cycling is _____ ⑥ _____ green transport option and is a far more practical option for longer commutes.

Using public transportation, such as buses or trains, is also more sustainable _____ ⑦ _____ private vehicles. The amount of fuel used to transport a bus full of people is more effective compared to a single person driving a _____ ⑧ _____ car. A sustainable transport system has a _____ ⑨ _____ impact on the environment, and helps to promote social and _____ ⑩ _____ sustainability in the communities it serves. Increased mobility usually results in better socio-economic conditions.

IV Translation

Section A

Directions: Translate the following sentences into English, using the words or phrases in the brackets.

1. We sat _____ (沐浴在温暖的阳光下). (bask in)
 2. The Japanese market _____ (占公司收入的35%).
 (account for)

3. She _____ (把自己的成功归因于努力工作) and a little luck. (attribute to)
4. This hotel can accommodate _____ (多达500位来宾). (up to)
5. If you continue to steal you'll _____ (终归得进监狱). (end up)

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Is public transportation a better alternative to driving? Well, this depends on preference and/or the individual's circumstances. There are those who prefer to drive themselves, but this is not to say that public transportation isn't a better-suited means of travel for many. In the grand scheme of things, it's probably cheaper. There are no car payments or insurance premiums to worry about. You have no maintenance or fuel costs. From an environmental perspective, it is more efficient for larger numbers of people to travel from place to place together.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. That's the finding of a study released by the US.
2. Location, location, location — it's a well-worn word in real estate.
3. It decides how green a home really is.
4. New research shows yet another reason why it's important.
5. Housing near public transportation uses less energy than homes in the suburbs.
6. It not only influences living quality but also decides whether you can enjoy much convenience in such aspects as working, schooling of children, and even travelling.

VI Reflecting on the Text

Public transport has become an urgent necessity in China. There are more and more vehicles on the busy road system in big cities such as Beijing and Shanghai. More cars mean more energy consumption and more air pollution. Public transport can in some way relieve the increasing pressure brought about by an increasing number of cars. As a responsible citizen, can you come up with some reasonable and feasible suggestions to the local or central government as to how to promote public transportation and call for green travel?

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you prefer public transportation or driving?
2. What advantages do you expect the author will give for taking public transportation?

Personal Advantages of Taking Public Transportation

When I take public transport, I always end up seeing a balanced view of regular folks, which is different from how they're usually depicted in the profit-driven media. I meet real, authentic people who may have the same concerns as mine. Whenever I'm on a bus, or the train, or even at times in a taxi that I share with other passengers, whom the driver picks up along the way, I get assurances that most folks mean well to me, i.e., they don't mean to harm me intentionally, despite a few terrible, harsh experiences I've had with some bad people before.

The meaningful experience of receiving respect from and giving respect to others

People generally behave as politely and respectfully as they can whenever they take public transportation. That's how all of us were taught, by and large, by our parents, our elders and the generations before. We always need to conduct our best selves when in public. It's a great experience seeing able-bodied men giving up seats for the elderly, disabled, or pregnant women. I even see women give up seats to others. I see people move a bit on their seats just to share space to those needing seats. I see people smiling and talking with each other. I feel more warmth among people when on a bus or the train. I see people behaving genuinely pleasant toward co-passengers, and I realize it takes a lot of guts to do this especially during these difficult times.

Save cash for other purposes

I always get the opportunity to save money, and am actually gaining pennies these days. This is particularly true when you live in a city, like New York, where subways and buses are in place. I've done the math: it's far cheaper to take the subway and the bus, plus the ferry if you live in Staten Island¹ like me, than to keep a car and drive yourself to your usual destination. You save on the parking fees, the toll fees, the insurance cost, the repair and maintenance costs, and the perceived costs of aggravation from motorists on the road, the fuel, among other costs. On public transportation, you simply just pay the fare.

Light baggage to bring with you

I just carry myself and my tiny baggage. I occupy the least space, which is actually wherever I happened to be standing or sitting, which contributes to my baggage being very economical and lighter to carry. If ever there would be untoward incidents while in transit, I'd always be assured that I only have myself to worry about, which is unlike when you're in your car. If an accident happens while you are in your car, you will be doubly aggravated because you will have to keep tabs on things other than yourself (who, by then, may be extremely anxious or even, may the Lord forbid, in a worst situation).

Strong push for long-term environmental projects

I am confident that I contribute more to efforts in sustaining and keeping a much cleaner environment. Motorists always have to consider that they actually are contributing more to accumulated environmental damage when they use fossil-sourced fuel for their cars. Those who are concerned about the environment, especially policymakers, leaders and managers, might as well heed this by taking the chance to take public transportation if time allows them. Their followers will eventually get the message: you'll be contributing more to saving what's left of our habitat by keeping away from using less of the natural resources.

Movement and exercise

I get the chance to do my exercises walking from my place to the bus stand (or the subway station, or the ferry station). I actually feel a much healthier me whenever I take public transportation.

Come, join me and everyone else taking public transportation.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

When it comes to personal finance, we are all looking for ways to save more money. Our household budgets are filled with both big and small expenses that we imagine can be cut out to save us loads of cash or, at the very least, spent better elsewhere. One of the things you have surely considered is using public transportation rather than your own vehicle.

It would be easy to assume that public transportation is cheaper, because a bus token is far less expensive than gas, but those are not the only costs to consider. Take a step back to your high school economics class and try to remember the lesson about opportunity costs. These, as you might recall if you were awake for that class, are the things you give up when you choose one option over another option. Although they are not measured in dollars and cents, they still have to be considered whenever you make a financial decision.

IV Writing

Section A

Directions: The following sentences are not concise. Try to improve them.

Example: There are more books in their library than in our library.

3. Starting as from the month of June, I will be working at the store on a full-time basis.
4. Due to the fact that Chen's car refused to start up, he had to take public transportation by bus to his place of work.
5. When I was just a little boy, I already knew in my mind that my goal was to be a stockbroker in the future of my life.

Section B

Directions: Choose from the following transitional expressions and put them in the blanks in the paragraphs.

even also similarly for example but in conclusion much as Many Americans have turned into driving or walking billboards. _____ 1 _____ we all claim to hate commercials on television, we don't seem to have any doubts about turning ourselves into commercials. Our car bumpers (保险杠), _____ 2 _____, advertise lake resorts, underground caverns (大洞穴), and amusement parks. _____, we wear clothes marked with other people's initials and slogans. Our fascination with the names of designers shows up on the backs of our sneakers and the pockets of our shirts and blue jeans.

_____, we wear T-shirts filled with all kinds of advertising messages. For instance, people are willing to wear shirts that read "Dillon Construction," "Nike," or _____ "I Got Crabs at Ed's Seafood Palace." These messages belong on highway billboards.

_____, we say we hate commercials, _____ we actually pay people for the right to advertise their products.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following situation and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

Most citizens in Urumqi(乌鲁木齐) are pleased with the free bus travel provided to seniors over 65. However, a heated discussion has been triggered when seniors take the bus at rush hour with the young workers, because it intensifies traffic jams. Some suggest canceling the free ride for seniors at rush hour while others state that due respect should be given to seniors. Which side would you take and what reasons can you offer?

Tips for English Learning

Improving Your Listening — Listen for Context & Key Words

Let's imagine that your English speaking friend says, "I bought this great tuner at JR's. It was really cheap and now I can finally listen to National Public Radio broadcasts." You don't understand what a tuner is. If you focus on the word tuner you might become frustrated. However, if you think in context you probably will understand. For example, "bought" is the past tense of "buy"; "listen" is no problem and "radio" is obvious. Now you understand: He bought something — the tuner — to listen to the radio. A tuner must be a kind of radio! This is a simple example but it demonstrates what you need to focus on: Not the word that you don't understand, but the words you do understand.

Use keywords or key phrases to help you understand the general ideas. If you understand "New York", "business trip", and "last year", you can assume that the person is speaking about a business trip to New York last year. This may seem obvious to you, but remember that understanding the main idea will help you to understand the detail as the person continues to speak.

The above-mentioned ideas on how to listen seem to encourage you to not understand everything. This is absolutely correct. One hundred percent understanding is something to work towards and not to expect of yourself now. Listening needs a great amount of practice and patience. Allow yourself the luxury of not becoming nervous when you do not understand, and you will be surprised by how quickly you do begin to understand.

Talking about Personality

Sample Dialogue

Read the following conversation. Pay attention to how the speakers talk about personality.

Steve: Could you tell me what kind of person do you consider Dr Miller to be?

Jenny: He is very interesting and challenging. Are you going to be taking a class from him?

Steve: Yes, but I have never taken his class before.

Jenny: He is really clear on what you need to learn to get a good grade. Are you willing to study hard?

Steve: Yes, I guess so.

Jenny: What I really liked about him was that he was an understanding and friendly teacher. Do you enjoy that in a teacher?

Steve: Yes, I had a teacher like that before.

Jenny: Did you know that he is a veteran teacher?

Steve: No, I didn't, but that could be a good thing.

Jenny: Well, take a look at everything and figure out what is best for you. Good luck!

2. What suggestions can you give if one hopes to make friends on the Internet?

Cyberlove

Thanks to the late 20th century technology, Maria of Denmark and Martijin of Holland met on a chatline. For months they've talked and sent letters to each other with the help of their computers as they found themselves falling head over heels in love. It was then that they decided to meet in the real, not only the virtual, world. It was not easy to arrange as the young man and his lady were separated by 700 very real kilometers, but the date was a success and Maria and Martijin have been living together happily ever since. They've created a home page to let the world know how they've found happiness via the Internet and introduce couples who've met under similar circumstances.

Throughout history men and women have used a variety of means to find each other. Internet romance, according to some, is a bizarre method, and to others it is a natural way for the 90's to meet potential mates.

Romances formed on the Internet follow a characteristic script. The development of emotional intimacy is a long process, sometimes taking several months. "Love at first byte" is rare although there are examples. The initial light exchanges, whether by e-mail or in chat rooms, are generally followed by increasingly self-revealing topics, and then after a while, the two strangers perceive each other as a true friend. Hearts open, an avalanche of e-mail crosses cyberspace carrying literary quality, and electronic messages are even enhanced with verses and virtual gifts (flowers, kisses, animated pictures). Could any heart with romantic inclinations resist? When you reach for the mouse with sweaty palms and butterflies in the stomach to look in the in-box for new mail — there's just no way to escape the fact — love has arrived.

How does a cyber romance vary from a real life romance? Perhaps one significant difference is that communication plays such a large part. Words that convey feelings have enormous effect. While before a real date we fix our hair and our clothes, on the Internet we polish our intellect, imagination and personality. In essence, the sequence is reversed — first we show our inner beauty and only after it has won victory does the veil fall off the physical vehicle of that personality at the time of that first meeting in person.

It is a popular topic in cyberspace to debate whether or not true love can develop merely on an intellectual level, without physical attraction or the familiarity of the other's appearance. To put it another way: Does the physical appearance of the man or woman play a part in the relationship if, through the exchange of thoughts and feelings, they already fell in love?

Many say it is against the nature of love to be deprived of the sense of sight, the look, the movement, and the body language being present. There are those, of course, who favor Internet relationships claiming that the intensity of the emotional relationship that develops in such a way is superior to the mere stirring of the flesh.

Whatever the opinion may be on cyberlove, it must be said in favor of the Internet that it puts people in touch with those who they otherwise would never have met. I would never have suspected that the first person I met by e-mail would be a German chimney sweeper, with whom, after a year of correspondence, albeit not romantic, a common interest still exists.

It is silly to perceive the Net as a demon, when we determine how we meet its challenges. While there are those who can use the Net to their advantage extracting useful information, there are those who become addicts losing common sense, hopping from chat room to chat room, writing piles of e-mails full of lies to chosen victims, and whose virtual reality, the flirtations, become part of their everyday lives, as if a disease. One thing is true — the Net is very addictive. According to the confession of a multiple substance addict¹, it was easier to give up cocaine than the IRC².

In any case, keep your eyes open off-line as well. Turn off the machine and go to a dance or a club, because most women still expect to be courted in a real, old-fashioned, and romantic way.

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Relationships are becoming increasingly common across the Internet in all their varied forms. Tens of thousands of people are exploring online romances and millions more are forging friendships over the Internet. In our new digital age these online relationships could very well be the next logical step for humanity. People have the opportunity to know all manner of folk they would never meet in their day-to-day life. These online relationships often cross cultural, economical, national, age and societal boundaries in ways not even possible in the real world.

However, when you are talking to people online, you have no way of telling what the person you are talking to is like. Without the ability to see someone, you cannot properly judge them, and you never know what sort of person you are talking to until you make the dangerous step of meeting them in real life.

3. We told her it could answer any question she had.
4. As I sat with fingers poised over the keyboard, Nancy's mother thought for a while and responded, "How is Aunt Helen feeling?"
5. Our first move was to access the popular Ask Jeeves website.

VI Reflecting on the Text

The Internet plays an increasingly significant role in modern society. Many people use the Internet for communication, entertainment, access to information, and even online shopping. What are the other uses of the Internet? Which use are you interested in most? Can you find good points and bad points concerning this use? Give reasons and examples to support yourself.

Text B

Pre-reading Questions

1. Can you imagine what your life would be like without the Internet?
2. What do you think is the impact of the Internet on society?

The Impact of the Internet on Society

The Internet has had a profound effect on society over the last two decades. Although it began as a government operation, over time this innovative technology eventually evolved into a public novelty. Looking at society today, one may find that the situation has certainly evolved. For many, the Internet has become an essential for daily living, no longer the fun novelty it was 10 years ago. Even a decade ago if you were to think about whether or not the Internet had a significant impact on society, the answer would likely have been probably not. While the Net may have been considered a neat innovation, it was not like anyone "needed" it.

However, over time this perception has changed for many individuals in society. The Internet has become, for the most part, an absolute necessity, either by requirement or by desire. Going online has become as natural as doing other daily tasks people have traditionally done. People take it for granted that the Internet will be available, and dependency on being connected has become the norm. Both businesses and individuals alike depend upon the routine availability of the Internet. Due to the fact that many businesses, government agencies and other organizations have navigated to the online environment, generally people require consistent access, or 24/7¹ access, if you will.

In many ways the Internet has had a very positive effect on society. It has improved communication, simplified handling tasks and errands, offered huge convenience, enabled faster processing, and provided more options, all of which have freed more time to do other things.

Yet, interestingly enough the Internet has, in some ways, had negative effects. The quality of communication has declined; people are impatient because they have become accustomed to instant gratification, and using the Internet also takes up a lot of time. As websites such as Facebook and other socially based interactions increase in usage, many hours a day are consumed as people keep up with their various networks, taking away from other activities.

When looking at it from the latter perspective, one may wonder whether or not the Internet has truly benefited society. Realistically, as with anything else, the Internet has its pros and cons. Tools such as e-mail and instant messaging have become the standard; social networks are quickly evolving into the next level of communication, and people enjoy their constant access. In this respect the benefits of the Internet are tremendous. This is not only evidenced by the many activities people engage in when they connect to the Internet, but also by the continuous progression and development of mobile devices such as smartphones.

Society has evolved to the point where people expect and rely on readily available information. People also expect to receive rapid responses when doing business and personal tasks. The Internet makes this possible. Many of the things that society takes for granted nowadays are all made possible by the development of the Internet.

What kind of an impact has the Internet had on society? Wrapped up in the advantages and disadvantages one thing is for certain: the Internet has had a significant effect on society. To imagine the impact all one has to do is try to envision the consequences if the Internet was suddenly removed from society. Imagine a world where the Internet was unavailable. How would it affect you? Looking at it from this respect, for many it likely brings to light just how reliant and dependent society has become on the Internet and it would be extremely hard to turn back the clock.

Internet TV most often refers to television shows that are available to watch on the Internet via downloading or streaming video. Most networks now feature their television programs on Internet TV sections of the show's official website. However, these are often only viewable to Internet users located within the United States. Unlike streaming video, downloadable video allows users to keep the video content on their computers, and is the most popular method of watching Internet TV.

The major benefits of Internet TV include programming selection and flexibility. Unlike regular television, Internet TV users can select virtually any program and episode they choose to watch at any given time. Internet TV watchers also don't need to record programs with a digital video recorder in order to pause, rewind or fast forward through certain sections — both streaming and downloading sites allow users these capabilities with Internet TV.

IV Writing

Section A

Directions: The following sentences are not concise. Try to improve them.

Example:

4. This morning at 6:30 a.m., I woke up out of sleep to hear my alarm go off, but the alarm was turned off by me, and I returned back to a sleeping state.
5. There is a possibility that one of the causes of so many teenagers running away from home is the fact that many of them have indifferent parents who don't really care about them.

Section B

Directions: Choose from the following transitional expressions and put them in the blanks in the paragraphs.

likewise

a second way

both similarly also for example

thirdly

in the same way

My hometown and my college town have several things in common. First, 1 are small rural communities. 2, my hometown, Gridlock, has a population of only about 10,000 people. 3, my college town, Subnormal, consists of about 11,000 local residents. This population swells to 15,000 people when the college students are attending classes. 4 in which these two towns are similar is that they are both located in rural areas. Gridlock is surrounded by many acres of farmland, which is devoted mainly to growing corn and soybeans. 5, Subnormal lies in the centre of farmland that is used to raise hogs and cattle. 6, these towns are similar in that they contain college campuses. Gridlock, for example, is home to Neutron College, which is famous for its Agricultural Economics program as well as for its annual Corn-Watching Festival. 7, the town of Subnormal boasts the beautiful campus of Quark College, which is well known for its Agricultural Engineering department and 8 for its yearly Hog-Calling Contest.

Section C

Your best friend recently has become addicted to online chat rooms and games and your friendship has started to suffer since you do not approve of his/her practice. What do you plan to do to maintain this friendship?

Tips for English Learning

Improving Your Writing (1) — Keep a Journal

Don't always pay attention to grammar. Freewriting can be very useful. It can show you that writing is fun. Have fun with the language. For people who find it boring to write a diary about things that happen to them every day, the best thing is to let your imagination go and write about whatever comes into your head. The advantage of this is that if you can't think of how to say something in English, you can just change the story to something that is easier to explain. Perhaps the easiest way to start writing fiction in English is with a diary, changing any details you like to make it more interesting and adding more and more fantasy as the weeks go on.

Text A

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you find it difficult to enjoy a break from life? What are some of the difficulties you have?
2. What tips would you give to those who are fully occupied with their schedule and have little time feeling free?

Feeling Free

I woke up feeling cranky. I didn't want to do housework, though the laundry was piling up. I didn't want to read the work I brought home from the office. I didn't want to do anything that resembled responsible behavior. It was that kind of day.

As I drank my morning tea, I thought I felt a headache coming on. Yes, there it was, a dull throb just behind my eyes. Maybe I should go back to bed until it subsided. As I put the dishes in the sink, it seemed that my muscles were beginning to ache. Or was the ache in my joints? That could mean I was coming down with the flu. Everyone I knew had the flu this year. Why should I be the one to escape it? I absolutely should be in bed.

I shuffled back to bed, wiggled under the covers and shut my eyes. Another couple of hours of sleep would be so nice, but I was already completely awake. I ought to get up. But no, there was that headache and the beginning of a snuffle. Better get the tissues.

On my way back from the bathroom with a family-sized tissue box, I stopped to grab that big new novel I had bought but had no time to read. I opened the book and settled against the pillows.

The morning was moving along and so was my reading. Another twenty pages and I was stretching. I should try to crack the report I was working on. I should at least get up and do the wash. What if I was contagious? I certainly didn't want to spread any germs. The wash could wait. My family was resourceful enough to scrounge clothing for the next day.

Maybe I wasn't actually getting the flu. I didn't really want to be sick. To be truthful, all I wanted was a little time off. I needed to nurture myself away from people, chores, career and the outside world. Did I have to wait to be sick to do that? As a child, the only respite from school or family chores was illness. But I wasn't a child any more. Did I have to manufacture symptoms to provide myself with an excuse? No, I decided, I didn't.

I talked to myself. Okay, I said, you need a day off. Admit it. Accept it. Toss out the guilt and enjoy a mini-vacation. What would you like to do? Read? You're already doing that. Pamper yourself? Take a bubble bath. Be a hermit? Let the machine answer the phone.

I poured half the bottle of bath gel into the streaming water and added a hearty handful of chamomile bath salts. Then I lit a vanilla-scented candle and gingerly stepped into the bathtub. With a grateful sigh, I immersed myself in my homemade spa¹. I heard the phone ring somewhere off in the distance and smiled.

It is funny how the aches subsided in the heat of the tub. They just slipped away with the last of the bubbles down the drain. My head felt just fine, the throb replaced by a sense of well-being.

By late afternoon, I was back at it, refreshed physically, mentally and emotionally. And rather than feeling helpless, I felt empowered. I had given myself permission to listen and respond to my needs, to care for myself the way I tended to my family. I didn't need the crutch of illness to justify a rest. It was such a simple awareness, but then isn't it the simple things that set us free?

Nothing takes its toll on the body like stress. _____¹ the mental damage that it causes, stress is also linked to many diseases, including cancer. _____², in today's world, most of us are experiencing a stressful life with no way to get out of it — or so we think.

If you are _____³ of the many people who want to alleviate your stress, you can learn some simple techniques to help you _____⁴ the vicious cycle of leading a stressful life. Your stressful life does not just affect you, but everyone around you. It affects your relationships as well as any children or co-workers. Most of all, it can actually make you _____⁵ ill.

Do you really want to go _____⁶ the rest of your life feeling "stressed out"? Do you like the idea of feeling "out of control" and that everything in life is a trial? Perhaps it is time for you to confront this situation and seek help to restore some sort of balance in your life and break _____⁷ from this cycle.

There are many facets to stress. Stress manifests itself in many different ways and can be _____⁸ self-induced or something that occurs in life. We can never eliminate stress from our lives, as stressful situations are part of life. However, we can learn to react to stress in a 9 manner and take control of the situation 10 allowing the stress to remain in control.

4. _____ (他会被释放) as soon as the fine is paid. (set free)
5. Nothing can _____ (成为你考试作弊的理由). (justify)

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

Don't undermine your worth by comparing yourself with others. It is because we are different and each of us is special. Don't set your goals by what other people deem important. Only you know what is best for you. Don't let life slip through your fingers by living in the past or for the future. By living your life one day at a time you live ALL the days of your life. Don't be afraid to admit that you are less than perfect. It is this fragile thread that binds us together. Don't run through life so fast that you forget not only where you've been, but also where you are going. Don't forget that a person's greatest emotional need is to feel appreciated. Don't use time or words carelessly. Neither can be retrieved. Life is not a race, but a journey to be savored each step of the way.

V Organizing Your Ideas

Directions: Put the following sentences in the proper order so that they make a complete paragraph.

1. This is a very common problem.

2. You might be saying I would go after what I need and want if only I knew what I needed or wanted.
3. We get too busy to take time for ourselves — we become caught up in life.
4. The real trouble begins when you no longer know what you want — when you lose touch with your dreams because they seem so impractical.
5. We go through the emotions of existence, spinning wildly on the wheel of obligations and daily tasks, forgetting what we started out hoping for.

VI Reflecting on the Text

There are many moments when people feel exhausted and want to feel free. But people often give up this idea simply because they cannot really break free from their busy life. Even when they do so, they often feel guilty and irresponsible. However, people need to listen to and respond to their own needs and care for themselves just like what the author of the above story did. Do you agree or disagree with this opinion? Can you list some reasons except illness for why people should set themselves free? Give examples to support yourself.

Pre-reading Questions

1. Do you have a positive body image? What do you think is the relation between self-esteem and body image?
2. What do you think is important to develop a positive body image?

Self-Esteem and Body Image

I'm fat. I'm too skinny. I'd be happy if I were taller, shorter, had curly hair, straight hair, a smaller nose, bigger muscles, longer legs.

Do any of these statements sound familiar? Are you used to putting yourself down? If so, you're not alone. As a teen, you're going through a ton of changes in your body. And as your body changes, so does your image of yourself. Lots of people have trouble adjusting, and this can affect their self-esteem.

Why Are Self-Esteem and Body Image Important?

Self-esteem is all about how much people value themselves, the pride they feel in themselves, and how worthwhile they feel. Self-esteem is important because feeling good about yourself can affect how you act. A person who has high self-esteem will make friends easily, is more in control of his or her behavior, and will enjoy life more.

Body image is how someone feels about his or her own physical appearance. For many people, especially those in their early teens, body image can be closely linked to self-esteem. That's because as kids develop into teens, they care more about how others see them.

What Influences a Person's Self-Esteem?

Puberty

Some teens struggle with their self-esteem when they begin puberty because the body goes through many changes. These changes, combined with a natural desire to feel accepted, mean it can be tempting for people to compare themselves with others. They may compare themselves with the people around them or with actors and celebs¹ they see on TV, in movies, or in magazines.

But it's impossible to measure ourselves against others because the changes that come with puberty are different for everyone. Some people start developing early; others are late bloomers. Some get a temporary layer of fat to prepare for a growth spurt; others fill out permanently, and still others feel like they stay skinny no matter how much they eat. It all depends on how our genes have programmed our bodies to act.

The changes that come with puberty can affect how both girls and guys feel about themselves. Some girls may feel uncomfortable or embarrassed about their maturing bodies. Others may wish that they were developing faster. Girls may feel pressure to be thin but guys may feel like they don't look big or muscular enough.

Outside Influences

It's not just development that affects self-esteem, though. Many other factors (like media images of skinny girls and bulked-up guys) can affect a person's body image too.

Family life can sometimes influence self-esteem. Some parents spend more time criticizing their kids and the way they look than praising them, which can reduce kids' ability to develop good self-esteem.

People also may experience negative comments and hurtful teasing about the way they look from classmates and peers. Sometimes racial and ethnic prejudice is the source of such comments. Although these often come from ignorance, sometimes they can affect someone's body image and self-esteem.

Healthy Self-Esteem

If you have a positive body image, you probably like and accept yourself the way you are. This healthy attitude allows you to explore other aspects of growing up, such as developing good friendships, growing more independent from your parents, and challenging yourself physically and mentally. Developing these parts of yourself can help boost your self-esteem.

A positive, optimistic attitude can help people develop strong self-esteem. For example, saying, "Hey, I'm human" instead of "Wow, I'm such a loser" when you've made a mistake, or not blaming others when things don't go as expected.

Knowing what makes you happy and how to meet your goals can help you feel capable, strong, and in control of your life. A positive attitude and a healthy lifestyle (such as exercising and eating right) are a great combination for building good self-esteem.

Tips for Improving Your Body Image

Some people think they need to change how they look or act to feel good about themselves. But actually all you need to do is change the way you see your body and how you think about yourself.

The first thing to do is recognize that your body is your own, no matter what shape, size, or color it comes in. If you're very worried about your weight or size, check with your doctor to verify that things are OK. But it's no one's business but your own what your body is like. Ultimately, you have to be happy with yourself.

Next, identify which aspects of your appearance you can realistically change and which you can't. Everyone (even the most perfect-seeming celeb) has things about themselves that they can't change and need to accept, like their height, for example, or their shoe size.

If there are things about yourself that you want to change and can (such as how fit you are), do this by making goals for yourself. For example, if you want to get fit, make a plan to exercise every day and eat nutritious foods. Then keep track of your progress until you reach your goal. Meeting a challenge you set for yourself is a great way to boost self-esteem!

Section B

Directions: Translate the following paragraph into Chinese.

During one's lifetime it is oneself that one spends the most time being with or dealing with. But it is precisely oneself that one has the least understanding of. When you are going upwards in life you tend to overestimate yourself. It seems that everything you seek for is within your reach; luck and opportunities will come your way and you are overjoyed that they constitute part of your worth. When you are going downhill you tend to underestimate yourself, mistaking difficulties and adversities for your own incompetence. It's likely that you think it wise for yourself to know your place and stay aloof from the world wearing a mask of cowardice, behind which the flow of sap in your life will be retarded. To get a thorough understanding of oneself is to gain a correct view of oneself and be a sober realist, aware of both one's strength and shortage.

IV Writing

Buying a new puppy can have significant effects on a household. 1, the puppy keeps the entire family awake for at least two solid weeks. Every night when the puppy is placed in its box, it begins to howl, yip (犬吠), and whine (闹声). 2 the lights go out and the house quiets down, the puppy continues to moan. A(n) 3 effect is that the puppy tortures the family by destroying material possessions. Every day something different is damaged. Family members find chewed belts and shoes, gnawed (咬) table legs, and ripped sofa cushions leaking stuffing. _____, the puppy often misses the paper during the paper-training stage of life, _____ making the house smell like the public restroom at a city bus station. Maybe the most serious problem, _____, is that the puppy causes family arguments. On one hand, parents argue with children about who is supposed to feed and walk the dog. _____, children argue about who gets to play with the puppy first. These continual arguments, along with the effects of sleeplessness and the loss of valued possessions, can really disrupt a household. _____ the puppy gets a bit older does the household settle back to normal.

Section C

Directions: Write a short essay with a clear central idea and effective development in about 150 words. You should base your writing on the following situation and give consideration to the unity, coherence and variety of each paragraph.

In order to make the best impression in job interviews, more and more Chinese college students and recent university graduates are going under the knife for cosmetic surgery. Imagine yourself as a cosmetic surgeon being interviewed by a newspaper reporter. What comments or advice would you give?

Tips for English Learning

Improving Your Writing (2) — Achieve Sentence Variety

There are a number of ways to add variety to your writing. Imagine yourself cutting up a sentence into individual words and placing them in a paper bag. Now shake it up! Now lay out your sentence and experiment. Can you make two sentences out of one? Can you put your sentence back to front? Try turning your sentence into a question. Or, if you think your sentence is too short, you may want to add another sentence to it. If you have a really important point, perhaps a famous person has said something similar. In other words, there may be a quote you can use to strengthen your writing.

The following tips may help you achieve sentence variety.

- ◆ Vary the length of your sentences. In general, use short sentences to emphasize ideas. Use longer sentences to explain, define, or illustrate ideas.
- ◆ Put key words and ideas at the beginning or end of a sentence. Don't bury a main point in the middle of a long sentence. To emphasize key words, place them at the beginning or (better yet) at the end.
- ◆ Vary sentence types and structures. Vary sentence types by including occasional questions and commands. Vary sentence structures by blending simple, compound, and complex sentences.
- ◆ Use active verbs. Don't overwork the passive voice or forms of the verb "to be". Instead, use active verbs in the active voice.
- ◆ Use specific nouns and verbs. To convey your message clearly and keep your readers engaged, use concrete and specific words that show what you mean.

Booking Online and Saving the Environment

When you are looking to book a holiday, it is unlikely that you will think about how green your booking decision is, but it is definitely something that should be taken into consideration. By “green” we are of course talking about the impact on the environment.

When looking to book a holiday, you will probably find that you are faced with two main decisions. The first is to go into a travel agency, pick up a stack of brochures half the size of a person, read through them and go back with just the one and book with the travel agents directly or over the phone. The second is to miss out the shops and brochures altogether and go onto the Internet.

The Internet holds many advantages over the high street travel agents, the main one being convenience. You can go online to look at holidays at any time of the day, whether it is in that 20 minutes before work starts in the morning, half an hour at your desk at lunchtime or even at home on your laptop in front of the television at night. There are no time constraints to going online, while the travel agents are usually massively busy at times when people can actually go, i.e. lunch hours or at the weekend. You could use the telephone but you wouldn't be able to see the pictures or all the details of the holidays, so you would probably be sent a brochure anyway.

There are websites on the Internet that make shopping for holiday deals much easier. These websites are known as price comparison websites. Icelolly, Travel Supermarket and Deal Checker are examples of some of the best-known price comparison sites to look for cheap holiday deals, and they essentially search through lots of different tour operators so that you don't have to. The results are then displayed on one page from which you can book, meaning that you don't even need a lot of time to do this.

The contrast with the travel agencies is that you probably have to take two trips, with brochure reading in between, and this is where the green side of things comes in. The piles and piles of brochures are definitely not green, and the amount of unnecessary paper used can't be good for the environment. In the days of the Internet, smartphone, tablets and computers, there is really no need for such a large amount of paper to be wasted. So not only will it save you time and effort to book online, it will do a little bit towards saving the environment too!

第二部分: 阅读选择(第11~15题, 每题2分, 共10分)

阅读下面短文, 请从短文后所给各题的4个选项(A、B、C、D)中选出1个最佳选项。

Why Lack of Sleep Could Be Making You Fatter

Sleepless nights don't just ruin your mood the next day — they could also damage your waistline. According to new research in the August issue of the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, sleep deprivation can cause people to pack on extra pounds.

Researchers at the New York Obesity Nutrition Research Centre at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital found that sleep-deprived people seem to burn the same number of calories as the well-rested, but they consume about 300 more calories a day. Given that it takes just 3,500 calories to add a pound to your body, those calories can quickly turn into extra weight.

But there are several other reasons that sleep loss could lead to weight gain, says sleep disorder specialist Michael Breus. When we get too little shut-eye, our metabolism (新陈代谢) slows down to conserve energy. That slowdown triggers the release of the hormone cortisol (荷尔蒙皮质醇), which increases appetite. Your body thinks it needs more energy, so it asks for more food.

In a vicious cycle, sleep loss also causes our bodies to release more ghrelin, another hormone that signals hunger, and less leptin, the hormone that tells your stomach that it's full. With your hormones no longer working in the normal way, your body wants more food and lacks the sensitivity to know when to stop eating. Not to mention that being awake more hours gives you more time to snack.

"The later you're up at night, the greater the likelihood that you're going to eat," Breus says, and "you're more likely to eat high-fat, high-carb foods."

One other contributing factor to such weight gain is that the body burns the most calories during REM sleep, a deeply restful phase. Less sleep means less time in REM.

For optimal health, experts say you should try to get 7.5 hours of sleep a night. If you have trouble sleeping, stick to a nightly routine, exercise during the day, banish worries to a journal, and keep pre-bedtime activities relaxing.

11. This passage is mainly about _____.
A. the influence of sleep loss on weight
B. the effect of sleep deprivation on mood
C. the release of the hormone cortisol
D. the implications of a new research finding
12. Sleep-deprived people consume more calories, which will _____.
A. make them energetic
B. turn into extra pounds
C. damage their mood
D. cause them to feel sleepy
13. According to Michael Breus, sleep loss can _____.
A. decrease people's appetite
B. slow down energy conservation
C. trigger the need for more food
D. lead to a vicious cycle
14. The word "optimal" in paragraph 7 is closest in meaning to _____.
A. best
B. positive
C. optional
D. appropriate
15. To attack sleep troubles, you can _____.
A. exercise regularly at night
B. do more pre-bedtime activities
C. keep a journal at night
D. follow a set routine every night

第三部分: 概括段落大意和补全句子(第16~25题, 每题1分, 共10分)

阅读下面短文, 请完成短文后的2项测试任务:(1) 从第16~20题后所给的6个选项中为第①~⑤段每段选择1个正确的小标题;(2) 从第21~25题后所给的6个选项中选择5个正确选项, 分别完成每个句子。

Twitter's Most Influential Users

- ① Twitter is today's most popular social networking site. What is it that drives people to Twitter, drives the trending topics, and directs the discussions people are having on Twitter? The most influential Twitter users! These are the people that can get Twitter users tweeting and can get a large number of followers. These are the top categories of Twitter's most influential users.
- ② Celebrities will always have a large influence on society. The influence they have on twitter is incredible. Twitter is an easy way for fans to connect with their favorite celebrity and many celebrities are taking advantage of Twitter's popularity. Every celebrity tweet starts a firestorm of retweets, replies, and discussions about what a celebrity just tweeted. A good example of this is that the trending topics often revolve around a celebrity or something that a celebrity recently tweeted. Celebrity tweets also become news in the world of celebrity news. Celebrities now use Twitter to communicate with the public instead of issuing statements, and also use their accounts to dispel rumors, make announcements, and promote their movies, albums, or books. Moreover, because there are so many celebrity tabloids (小报), simple tweets about their everyday lives will also become front-page news.
- ③ News organizations do play a large role in getting news out to people through Twitter and influencing the discussions that take place on Twitter as we're all affected by the news of the day. Retweets by twitter users of important stories are an easy and powerful way to get the word out about a story they think is important. Twitter allows news organizations to let people know about an event very quickly, and when a story is important or gains attention, it will quickly be retweeted by enough people to make it a trending topic or a top tweet. We will always have the need for news organizations to provide us with information on the world's events. Twitter makes spreading those news stories quickly very easy.
- ④ With more politicians creating Twitter accounts, Twitter has become a way for users to spread the word about a politician they support and for politicians to get the word out to more people about upcoming events and their general message. Following and listing politicians gives users a simple way to stay connected with and informed about what those politicians want to communicate. Politicians will always have an influence on our daily lives and they also have quite an influence on Twitter.

⑤ Twitter's popularity blows out of proportion with millions of people joining, including celebrities and businesses. This will, in turn, prompt a good majority of the internet society to join and see what the whole fuss was about by joining, tweeting and using all the Twitter related services.

Task 1

16. Paragraph ①: _____

The Rise of the Toilet Texter

We know where some of you are reading this.

A recently released survey of the mobile phone habits of Americans, going where few other surveys care to go, has found that 75 percent of the ordinary people has used their mobile devices while on the toilet. (26) _____

The survey of 1,000 people by the marketing agency 11mark found that private contemplation has given way to toilet-time talking, texting, shopping, using apps, or just surfing the Web, by both sexes and most ages. (27) _____

It gets weirder. One-quarter of Americans say they will not go to the bathroom without their devices. While 63 percent have answered calls, 41 percent have called someone else while enthroned. Sixteen percent in the 28-to-35 group, the youngest sample surveyed, have made purchases there. A mere 8 percent of the oldest group has felt such retail urgency. Understandably, given their infrequent chances at privacy, people with children are more likely to talk on the phone than are the childless. (28) _____

Hope you are sitting down for this: 20 percent of males have at one time joined a conference call from the toilet. Thirteen percent of American women have participated in meetings from the toilet. (29) _____ Be grateful that location-based tracking is not yet so prevalent. Be worried about the rise of video on mobile devices. Ignore all background noises. Really.

This is, in a sense, an evidence to our collective passion for communication and contact over all other needs, and a lesson in how quickly ideas of decorum (礼貌得体) adjust to the times. (30) _____ If someone is making or taking calls while on the toilet, they are most likely using a BlackBerry. Using an app or playing on Facebook most often is done on an iPhone. In general, Android owners are more likely than owners of other phones to use them on the toilet.

- A. It is also a decent read on brand-related habits.
- B. That is every fifth male co-worker, and every eighth female colleague.
- C. Among those 65 and older, however, only 47 percent have used their mobile devices on the toilet.
- D. Married people are far more likely than the single to text.
- E. Single people are far more likely than the mated to text.
- F. Among those aged 28 to 35, the figure is 91 percent.

The Price of Progress

"We've become the (31) _____ of our own success," Dr. Jackson said of the public health mission that cleared cities of congested slums. "By living far from where we work, we reduced crowding and improved the (32) _____ of our air and water, which drove down rates of infectious disease." But as people have moved farther and farther from where they work, shop and socialize, the rates of chronic diseases have (33) _____.

Public transportation has not kept pace with the (34) _____ of suburbs and exurbs (远郊). Nor are there enough sidewalks, nearby parks and safe places to walk, cycle or play outdoors in many, if not most, towns. Parents spend hours in cars getting to and from work; children are bused or driven to and from school; and those who can't drive must depend on others to take them everywhere or risk becoming (35) _____ isolated.

In 1974, 66 percent of all children walked or biked to school. By 2000, that number had (36) _____ to 13 percent. "Children who grow up in suburbia (郊区) can't meet their life needs without getting a ride somewhere," Dr. Jackson said. "The average teen in suburbia says it's boring."

His new book, "Designing Healthy Communities," a(n) (37) _____ piece to a coming public television series, says: "When there is nearly nothing within walking distance to interest a young person and it is near-lethal to bicycle, he or she must give up autonomy — a(n) (38) _____ every creature must develop just as much as strength and endurance." The book was written with Stacy Sinclair, director of education at the Media Policy Centre in Santa Monica, Calif.

"We've engineered physical activity out of children's lives," Dr. Jackson said in a(n) (39) _____. "Only a quarter of the children in California can pass a basic fitness test, and two in seven volunteers for the military can't get in because they're not in good enough physical condition."

The health consequences, he said, are (40) _____. Not only are Americans of all ages fatter than ever, but also growing numbers of children are developing diseases once seen only in adults: Type 2 diabetes (糖尿病), heart disease and fatty livers (脂肪肝).

A. socially	E. terrifying	I. capacity
B. victims	F. quality	J. dropped
C. approach	G. raised	K. interview
D. expansion	H. soared	L. companion

第六部分: 完形补文(第41~50题, 每题1.5分, 共15分)

Body Image

Nowadays, a large number of people are (0) encouraged (courage) to be dissatisfied with their bodies by plastic surgeons, diet plans, and diet pills — all of which foster that (41) _____ (satisfaction) to make a profit. However, in my opinion, to build a positive body image requires a (42) _____ (balance) diet and (43) _____ (health) lifestyle.

In daily life, to eat more fruits and vegetable than meat will help us keep fit. The best way to keep ourselves in shape is to do some (44) _____ (vigor) exercise every day.

Instead of feeling self-conscious and (45) _____ (shame), or believing your body is a shame of personal (46) _____ (fail) and that you are not as attractive as everyone else, you should have a real and clear (47) _____ (perceive) of your body parts, appreciate your body for the way it is, and feel (48) _____ (comfort) and confident.

When we love ourselves rather than covet and pine for (49) _____ (possible) standards, we are happier, healthier and ultimately more (50) _____ (fulfill).
